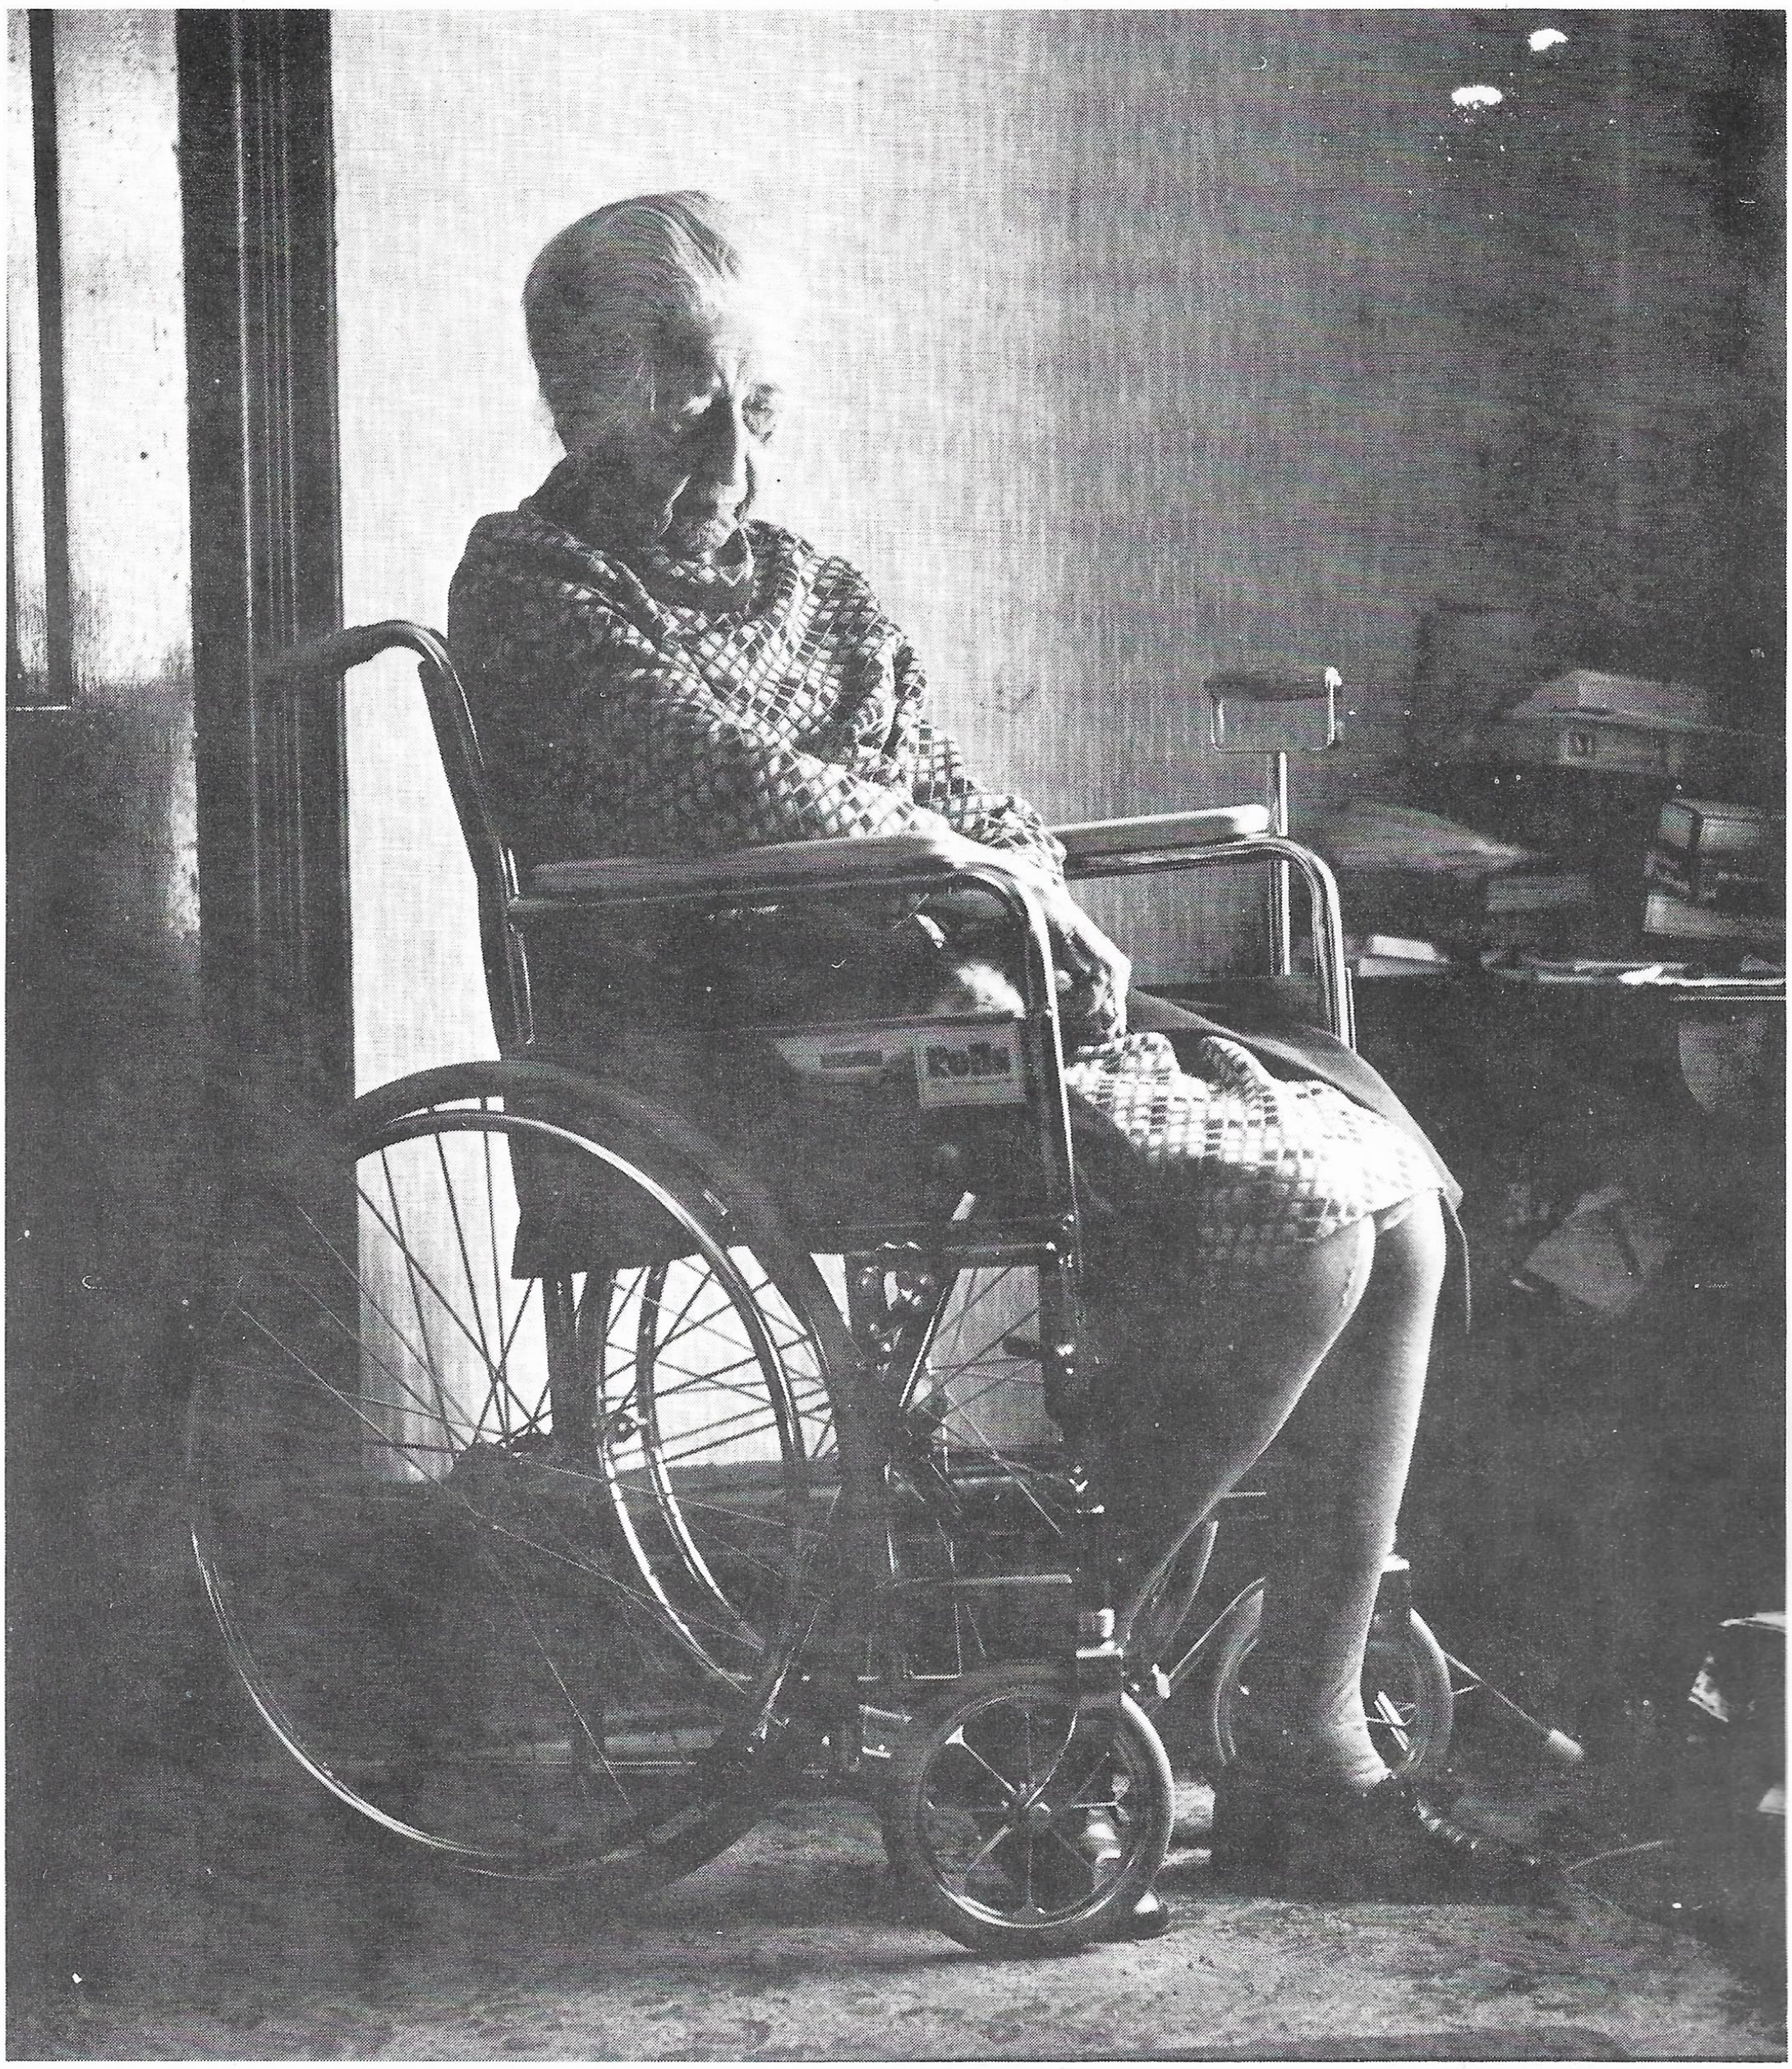
GOD MAY HELP THOSE WHO HELP THEMSELVES, BUT HOW ABOUT THOSE WHO CAN'T?



There are times when people can help themselves, and times when they can't. When they can't, your contributions to the United Way can mean the difference between hope and despair.

Give. So that those who can't help themselves today, will be able to help others tomorrow.

THE TALE OF THE LOST PUPPIES

by RAY PALMER

An editorial, written by Ray Palmer in 1958, generated more mail from readers than any other article ever published in SEARCH. Since Ray's death, there have been numerous requests that the "Tale of the Lost Puppies" be reprinted. . .

Requested Reprint

May we take a little of your time to tell you the tale of a pair of six-week-old puppies? Our youngest daughter, who is eleven, is quite a hand with animals. She has a dog who would put any of those mathematical dogs you've seen on television to shame. Her dog, who is named Bitsy, can not only count, she can add. She can add up to sixteen. Any combination of two numbers which total any figure up to sixteen. Sometimes she can even add combinations of three numbers. She rarely makes mistakes, and these only when distracted. In addition to this feat, Bitsy can do all the standard tricks like playing dead, rolling over, jumping through hoops, begging, walking on her hind feet, dancing, looking ashamed, etc.

Well, among her accomplishments are frequent litters of pups. The last time it was seven. . . And here's where the story comes in. Jennifer gives these puppies away free. She advertises in the papers, and with one exception has always managed to dispose of all the puppies. On this last litter, there were two puppies remaining, both the most lovable things you ever saw. Even your editor liked them. One man, a farmer, took both. He put them in the trunk of his car, left it open a bit so they could breathe, drove off. In a short time he was back. Had the puppies come home? No? Well, he'd arrived and found them missing. They'd gotten out somewhere along the road. He had a clue—someone had heard puppies crying. So, we went along with him, searched the road on both sides for five miles. No luck. No crying puppies. The farmer finally went on home.

Your editor went back to his work. No go. Those puppies were only six weeks old, not able to fare for themselves, and this is quite open country, that is, a puppy can wander in the woods until it starves to death. So we went hunting. Two days we hunted. A clue—a neighbor had seen them playing with another dog beside the road. More searching. The neighbor's dog had wandered out after supper, and had been gone for hours in the woods, but no sign of puppies. Apparently the older dog had led the puppies into the woods while playing, then had abandoned them there when tired of the game.

More hunting. This time we got Bitsy and Jennifer, and we had Bitsy "pick up the trail" and follow. Up the road—but then a neighbor dog began barking, and Bitsy was diverted by other interests. So we drove along in our car, stopping every hundred feet, listening. Finally, we thought we heard something. Faint and distant, across a wide field and in a woodlot. Was it the puppies? A long hike through rough terrain—and your editor's legs, being partially paralyzed, are not up to rough terrain. But after two days without food, those puppies would be very uncomfortable. They might suffer for a week or more before they died. Your editor isn't very tough, apparently. He missed sleep over things like this.

But yes! That did sound like a puppy crying! We stumbled on, and now Bitsy was on the trail too! And with Jennifer, she passed us up, went on, finally knelt in a clump of underbrush. The crying could not be heard for a mile! No doubt about it. Two puppies, bawling their heads off. Jennifer carried one, and your editor carried the other. They cried every inch of the way. Apparently from joy. At least we were a bit moist-eyed, and for the same reason.

Two lost puppies, found!

It's a good feeling.

But more good feeling to follow. Did you ever see two starved puppies eat? Eat until their little bellies dragged on the ground, immobolizing them? And cry for more?

Yes, we called the farmer, and he came back for his puppies, this time taking no chances of them falling out of his car. We went back to his farm a couple of Sundays later, to assure ourselves that the puppies had a good home. It was good to see them scamper about.

Ever since we've been thinking. All over the world there must be millions of people like your editor. It must be true that almost everybody would feel joy over two lost puppies found, grin with delight as they filled their hungry little stomachs, feel a satisfied feeling that now, tonight, they could go to bed and sleep without being haunted by the thought of two little puppies, alone in the woods, crying piteously, and eventually starving to death. The hunt cost us the better part of two days—two days that meant another issue of SEARCH had to be skipped!—two days in which we panted and groaned with aching legs and scratched skin, and accumulated nettles and thorns, some of which remained in the skin to fester. All for a pair of lost puppies.

Then we think of a Sputnik, of a scientific achievement almost beyond anything Man has yet achieved —and we think of the promise of the future it brings, and also the threat—the threat of atomic war from unstoppable rockets. And we wonder. WHO are the people who are making these threats? WHERE are the people who hunt lost puppies? WHY do the few threateners menace the many puppy-hunters? WHEN will the tender-hearted majority of us silence forever the mouths of the troublemakers? WHAT are we puppy-hunters doing wrong, that we should be so helpless before so few?

The problem seems unanswerable. Even incomprehensible. Then we think of the dog in the Sputnik. Sacrificed in the interest of science. Placed in space to die alone, crying, frightened, abandoned. For us? So that Man shall advance?

It cannot be! We must be devils! We must be madmen! We must be inhuman! Is THIS Man advancing toward his great destiny? Is this Man growing in stature until he is god-like? Is this Man, moral, beautiful, loving, tender, compassionate, happy, visionary?

Who is the greatest in the eyes of the Creator: the men who placed the Sputnik in its orbit, or the dog, Laika, who died alone, further from friends than any living creature that ever lived on earth!

Let it not be construed by anyone that we are condemning Communism in particular because it so happened that the Russians were the first to launch Sputniks. Americans would have launched them too, would even have been first if they had tended to their business. Thus, it might have been an American dog that had been sent aloft. What if it had been one of our two forlorn lost puppies? What if it had been one of our two frantically tailwagging, joyous, grateful puppies who were found?

The old feeling is back. We think of Laika, whom we have never seen, and we can't sleep. Only a dog. Just a dog. No soul (?). Millions of dogs like her. We'll have dozens more in our household, and probably more of them will get lost, and we'll have to hunt them through the weary hours. Dogs are cheap. . .

But man is cheaper! Let man go into space and die, if he chooses! Let man destroy man, if he chooses! Let man experience loneliness, terror, hunger, pain, if he chooses!

But Laika did not choose!

But wait, aren't we being too emotional? Think of the men's lives that may be saved because of what we have learned through the death of one (or more) dogs. Is not a man's life more valuable than a hundred, a thousand dogs? Is it not man's destiny to master his planet, and eventually his solar system, and maybe even his universe? If dogs can help, by dying, in these great aspirations, is this not fitting? Is not the dog the servant of man, even unto death?

It is getting hard to think—to reason. What is right and what is wrong?

Remember how we felt when the dogs were lost? Remember the wide eyes staring at the ceiling, picturing the dogs dying of hunger? Whence came those feelings that disturb us so? Reason? What good is reason, when such emotions can destroy it? We can reason endlessly as to why Laika should have died in space—but all the same, our emotions keep disturbing us. Can right things disturb us? Or is it when a thing is wrong that we feel disturbed?

Now we have the answer. Our science, our civilization is wrong: as long as we conduct it without emotion, without moral values, without kindness, without pity, without love, without consideration, without imposing our will on that of others, man, woman, child—or dog!

"Master the Earth, oh man, and subdue it—but remember, thou shalt not kill."

"Profiteth it a man if he shall gain the moon, and be haunted by the spectre of a dog?"

HAPPENINGS NOW

A PSYCHIC FOR BUSINESS

Do you want advice? Do you need help in finding oil, or a silver ore vein? Perhaps you should see Ron Warmoth, a 36 year old business consultant who lives modestly in Los Angeles. He is really a business psychic. Successful and well-known, too.

There has been much favorable publicity about his work. There have also been articles in various ESP magazines, (he writes a monthly column called "Economic Predictions" in Hefley Psychic Report) Fate magazine, and the National Enquirer. Recently an article appeared in Newsweek, on their business page.

He claims to be 90% accurate, but tells his clients to get a second opinion, as they might with a doctor. Warmoth believes he is a good salesman and promotor. Timber is a good investment now, he thinks.

Using his psychic abilities, he has found the employees who were stealing at their place of employment, he can find a gold ore vein by walking over it, and will run his hands over a natural resources map to see if the area of the map contains oil, or not.

Warmoth reportedly has said that much of his advice is only common sense, but he believes that he does have special powers. "It's like remembering, a total replay of all a person's affairs and the outcome."

ALONE IN THE UNIVERSE?

An increasing number of scientists are now thinking that our civilization on earth is the only one in the universe. Dr. Michael H. Hart of Trinity University of San Antonio, Texas, believes this. He has made a computer analysis of the conditions which hypothetical planets need to produce advanced life like ours, and has concluded that they would be very rarely found.

Hart says that the conditions needed for the creation of life and the evolution of an advanced civilization are that the prevailing temperatures must be moderate, and they must remain so for at least 3.7 billion years (which is the time on this earth between the origin of life and our present level of life).

He concluded that earth just barely made it temperature-wise. At 93 million miles from the Sun, our temperature supports life. If earth had been only five percent closer in its orbit it would have resulted in a temperature near 900°. Or, if we had been only one percent farther from the sun, we would have been a glacial planet.

This is what so greatly limits the number of planets which could support civilization, thinks Hart. This, and the long time which the temperature must remain stable in order for life to evolve, as ours has.

Hart's views that we are alone in the universe is a minority view. Astronomers have been trying to detect radio signals from space which might be from other civilizations, but after nineteen years of listening, no such signals have been heard.

Senator William Proxmire considers the "Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence" worthy of his well-known "Golden Fleece". Most of the funds for the work has been cut off by Congress.

Shklovsky, a Soviet astronomer, says, "The conclusion of our solitariness of the universe (practical if not absolute) is of great ethical significance to mankind. The value of our technological, and especially humanist achievements, is thereby immeasurably enhanced.

THE BRAIN-ACTIVATED ARM

An artificial arm which can be operated by the thoughts of the wearer is being developed. Electrical impulses from the brain are picked up by skin sensors and are translated into movement. The amputee's brain can order six or seven functions through a microcomputer that will be very natural; as he uses the system they will become close to second nature. Dr. Daniel Graupe, who has worked on the arm, says he sees no reason why the system can't be used on legs also, or to help persons who are paralized.

RECENT UFO'S IN THE PHILIPPINES

Three villages located about 380 miles southeast of Manilla recently saw a cluster of glowing objects about two hundred feet up.

In Pagadia City, 150 miles from Zamboanga, a disk-shaped object in the sky was reported by the police chief early one morning. This object also awakened many people in the area because of its very bright multicolored lights. A few minutes after the UFO was sighted, two loud explosions were heard, and the disk disappeared.

Five minutes later, a staff member of the Zamboanga Atmospheric, Geophysical, and Astronomical Services, saw the same, or a similar, bright object.

THE PSYCHIC LIFE OF THE UNBORN

Can you remember being born? Many people seem to recall their birth, especially if it was a long drawn-out difficult affair. Dr. Tom Verney, Toronto, believes in the theories of Freud and Otto Rank which, as Rank says, are that "the roots of all neuroses can be attributed to a person's turbulent entry into the world."

Dr. Verney, author of soon to be published, "The Psychic Life of the Unborn", for the past six years has regressed patients to go back to their birth or before. Some people can recall events happening as long as three months before birth. Dr. Stanislar Grof tells of the case of a man—a patient—who remembered hearing laughter, a carousal, and trumpets—all muffled sounds. He had no idea when or where he had heard these sounds. Later, his mother told him that she had gone to a carnival not long before he was born.

Send your Happenings NOW clippings to us: Search Magazine, Amherst, Wisconsin 54406. We and all of the readers will appreciate them.

Dr. Varney told of a little boy who had very disturbing nightmares. He would flop around violently, yelling and cursing at the top of his voice, and once in a while quiet down and mutter words that sounded Latin and religious. He came from a well-adjusted middle class Roman Catholic family. All the other children in the family were fine. It was some time before the answer was found through Dr. Verney's help. The boy had been born prematurely, a very difficult and frustrating birth for the doctors to handle, and a priest was called to administer the last rites to the baby because it was thought he would not live. That situation explained the shouts, curses, and prayers the boy was reliving through nightmares!

Dr. Raymond Leboyer, a French obstetrician, pioneered in non-violent birth. He delivered babies in rooms with soft lights and music, then placed them immediately on the mother's stomach. After being bathed gently in warm water, the baby is kept with the mother.

Because of such pleasant memories of being born, Dr. Varney says, when these babies are five or six years old they have been found to be emotionally and physically more healthy, and more creative than children delivered in the conventional way.

It has been widely thought through the ages that babies entered the world having no memories, no feelings, and no thoughts. Now some people are beginning to think differently about the psychic life of the newborn, and even of the unborn.

LILETH LEGEND PAINTINGS

Artist Richard Callner of Albany, New York, had his nineteen oil paintings and twenty-two prints of the Biblical legend of Lileth exhibited at Cobleskill State College.

The legend says Lileth was the first wife of Adam. She brought him to Paradise. She had great feminine independence, beauty, and the power to bring down and control evil. She was supposed to be the serpent in the garden of Eden. She was also Satan's wife, and she destroyed children.

LOST CONTINENT OF ATLANTIS FOUND?

The Soviets believe they may have found ruins which could be the legendary Atlantis. They were found 200 to 300 miles west of the Portuguese mainland.

Dr. Andrew Aksenov, deputy director of the Soviet Academy's Institute of Oceanography said that photographs taken by scientists showed "vestiges of walls and great stairways."

He believes it could be Atlantis because of movement of sections of the Earth's crust. The photographs were taken between Portugal and the Portuguese island of Madeira in a mountainous undersea region.

Photographs were to be made public in Moscow. However, more investigations will need to be made before conclusions are reached.

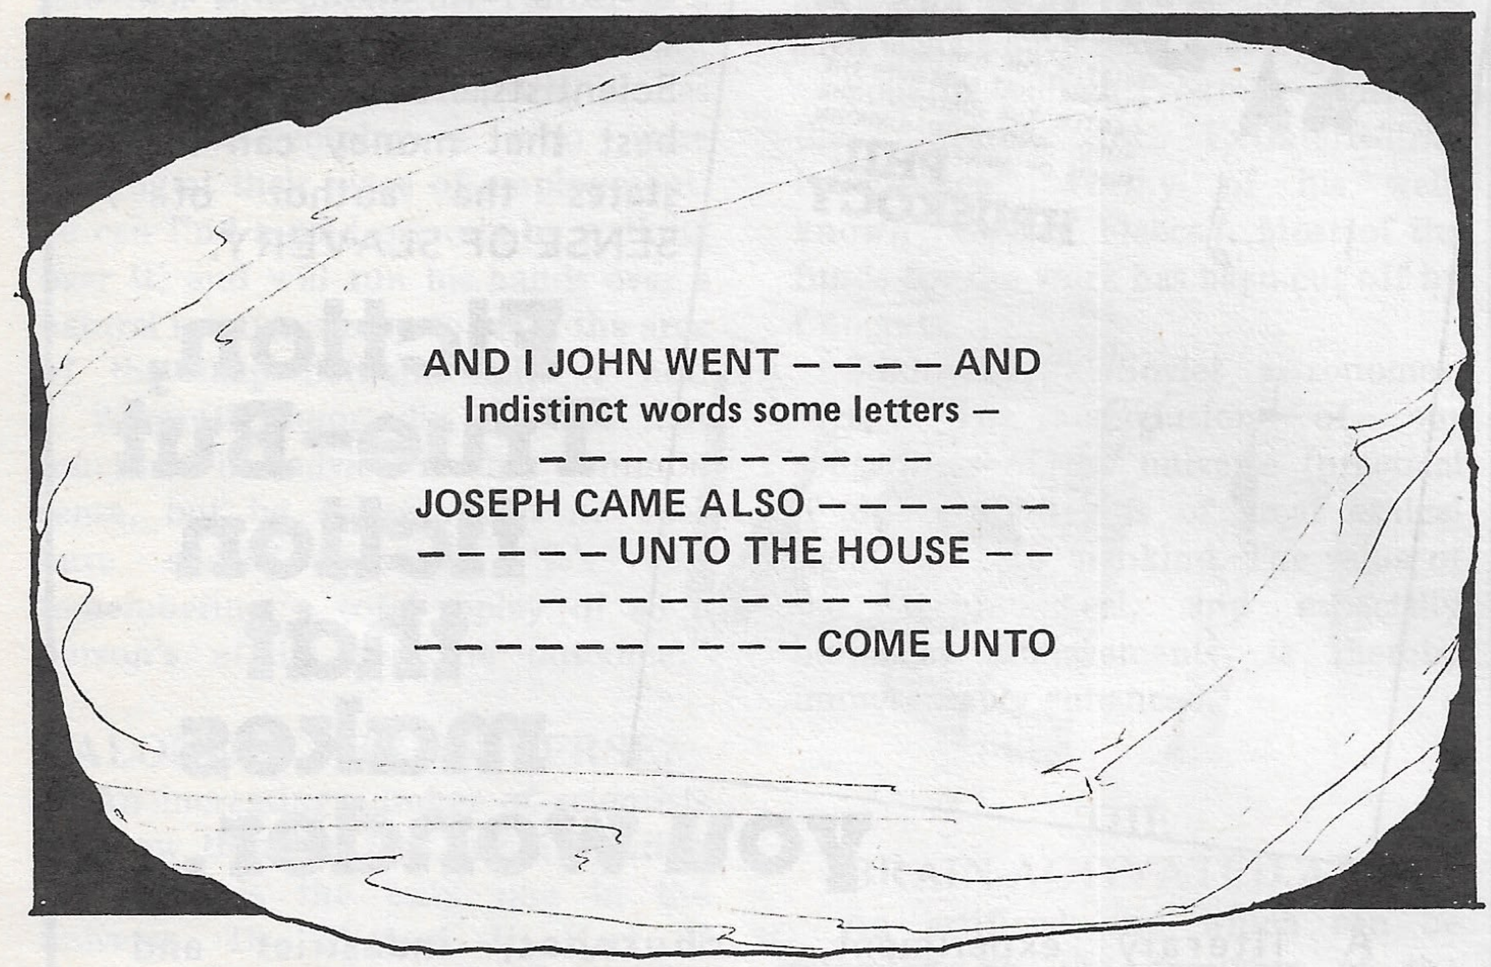
TRUE EXPERIENCES



A ROCK HOUND'S AMAZING FIND
By Ed J. Clark

In 1969-70, in Trinity County California, I had picked up a few nice boulders of green jade, nephrite, that came from the ancient territory river gravels which are at least 20 million years old according to the geological time table. I took these jade boulders with me on a trip to Barstow, California, where I did some rock hunting out on the Mojave Desert. I had a friend who had a large collection of gem rocks and a large slabbing saw and polishing equipment. We cut one of the jade boulders into ¼" slabs.

I took half the slabs, wrapped them in paper towels, and left the other slabs and larger pieces for my friend. I returned to Weaverville, Trinity County, and was staying in a motel there. I decided I would take the jade slabs and wash them in the kitchen sink with some dish detergent to remove the oil left on from the coolant used in sawing.

After the slabs were cleaned I was examining them, and in one slab I found printed in English capital letters, four lines as plain as if it had been written by typewriter, and this showed up to be inside the cut surface and not on the outside. Several of the words were not clear enough to make out completely, only a few letters of each. How could it be that plain English could be printed inside that piece of jade which had been buried in the old ancient river channel for so many millions of years? How could it be destined that only that boulder was chosen to be cut, and that it should be cut in the exact place and angle to show the print?

THE TRANSPARENT DOGS
By Wm. Adler

I have no explanation for the following experience. I only know that it is true and occurred a few years ago. It left me with a lot of unanswered questions.

It happened while I was attending a picnic in the country one bright mid-summer Sunday afternoon. After a big meal, and as a form of entertainment afterwards, everyone wanted to take a ride in an old buggy which the folks had brought for their children to play with.

While waiting by the side of the narrow road to take my turn for a ride I suddenly saw two dogs dash across, not over ten feet in front of me. A fairly large brown collie was followed by a small brown and white beagle hound. I stared in amazement—I could see right through both of them! They went on running through a wire fence like it was not there!

The best way I can describe this is that it was as though you held up a colored film which you could look through and see the colors on it. As the sun was very bright could it have revealed another dimension or vibration right here around us?

Since that time I have often wondered if dogs and cats do live on in another world after they die.

MYSTERY ON THE 747
By Captain Wilhelm Bernhart

I do hereby declare myself to be of sound mind and of body, 52 years of age, and a marine engineer.

After considerable deliberation I have concluded to record in writing the following. This concerns specifically the events that transpired on 19 December 1978 on Trans-World International Flight 0700 to London.

There evidently must come a time when what we regard as rationality must fade into insignificance when one comes face to face with the unconventional substance that all men must regard as truth. The following events will now unfold as I lived them.

I had boarded flight no. 0700 on 19 December 1978 at John F. Kennedy Airfield in New York City. The flight left slightly behind time of its scheduled departure of 8 p.m. My seat was in a non-smoking section, seat no. 33-1, on the port side of the Boeing 747 aircraft. All events aboard the aircraft seemed routine and normal. I enjoyed a delicious dinner and then came the scheduled movie. Approximately 1½ hours after the in-flight movie, the following events did occur.

Most of the passengers seemed to be asleep, however, I was awake. I noted a lady pass my seat in the aisleway and she proceeded to the water closet. Shortly thereafter, I noted three strange lights outside of the cabin window. The lights came in close to the aircraft and became rather large and then faded away to about the size of an ordinary pea, I would judge, and then disappeared entirely. At the time, I thought they must be some type of reflection or something.

Shortly after this, from the forward part of the 747 came several persons (or what I regarded as persons). As they approached and became more clear, I could see that they were wearing some type of skin-tight silver-gray mesh garments and were carrying in their hands transparent tubes about two feet long or so and about two inches in diameter. These tubes gave off an eerie green pulsating glow. The figures were stopping at the seats of the passengers and were slowly passing these glowing tubes over the passengers' heads.

I must state here that when I first saw these beings my first impression was that they were a theatrical troupe or something of this nature, but as they approached me I could easily see that the mesh garments they were wearing not only covered the entire body but the face as well. Seemingly, there were no seams in the garments nor were they wearing any kind of belts or paraphenalia. One of the beings stopped in front of me and I must admit my heart began to beat rapidly. However this may be, the being turned directly toward me and it is evident that a message was mentally transmitted to myself. I heard a voice in my mind say, "Do not be afraid. Your theory concerning the earth is correct. Stand by your convictions for the earth is truly hollow and is populated by a great race. One day we will come forward to the surface world, but the time is not yet. We shall come in time. Be not afraid, you have a mission, all will come as needed."

After this, the beings moved slowly to the back of the 747 still waving these light wands gently back and forth in a type of rhythm. I noted that there were nine beings all together and that they were exactly the same size in height and structure. That is to say, of petite physical build and approximately 5' 2" or so in height. I turned in my seat and watched as they proceeded toward the back of the 747. I must state here also that all of the passengers seemed asleep or under some type of control! I was totally awake and in absolute possession of my senses. A short time later the beings came from the back of the aircraft moving at a slow pace towards the front. This time, two of the beings stopped directly in front of my seat and again the same telepathic message was repeated to me. After that they worked their way slowly toward the front of the aircraft and disappeared from view. A few moments later, there was a bright flash of light outside the cabin window and the 747 seemed to lift slightly upward and forward, then all was normal again with the 747's flight.

Moments later the lady came out of the water closet and for some reason I noted that approximately 30 minutes or thereabouts had elapsed by the hands on my wristwatch. As the woman came up the aisle, I quickly moved from my seat and spoke to her. I said, "Did you notice anything unusual?" She answered, "No, should I have? What do you mean?" I then asked her how long she had been in the water closet. She replied in a rather huffy manner, "Just a few moments, why?" Again, I noted by my watch that it was about 30 minutes or so since the woman had entered the water closet. This means that this lady was in the water closet for 30 some minutes and imagined that she had been there only moments!

I must state here that there is some confusing time factor which I cannot account for, I cannot even recall the exact hour of this incident. I have puzzled over this for some time. But nonetheless, I had noted on my watch that this incident occurred in a time span of approximately 30 minutes or thereabouts. I apologized to the lady and said, "I am sorry, I didn't mean to sound strange, but I must have been having a rather strange kind of dream." She looked at me for a moment, shook her head, and scurried on towards the back of the aircraft someplace. I did not see this lady when we deplaned at London. I should also like to call attention to the fact that I did ask one of the female flight attendants in the morning if she had noticed anything unusual last night. She replied, "Not that I know of," and smiled. I let the matter go at that.

In summation of this matter, I can only state here that all of the events contained in this testimony are true and DID happen. This means in brief, that alien beings did board flight 0700 in the wee hours of the night over the dark Atlantic at approximately 39,000 feet, and did manage somehow to enter the aircraft without depressurization occurring or anything else of an abnormal nature. When daylight came, I noted two large gray marks on the wing outside my window, two arc-like marks approximately 40 feet apart! Something had evidently landed on that 747's wing and left some kind of residue!

One more thing I must note here for any who read this documentation. In the morning, the Captain of the aircraft announced via the public intercommunication system that we would be arriving much earlier than planned, and that in all of his 20-plus years of flying he had never seen such a tailwind as this flight had. This concludes my statement of events. They are true and did occur.

It has been only after very serious deliberation that I have decided to record this matter rather than keep it secret, irregardless of how it will be accepted. We are not alone on this Good Planet Earth!

I SCREAMED AT GOD– AND HE ANSWERED

By Janette North

Does God answer prayer? Of course he does.

One early spring day my youngest son's teacher called to say Brian was sick. Could I please come for him? We had had three or four inches of snow, then the sun came out, turning the snow to slush. The temperature dropped and the slush became ice. Driving over this frozen slush wasn't too bad, but about three-quarters of a mile from home, I noticed that the road ahead looked different. It seemed to be clear, and then I realized that it was a perfect glare of ice. Slowing down to a crawl, I started to cross this slick stretch of road. Even though I was crawling along, I began to lose control of my car. Back and forth it went and each time I came closer to the edge of the road. A short way ahead and on my left was a deep hole with a large piece of machinery in it.

Suddenly I could just see my car going off the road and onto the top of that machine. In panic I called out to God for help—"Please, dear God, help me, help me." Did I say I called out? No, I screamed at the top of my voice, "Please, dear God, help me!" In that instant my car turned away from that hole, turned around, headed back toward the way I had come from, and stopped. God had answered that frantic prayer.

However, that is not the only time God answered a prayer for me on that particular bit of road. Two or three years later, also in the spring, I was on my way home from work and it was raining quite hard. My family was waiting for me to come home and prepare the evening meal and naturally I was in a hurry. The speed limit on our road is forty miles an hour, and I was driving the limit. As I approached that same stretch of road, this time from the opposite direction, I could see that the road looked different. It had started to freeze and once more I realized that that stretch of road was slick with ice. As I hit the ice at forty miles an hour, I once more lost control of my car. Back and forth I went and suddenly I could just see myself going off the road, hitting a big dirt pile and rolling my car.

Once more I screamed at God, "Please, dear God, help me, help me," and as I screamed to God, my car turned crossways on the road, went straight across and through the only nearby driveway on that side of the road. The car made one more right turn and stopped just short of a pile of wood.

For a moment I just sat there and then I said, "Thank you, dear God," started my car, backed around, drove out onto that icy road and went on home.

Many times I have heard people say that God answers prayer in His own time. Well, I thank God that He answers prayer in my time too.

BEAUTIFUL GINSENG

by DR. RONALD P. ANJARD

The most popular as well as the most expensive herb in the world today is Ginseng. Extensive literature on the pharmacological effects of Ginseng mainly from Russia and the Far East produce an amazing array of positive results. A bibliography of scientific research published by the Chinese government alone lists 1500 references for the root. Their results are so broad that they stretch creditability. The popularity of Ginseng stems from the claims that it can and will prevent tiredness, headache, exhaustion, amnesia, depression and the debilitatory effects of old age. It is also useful in treating tuberculosis, diabetes and diseases of the nervous system, kidneys and cardiovascular system. Ginseng is also recorded as increasing mental efficiency, and increasing sexual potency. It has been said that "Ginseng will follow acupuncture as the next medical import from China."

Ginseng (jen-shen) means "Sacred Man-Root."

"Servicing and Tuning"

First discovered in Manchuria approximately 5000 years ago, the Jen-Shen (which means "sacred man-foot") has been the key in the Chinese doctors' medicine bags since. In the Shen Nung Pen Tshao Ching (published 2100 years ago), three classes of herbs are listed depending on their effectiveness. The most important, the "Kingly herbs", were mild and harmless even in large doses. They were used primarily for convalescence and prophylaxis. And Ginseng headed the list. The Chinese medical system was much different than ours. Chinese medicine was concerned predominantly with disease resistance by maintaining internal equilibrium rather than curing ills. Doctors were paid only when their "patients" were healthy. Sickness and disease were considered partially the doctor's fault. Thus they were expert at carefully "servicing and tuning" the body functions. Ginseng is also included in India's ancient medical book, the Atharva Veda.

The word of the plant's benefits spread from China to Europe in the late 1600's. Early French explorers discovered it growing wild in Canada. Later American colonists learned about the medicinal uses of the roots from the Indians. They used it to treat illnesses, overcome fatigue and the Indians even mixed it with other herbs to make a love potion. The colonists found Ginseng growing wild from New England to the lower Appalachians. George Washington was, among many, familiar with Ginseng. In 1904 a serious blight affected the American crops. Today, Ginseng is grown in many states, especially Virginia, Missouri, Arkansas, Wisconsin and my own state of Indiana.

Over Five Thousand Dollars Per Pound!

Ginseng is now commercially grown with difficulty in (about) eight countries. It can be found in its natural or "wild" state in at least five. The imperial Chinese root found only in the mountains of Manchuria sells for over five thousand dollars per pound in Hong Kong. Commercial Korean Ginseng roots, 5 years old, retails for approximately one hundred twenty dollars per pound in mid-America. Ginseng is available in concentrate, tea-bag, powder, instant and root form and often sold by Korean pharmaceutical companies. The American root is considered the lowest quality and sells for "only" about eighty dollars per pound. American Ginseng belongs to the same botanical family as the Chinese. Dr. T. Pao, a modern traditional Chinese practitioner feels that the American root is especially suited for skin problems.

Numerous studies and scientific papers have been published throughout the world dealing with Ginseng. Russian scientists, under the direction of Professor I. Brekhman, Head of Pharmacology of the Institute of Biologically Active Substances, have been chiefly interested in the action of Ginseng on the human body as a whole. Dr. Brekhman was able to demonstrate in controlled trials that groups of soldiers taking Ginseng had significantly greater stamina during extended physical exercise. Other major Russian studies on work capacity showed improved performance for tasks requiring speed, accuracy and stamina, such as telegraphy and proof-reading. They developed a unique mouse swimming stamina test which is now used world wide to evaluate Ginseng preparations. Professor Brekhman demonstrated increased performance of 35% with a single dose and up to 100% when Ginseng extract was administered for one month. German and English research reports verify these results.

The Russian astronauts used Ginseng during their space efforts. It was taken for resistance to disease and stress rather than for anti-fatigue or stimulation. The Russians were attempting to evaluate Chinese claims of Ginseng's prophylactic properties. Mice were subjected to a wide range of stresses including alcohol; strychnine poisoning, and anticancer drug toxicity; irridation; bacterial, viral and trypanosome infections; temperature extremes; bi-directional pressure and even tumor inoculation. Ginseng, particularly due to its glycosides, not only increased survival, but also aided the operation of the adrenal gland.

Used By Soviet Olympic Athletes

Ginseng is antagonistic to depressants such as alcohol and barbiturates. The stimulatory and anti-fatigue properties may be located in the central nervous system; there have even been reports of increased speed of learning conditioned reflexes, in exploratory behavior and ability for dark adaption. Many studies conducted at the Institute of Advanced Medical Training in Sofia (Bulgaria) deal with Ginseng's effects on cortical function. Professor Brekhman has been actively compaigning for the use of Ginseng as a safe, non habit-forming, anti-fatigue material, which unlike caffeine, does not cause over-excitement or insomnia. Ginseng lasts longer too.

So strong is the Soviet belief in the value of Ginseng that it is reportedly specified for all their Olympic athletes as well as their Cosmonauts. There is even a Soviet state law which regulates the cultivation of Ginseng and protects it from extermination.

Korean reports, measuring the effect of Ginseng on the skin, RNA production, DNA production, and ATP formation, show faster recovery after stress and enhanced production of RNA, DNA and ATP. American research suggests that Ginseng seems to justify further studies in wound healing, certain types of cancer, diabetes and Hodgkins's disease.

According to Dr. St. Fulder, Dept. of Human Biology, Chelsea College, England, the stress response, whether behavioral (such as fear) or homeostatic (such as temperature control) is exaggerated but then returns to normal more quickly. Thus, the long term adrenal capacity is maintained or even increased. A new class of drugs, "adaptogens", has been proposed. These are harmless and ineffective in the absence of stress but can return body processes to normal when faced with stress. This concept is obviously a landmark. This is not only a restatement in physiological terminology of the Chinese concept, but it also provides a testable basis for investigation.

Western medicine primarily attacks the disease, and as a result regards Ginseng as of little or no value. Prevention is not only better for the person, but also cheaper than the cure. It is in the areas of preventive medicine, geriatrics and convalescence where Ginseng and other "adaptogens" may give medicine a new, positive direction. Intensive research combined with its popularity should soon provide definitive answers. We now can understand why the Orientals considered Ginseng to be the best of the "Kingly" herbs.

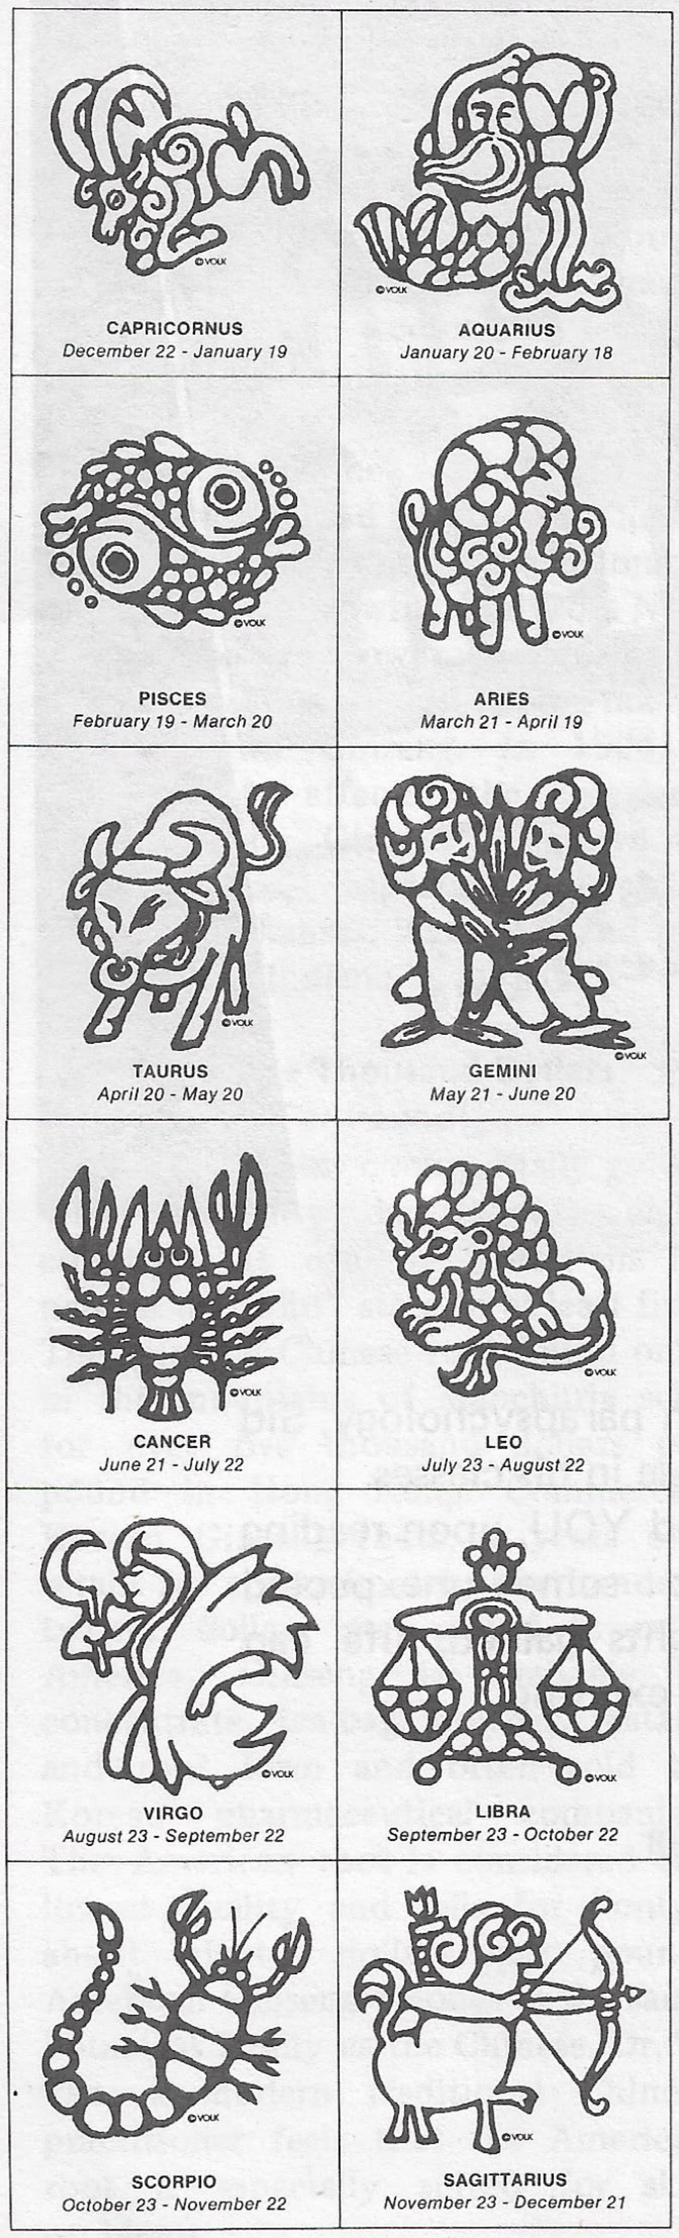
YOUR ASTROLOGY CAPSULE



ARIES March 21-April 20.

June-July-Aug. '79: Aries' interests over the next three months lie largely in speculation, investment, love, children's matters, with Jupiter in this angle of Aries chart. Expansion in these areas. Accent heavily on finances, too, curb Extravagance and watch your wallet! Safeguard all property, possessions over this period too; mail, messages, relatives' matters will be important to you later in this period. Saturn can be a damper at times, and health still must be watched; avoid going to extremes and conserve energy. A relative, pet, could cause some concern now. Use care in travel. Mishaps, discord in the home; be patient, Aries.

TAURUS April 21-May 20.

June-July-Aug. '79: With Mars in Taurus now, don't be too hasty though energies may be high. Important papers signed, significant correspondence. You can accomplish much now, may be considering re-locating, may gain through property, have larger quarters too. Money comes to the home, with some Taureans through a parent. Love, marital, still subject to surprises, the unexpected. Some Taureans separate, some form romantic alliances. Avoid too much complacence, taking anything or anyone for granted. Might be a celebration in the home. Keep a low profile as it will have more effect and be more impressive.

GEMINI May 21-June 21.

June-July-Aug. '79: A busy, active period for "Twins" with some important papers signed. Partnership, marital, still open to question, some Geminis will separate, some be on the verge of forming new emotional ties. Be alert—you may not be able to fully trust everyone. Hold steady, be realistic, understanding. Mind and body go together, so think straight, take care of your physical health too. Outlook brightens. Your magnetism fans someone's ardor though you may be unaware of this at first. Later in this period, your financial picture takes an upward sweep; this extends to your work or career as well, as your prestige rises. Concentrate on self, if you have been making too many sacrifices, and don't from now on, hide your light behind any bushel.

CANCER June 22-July 22.

June-July-Aug. '79: Health, work, hold curious vibrations for Cancerians from time to time and they may have been manifesting for some long while now; things in your job that you may find difficult to pin down, or someone there is in your hair, so to speak. Love exciting. You are a deeply sensitive sign, are storing up many different impressions. Try not to let these worry you, but take one thing at a time, one step at a time, as the Chinese say. Some possible concern over a friend or a child early in this period. Protect your own privacy, it's most important to you now so you can hear yourself think, calm the mind, which in turn benefits the health. August can be turbulent. Avoid involvement with strangers, don't take risks of a physical nature.

LEO July 23-August 22.

June-July-Aug. '79: Your magnetism high now, Leo, with Jupiter in your own sign for the next few months, you may be living it up, the sky's the limit sort of thing. Build up health, though you might be in contact with someone who is ill. Love is found close by, yet try not to be too obvious, Leo, sometimes it's not too wise. A friendship may have a romantic aura, regardless. Could be some anxiety in regard to a parent or a parental matter. Some privacy, low-key stuff, quiet discussions with someone, wouldn't be amiss now. Later in this period, many projects blossom out for Leos, new beginnings of promise. Home or residence matters could change overnight though, all other things being equal.

VIRGO August 23-September 22.

June-July-Aug. '79: Might be a business or financial problem, some indecision on your part regarding this. Anxiety regarding an in-law, long distance matter or someone of foreign birth. Some Virgos plan long distance travel now. Personality clash with someone you work with. Background matters important, though recognition, regards, honors may be held back for the time being. Some Virgos will want to change their jobs, and some might do this. A rift with a friend. Stay calm, Virgo, it's easier on yourself by far. Polish skills, work in the background when necessary, catch up loose ends. Your religion a staff now, also you are fortunate in many senses of the word. Health benefits through a calm and philosophical frame of mine now.

LIBRA September 23-October 23.

June-July-Aug. '79: A job, business, parental problem could surface in this period. Romance shines for Librans now, but "jealousy" could stir too, and isn't recommended, by the way. Friends, acquaintances with the affluent, who in turn are willing and able to help your ambitions. Possible reunions/reconciliations with old friends. Your mental horizons widen more and more and serious reading, reflection, may be done now. A friendship has romantic possibilities, is exciting to you. Many "rewards" come now or soon for Librans. Social life hectic over this period, so build up health, safeguard energy, get enough rest. Certain elements existing in the past may disturb, from time to time, so don't look back, look to the future!

SCORPIO
October 24-November 21.

June-July-Aug. '79: Life for Scorpios can no longer be the placid affair it might once have been—not with exciting Uranus still in your sign, for this planet is sure to bring the unexpected and many different changes that tend to uproot any complacency you still might have for Uranus tends to break the mold, to change the old, for the new, but will ultimately benefit the life. Then, with Mars now in your opposite sign, it behooves you to "move" with the changes, that likely will be coming through partners, marital or otherwise. Use care with driving, tools. Watch health, stay poised in this rather turbulent period. Good news regarding career, money. Curb unruly emotions.

SAGITTARIUS
November 22-December 21.

June-July-Aug. '79: Your luck lies with others now and in co-operation rather than trying to go it alone. Take care of health, with Mars in this house of your chart, and curb excesses. A co-workers might annoy now, try for harmony with all or give the person plenty of space. As Neptune is still in Sagittarius, you must be alert and realistic, above all, not build sand-castles or drift too much. Calm discussion, bringing certain matters "out front," into the open should clarify what has been nebulous in your mind. Don't take anything for granted, with "surprising" Uranus in your house of behind-the-scenes. Unwise to assume or take on too much responsibility in your work. Long distance beckons. Law, religion, publishing now favored for Sags. Love picks up.

CAPRICORN
December 22-January 20.

June-July-Aug. '79: A partnership or marital problem looms. A legal matter important, but may be dragging its heels, should conclude to your advantage. Avoid mishaps now and through August. Harmonize with the partner and loved one (mate). Many Capricorns will inherit between now and late September. Some concern over a lover or child, but this matter should be handled wisely. An investment or speculation matter may also be accented in this period. Don't be too impetuous in the outgo of money for investment or speculation purposes, but try to investigate, before you invest. If your health needs attention, attend to this without delay, and avoid health complications.

AQUARIUS
January 21-February 18.

June-July-Aug. '79: Indecision in a love matter. Continue to be realistic regarding friendships—some will be great for you, some will mislead if you are not careful, so be selective in this Aquarius! Secret romantic involvements arouse suspicions. Take care of health, get enough rest; don't lend money, you might not get it back. Mental work, a project involving writing, etc., pays off. In emotional matters Aquarius, hold steady, as explosive forces are at work underneath the surface of things, and there could be confusion or a clash of wills. Your work has a stamp of originality and will bring you recognition. Some Aquarius will be impelled toward career-job-business changes.

PISCES
February 19-March 20.

June-July-Aug. '79: Curb foolish extravagance, Pisces, as it can lead to friction with one you care for, emotionally. Cultivate the artistic, creative, in yourself with Neptune, the planet of inspiration high in your chart for some time to come. Saturn in your opposite sign is not too favorable for love or marriage but could mean you are taking on responsibilities more so than usual. An older person could be in the affectional picture around this time. Be tactful with those in authority, parents, bosses. Friction in the home, also be on guard against mishaps there. Increased finances, again some have a job promotion, and rise in prestige. Money spent on the health, beneficial health treatments.

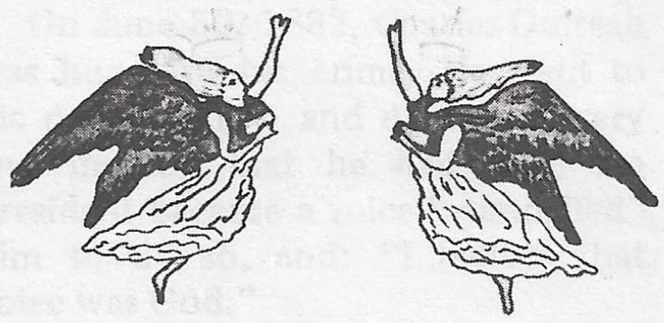
A FANTASTIC OCCULT BOOK

The Two Angels Twangela & Tarmela

by GLADYS MARIE SHARP



STRANGERS IN OUR MIDST
FROM OTHER WORLDS

"THE TWO ANGELS—TWANGELA AND TARMELA" surely has to be the most fabulous love story of the century!

In the deepest sense, it concerns the life of each human being. It is mystical in depth, eternal in scope, unrivaled in beauty. Much revealed is very sacred. Yet, it is hoped through this sharing to inspire and encourage many who may similarly seek while feeling that they somehow are different and so become afraid to speak out, or to tell their innermost dreams.

Too this story is for those who ar NOT afraid, but merely discouraged, feeling that their most profound hopes, prayers and dreams are somehow fruitless.

It is said that we give our dreams a fighting chance, IF we do not give up on them. The character portrayed in this story is real, his quest—a driving force, the imprint of a powerfilled dream from which comes his search for TWO ANGELS—living as human beings on Earth.

Above, RICHARD S. SHAVER, the Pennsylvania welder who had an incredible story to tell. . . Left, RAYMOND A. PALMER, the editor who brought the "Shaver Mystery" into the open.

by JIM WENTWORTH

GIANTS IN THE EARTH

The story of an amazing controversy that must be solved. . .

In April, 1926, a pulp magazine was born called AMAZING STORIES. Its uniqueness was due to it being the very first United States magazine devoted exclusively to science fiction. It was an immediate success.

And so the years rolled by.

When the March, 1945 issue of AMAZING STORIES appeared on the newsstands under the editorship of Ray Palmer (1910-1977), it caused a fierce and undying controversy. This was because its feature story, "I Remember Lemuria" by the then-unknown Richard S. Shaver (1908-1975) boldly claimed that his story (and many succeeding ones) was based on FACT. FACT, not fiction.

What are these claims that riled numerous science fiction readers? Well, the claim of PRESENT alien visitations to Earth was one. Others were (A) the ACTUAL, one-time existence of legendary Atlantis and Lemuria that contained an advanced civilization, (B) the REALITY of the mythological Apollo, Hercules, Zeus, Osiris, Odin, Thor, to name only a few, (C) most of our suffering was not our own doing, but caused by OUTSIDE forces. This would include ALL of mankind's wars.

Ray Palmer gave these "unorthodox" claims, and many more that are collectively referred to as the "Shaver Mystery", his fullest support by publicizing them heavily in his magazines in the form of articles, stories, editorials, news clippings, footnotes and letters. However, he did openly disagree with Shaver on one vital issue.

When Shaver put a PHYSICAL reality to his Mystery, Palmer said it could be something else. Shaver's Mystery could be totally—but honestly—misinterpreted by him, for Palmer said the whole thing could also be interpreted as SPIRITUAL. This theory was one presented in the religious book, OAHSPE, which Ray found to be most exciting and plausible.

I WRITE A BOOK ABOUT THE "MYSTERY"

Since first becoming familiar with the Shaver Mystery almost thirty-five years ago, it has occupied a great deal of my thoughts. Indeed, I wrote a book on it, GIANTS IN THE EARTH, which Palmer published in 1973. It tells in great detail what the entire Mystery is all about. Putting it very briefly in one paragraph, it goes like this:

Living underground in near-endless levels of mammoth size are the degenerate and merciless "dero" who greatly bedevil surface people despite the efforts of the kindly, smaller-numbered "tero" to restrain them. The deviltry of the dero is made possible by the wondrous machinery, still operable, that was abandoned twelve thousand years ago (?) by universe-spanning, super races of alien origin who left Earth because our aging sun had begun to expel detrimental rays. These rays are outnumbering the beneficial ones and thus lessening their effectiveness. So, once again, the search was on for an uncontaminated sun with one or more liveable planets.

Shaver truly believed the dero and tero were PHYSICAL and dwelt in Earth's SOLID interior. Ray Palmer said this could be Shaver's misinterpretation, and that the dero and tero also could be SPIRITS of the dead, living, not physically below Earth's surface, but in the ASTRAL REALMS.

Just how are the dero bedeviling us? Many are the ways. One such is by putting thoughts—or voices—in our minds. Uncharacteristic thoughts to kill, let us say, and then claim the voice was the voice of God, the Devil, space people, etc.

I have introduced the Shaver Mystery to a good number of people who, with very few exceptions, dismissed it as Shaver's "delusions". They refused to take seriously the chilling claim that evil deros are responsibile for much of our woes.

I cannot share their dismissal. I believe there must be SOME truth to the Shaver Mystery, especially when I am confronted with screaming, front-page headlines of newspaper stories such as. . . Well, take the case of David Berkowitz.

SON OF SAM

Known as "Son of Sam" and "The 44-Calibre Killer", he was arrested on August 11, 1977, at his Yonkers, New York, home, and charged with not only murdering six young people but maiming seven others. Five of the victims were female. Berkowitz had been sought during a 13-month period by New York City policemen. The first murder occurred during the early hours of July 29, 1976, the last during the early hours of July 21, 1977.

Born in Brooklyn, New York, on July 1, 1953, Berkowitz was an adopted child of erratic behavior. He was arrogant, hyperactive, threw tantrums.

Interviewing psychiatrists wanted to know what had brought on his coldly calculated killings. He told them. Demons, was his answer. Demons urged him to kill because of their desire to rape the victims' souls. But were the demons not imaginary? Here Berkowitz was fiercely adamant. Never! The demons were too real to be called delusions. He further claimed he was no longer human, saying: "I am a dog."

When asked why he called himself Son of Sam, he replied that Sam was a big, black dog which, in controlling him, directed him to the victims. Murder then followed "so that the demons could chain them up and have sex forever."

It is not rare for an astute Shaver student to notice passages in books that can reasonably be tied up with the Shaver Mystery. Consider this one from THE MOTHMAN PROPHECIES by John A. Keele.

"If you review the history of political assassinations you will find that many were performed by so-called religious fanatics who were obeying the 'voice of God' or were in an obvious state of possession when they committed their crime. Even the ten co-conspirators in the assassination of President Lincoln were in this category. And the soldier who shot and killed John Wilkes Booth against the orders of his superiors claimed he pulled the trigger because a voice told him to do so."

I HAD A FEELING, "I MUST DO IT"

Keele goes on to relate the story of Charles J. Guiteau who was born in Freeport, Illinois, in 1841. On July 2, 1881, he entered the Baltimore and Potomac railroad station in Washington, D.C. In the station, sitting on a wooden bench, was the 20th President of the United States, James Abram Garfield, whose Presidency was of short duration. Only four months.

With a lax secret service, Guiteau had no difficulty entering the room to advance behind the presidential party, a false smile on his bearded face. Raising a pistol, he fired twice. One bullet struck the President's back; the other pierced his arm.

Guiteau was apprehended as he walked away from the building. Afterwards, in his jail cell, newsmen questioned his reasons for shooting President Garfield who, mortally wounded, died on September 19, 1881, at Elberton, New Jersey, where he had been taken for medical treatment. He was fifty years of age.

Unremorseful, the assassin told the newsmen:

"It was a feeling that I must do it. The obsession pressed harder and harder; it never let up. In less than two hours after it was done, I was wonderfully relieved. You never saw anyone so wonderfully relieved in your life."

Months later, when notified of President Garfield's death, Guiteau added these words:

"It was the Diety who inspired me to remove the President. I had to use my ordinary judgement as to the ways and means of accomplishing His will, but I was acting according to orders."

On June 30, 1882, Charles Guiteau was hung for his crime. He went to his death calmly, and up to the very end insisted that he had shot the President because a voice "compelled" him to do so, and: "I believe that voice was God."

Writes Jacques Vallee in his 1969 book, PASSPORT TO MAGONIA:

"In the Soviet Union not long ago an eminent scientist in the field of plasma-research died in suspicious circumstances—he was killed by being pushed under an underground train in Moscow by a mentally deranged woman. The accused claimed that a 'voice' from space had instructed her to kill this particular man and she felt unable to resist the order. I understand from trustworthy sources that Russian criminologists are worried about the increase in cases of this sort in recent years. Quite often mentally unstable people are known to run wildly across a street protesting that they are being pursued by Martians."

When I read of such true events as the above (many others are included in my book, GIANTS IN THE EARTH), I cannot ignore the idea that they may well be connected with the Shaver Mystery. Contrary to what the psychiatrists say, the voices heard by numerous unfortunates are REAL. Ray Palmer stated that his files contained hundreds of unrelated people who reported hearing voices, saying the same things. This would be an utter impossibility if the voices were really imaginery.

No, the vitally important Shaver Mystery should not be dismissed. Never! Rather, it should be diligently investigated. For solving it would benefit mankind in ways unimaginable to the human mind.

Ann Wigmore D.D.

Dear Doctor Ann

Ann Wigmore D.D. is a Doctor of Divinity who has devoted her life to the development of healthy minds and bodies.

OUR DAILY PRAYER

I greet each morning as a new born babe, standing with uplifted heart and an open mind, asking You to cleanse my soul so I may be a perfect co-creator with You in every thought, every word and every action in the hours ahead. My greatest wish is to put my desires and ideas into physical action today. I seek a strong will to self-discipline my thinking and eating habits. Aid me, by preventing wrong action on my part, to let nothing disturb my peace of mind.

Make me too big mentally to worry, too noble for anger, too steady in my faith for fear.

Let me speak only of health, happiness and hope that will blot out all tendencies to criticize. In my work, let me expect and see nothing but perfect accomplishment. My past mistakes must merely be profitable lessons which I utilize, without regret or self-incrimination, to press onward to greater achievement.

Grant me a full understanding that love is the fulfillment of spiritual service to others. Give me patience and a forgiving heart not only for the weaknesses of others but also for my own shortcomings. I need wisdom to think right, which, in itself, will bring an abundance of all things to supply my daily needs.

For these blessings I give thanks, as I do for guidance and protection as I work in Your vineyard, which makes me understand more clearly that by the golden rule I can receive only what I give; that nobody can take anything that belongs to me; that what seems lost is really my gain.

Permit me to help others, but provide me with the foresight to give each soul freedom to find it's way. Give me a grateful heart. Let me bless anything which comes into my life and be thankful for every little incident; appreciative of music, the beauties of nature, the trees, brooks, fields and the colors of Your wonderful creations. Let the rainbow always follow the showers and the bright sunshine dry all tears. I thank Thee for the great awakening.

I know I am the expression of You, that You smile through my lips and speak through my words. That You serve patiently and lovingly through me every minute of the day. My body is the living temple in which You also dwell and it is my sacred duty to take good care.

Dear Dr. Ann: I just do not feel full of life and health. Would it help if I took vitamins, as so many people do?

My Dear One: Nature does not produce a food product with just vitamin A or vitamin D or any other individual vitamin in it. Rather, Nature produces a balance of vitamins in each of her many food products. Vitamins may be likened to an orchestra which is composed of many musical instruments all working in concert. For example, an apple or carrot or parsley would have many vitamins in them all working in concert.

To take an individual vitamin such as vitamin C violates the laws of Nature. Nature produces no food product that contains only vitamin C. Fortunately, the person taking vitamin C, for example, is supplementing it with the naturally occurring vitamins in his or her food. No particular harm is done as a result, and perhaps even a little good can come of it. Rose hips which are noted for their vitamin C also contain other vitamins, so in reality a person taking rose hips for his vitamin C is taking a balanced potency. But a commercial vitamin C derived from ascorbic acid is not balanced and is highly suspect of being a real value. What has been related concerning vitamin C is applicable to the other vitamins as well.

Dear Dr. Ann: So often I have a stiff neck, which makes me feel quite miserable.What can I do to keep from having this trouble?

Blessed One: Tensions and toxins often cause stiffness of the neck and poor circulation. Daily exercises upon rising, especially the neck roll which is very relaxing and loosening. help to increase circulation and clear out these toxins and tensions. This also enables the blood to carry nourishment to the brain cells more readily and thus makes the person more alert. Physical work is a great blessing. Learn to use your own body muscles instead of household or office "conveniences" such as elevators and electric knives and dishwashers, or other unnecessary "time-labor-savers." Walking up and down stairs, and riding a bicycle instead of using the car, are excellent forms of exercise as well as ecologically sound. And they can give a new, more relaxed and pleasant attitude generally and a broader outlook on life.

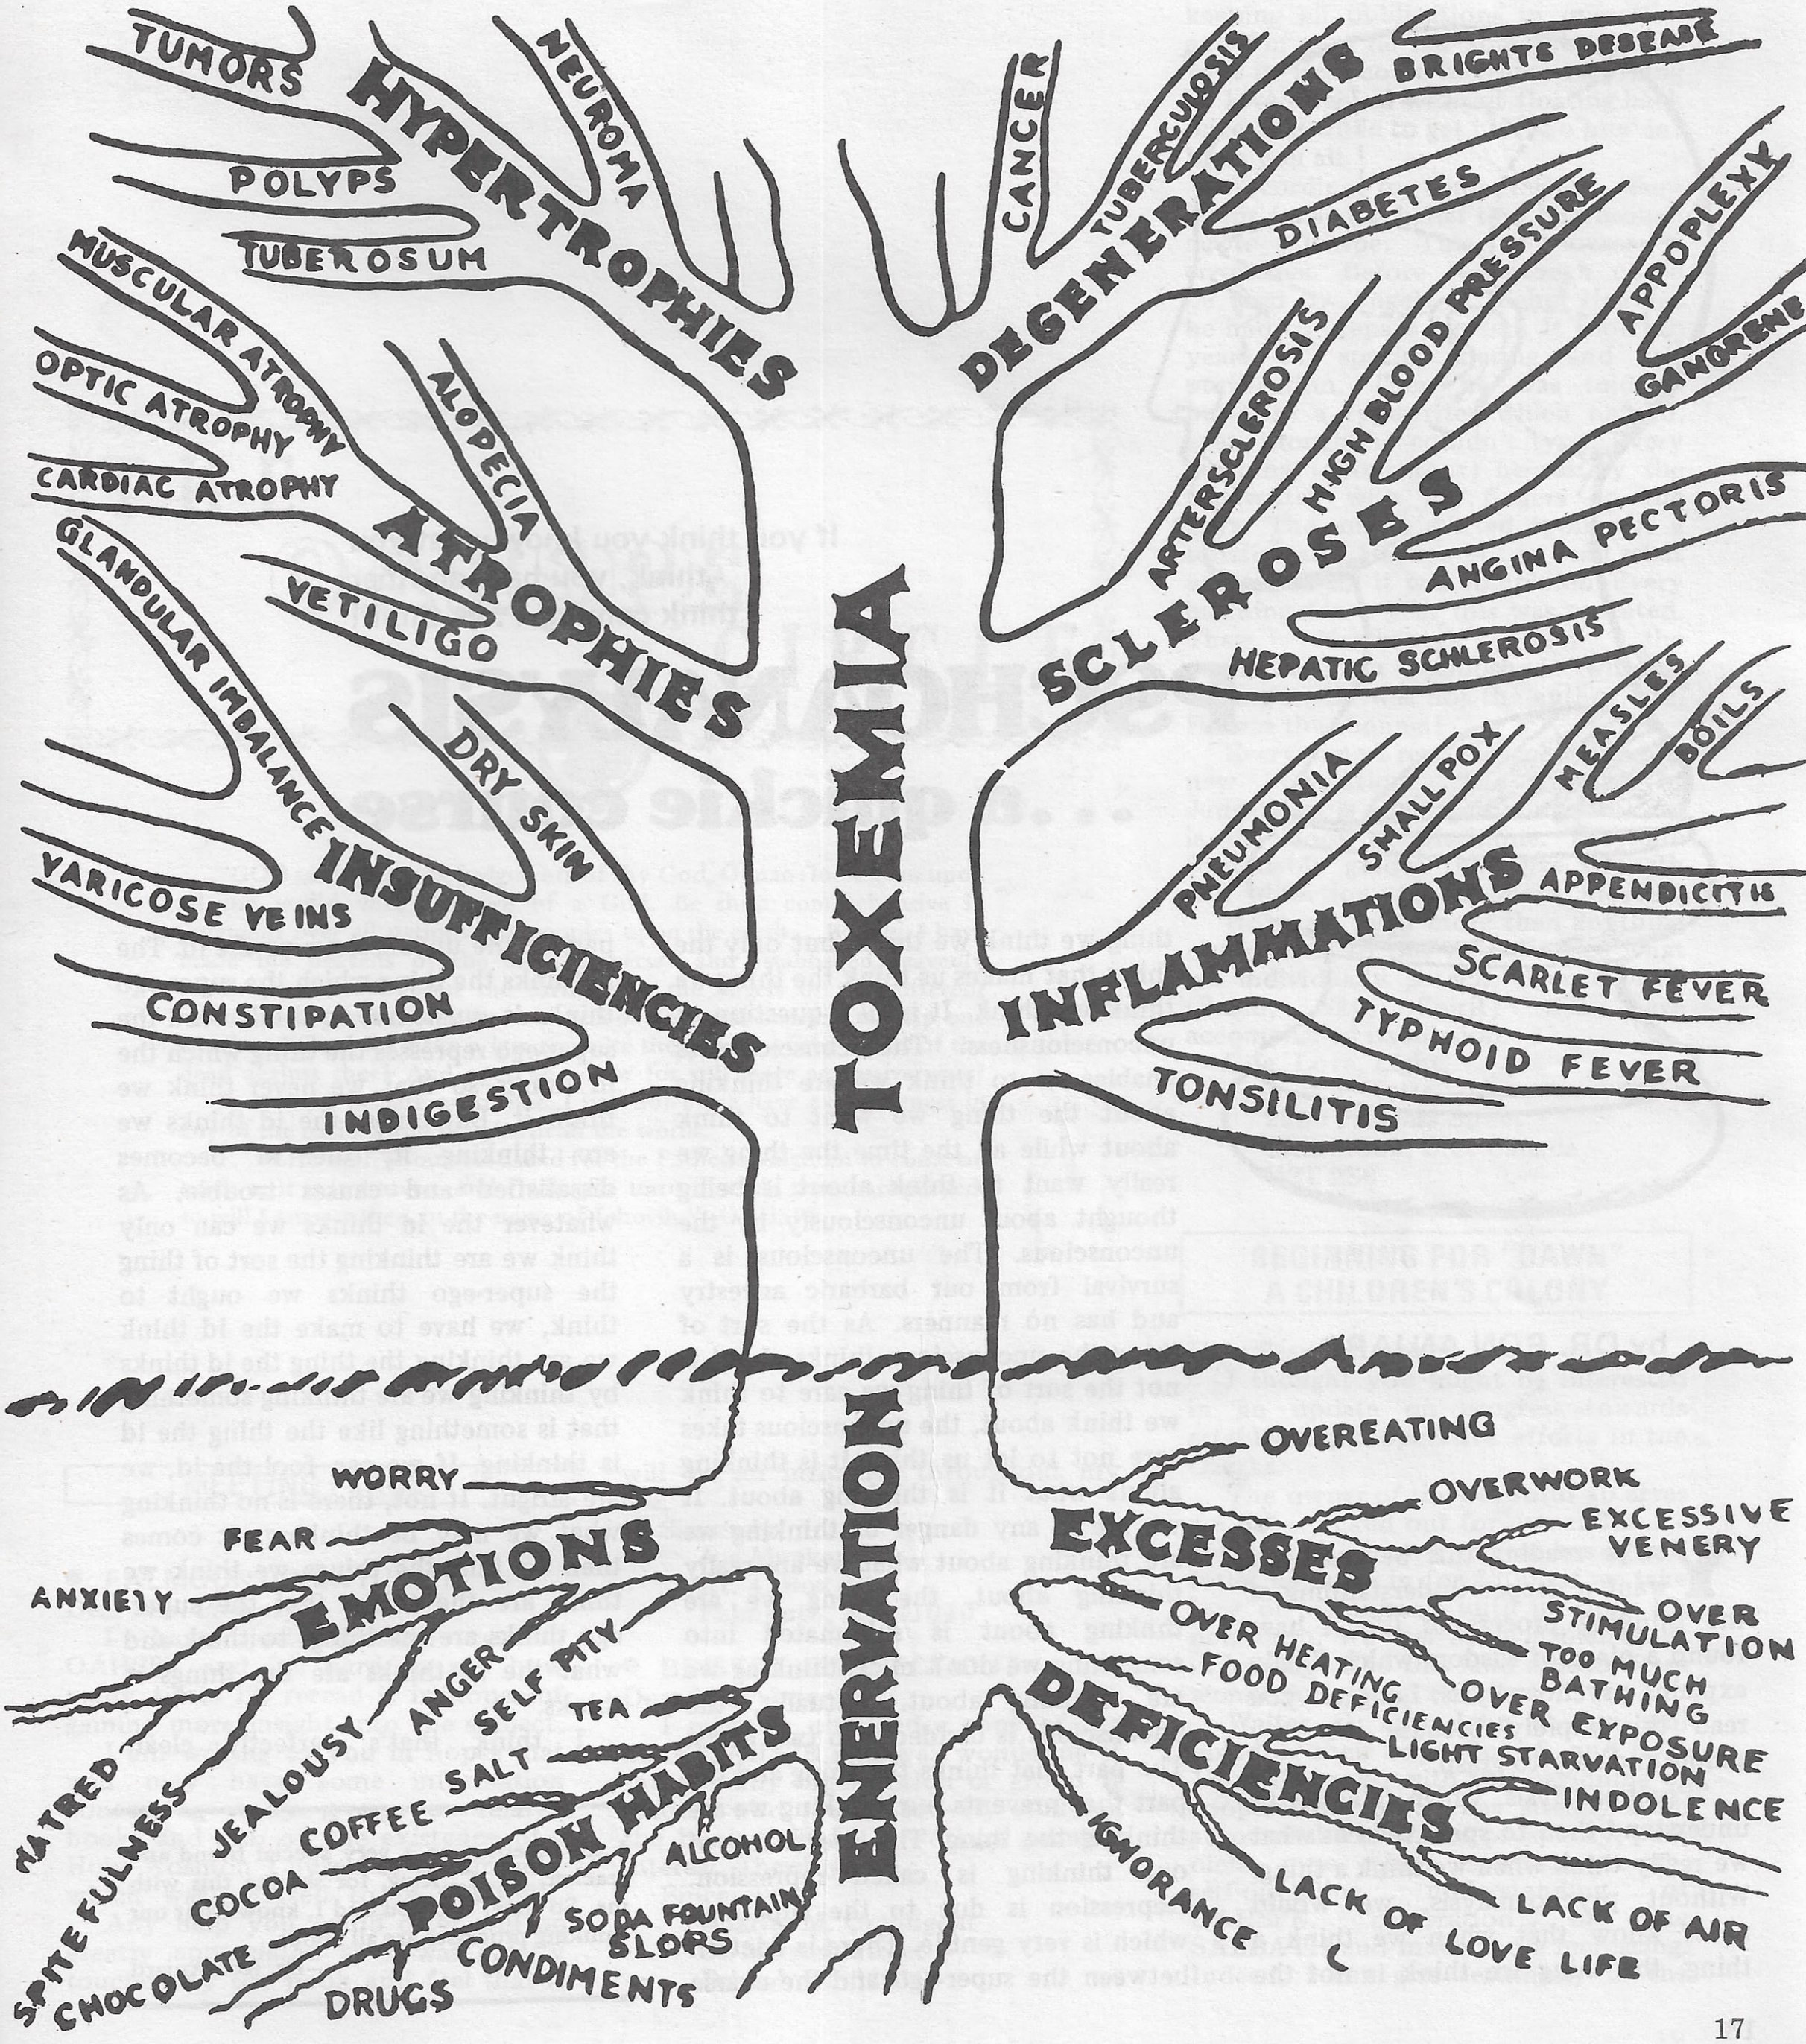
HOW DISEASE IS BUILT

(as illustrated by the Tree of Bad Habits)



If you think you know what you think, you have another think coming. . .we think!

PSCHOANALYSIS

by DR. RON ANJARD

You're reading this because you want a deeper understanding of the thinking process of life. I have found a piece of wisdom which finally explains psychoanalysis. I suggest you read this rapidly because it's very simple and easy to grasp.

"Psychoanalysis, which is easier to understand than to spell, tells us what we really think when we think a thing. Without psychoanalysis, we would never know that when we think a thing, the thing we think is not the thing we think we think, but only the thing that makes us think the thing we think we think. It is all a question of unconsciousness. The consciousness enables us to think we are thinking about the thing we want to think about while all the time the thing we really want to think about is being thought about unconsciously by the unconscious. The unconscious is a survival from our barbaric ancestry and has no manners. As the sort of thing the unconscious thinks about is not the sort of thing we care to think we think about, the unconscious takes care not to let us think it is thinking about what it is thinking about. If we are in any danger of thinking we are thinking about what we are really thinking about, the thing we are thnking about is sublimated into something we don't mind thinking we are thinking about. Actually, the unconscious is divided into two parts. The part that thinks the thing and the part that prevents our thinking we are thinking the thing. This preventing of our thinking is called repression. Repression is due to the super-ego which is very gentile. There is friction between the super-ego and the coarse part of the unconscious or the id. The id thinks the thing which the super-ego thinks it ought not to think. And the super-ego represses the thing which the id thinks so that we never think we think it. But unless the id thinks we are thinking it, the id becomes dissatisfied and causes trouble. As whatever the id thinks we can only think we are thinking the sort of thing the super-ego thinks we ought to think, we have to make the id think we are thinking the thing the id thinks by thinking we are thinking something that is something like the thing the id is thinking. If we can fool the id, we are alright. If not, there is no thinking what we may be thinking. It comes then to this, the things we think we think are the things that the super-ego thinks are the things to think and what the id thinks are the things it thinks."

I think that's perfectly clear.

I am indebted to a very special friend and teacher, Dr. C. King, for sharing this with me. So now, we, you and I, know what our thinking processes are all about.

THE OAHSPE CIRCLE

"GOD said: Hear the judgments of thy God, O man; look thou upon all the world with the eye of a God. Be thou comprehensive in judgment over all nations and peoples upon the earth. . .Behold, I have made the heavens of the earth universal; and established heavenly roadways around about the earth, that the angels of the different nations and peoples may be as angels of universal heavens to help one another. Wilt thou make a law to incite the enmity of the spirits of the dead against thee? And open the door for still more aggressive wars?

. . .Now, I declare unto thee, I will not more have exclusiveness in any of the nations and peoples in all the world.

. . .BEHOLD! Thou hast asked for the Father's kingdom to come on earth as it is in heaven, and I will give unto thee. As thou hast prayed, so will I answer thee, in the name of Jehovih."—OAHSPE

Dear Mrs. Palmer,

I have just finished reading OAHSPE and it's hard to say how many times I'll reread it in hopes of gaining more insight into the subject.

I am writing to you in hopes that you may have some information concerning study groups or related books and also on the existence of a Holy Kosmon Church or community which was referred to in OAHSPE.

Any help you could offer will be greatly appreciated as I was greatly touched by the book and feel that it will be an influence throughout my life.

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I recently obtained a copy of the book OAHSPE and was wondering if there is any organization or group of readers who are collectively studying the book. I find it a work of peculiar interest. Thank you.

INFORMATION ON OAHSPE

Dear Marjorie,

You certainly are to be commended for your dedication and internal fortitude.

Of course we miss Ray, but you are keeping all publications in operation and I'm sure he has something to do with it. How could he leave everything he loved behind without floating back once in a while to get his 'two bits' in? Bless you all.

According to some letters, there seems to be the belief that Newbrough wrote Oahspe. This of course is erroneous. Before Newbrough could be used by Angels of Higher Heavens he had to prepare himself. It took ten years of special dieting and self purification. Then he was told to purchase a typewriter which he did, even though he couldn't type. Every morning (about four) he sat by the typewriter with his fingers on the keys. The angels started typing at a terrific rate. He was not to read what was typed till it was completed. Every morning for a year this was repeated. Then Newbrough had the communication published without signing it. He was not the author, etc. He was the channel!

Every time I read Oahspe I discover new revelation. The Book of Judgement is a very sobering book, as is the Book of Discipline. They are formidable guides that give strength and direction to us mere mortals,

What we need more than anything else now is to put into practice what we individually preach. Then Oahspe (Earth, Sky, Spirit) will have accomplished its mission.

BEGINNING FOR "DAWN" A CHILDREN'S COLONY

Dear Search Readers,

I thought you might be interested in an update on progress towards establishing cooperative efforts in the Ozarks.

The owner of the beautiful 40 acres we have picked out for our children's colony and summer retreat has agreed to let us move in for $3000 if we take care of his animals until he finds his new farm. We feel Jehovih blessed us in leading us to this land and to these wonderful natural Faithists.

Walter C. and John P. are still boarding their boys, Bob, 8, and Rex, 13, with us. So with this beginning of cooperation, much has already been accomplished as far as prosperity, pure diets, pure minds, spiritual growth, self-discipline, understanding of OAHSPE, celebration of the SABBATH and much more increasing. Indeed, I can give testimony to the truth of OAHSPE where it says that to the extent one cooperates, Jehovih will increase his blessings.

Mike J., 9, wanted to come live with us, but since my husband, (the greatest Faithist I know) is a traveling college recruiter and away a great deal of the time—we felt we need at least one more adult or family to help in order to accomplish as much as we desire with these young ones, and the babies we hope to receive. If you would like to be part of our colony on a part-time or permanent basis, or just our good neighbors here in the sunny Ozarks do let us know soon. Of course the DAWN COLONY is not open to everyone. But who wants to live with just anyone? If you are successfully following your highest Light more than 50% of the time, we'd love to meet you!

Candy Turner

P.S.: Later information on "Dawn". This site for DAWN is beautiful. Other houses can not be seen from our home located on a dirt road. There are over 50 fruit and nut trees. A greenhouse is attached to the main house. There is an old well at the back of the property suitable for someone building an additional home. The house has a fireplace, central air with heat pump, four bedrooms, and 2 baths. We will assume the existing mortgage of $26,000 and Les will continue at his full-time job as a recruiter for an electronics college system and I will continue my part-time job as a pollster for Gallup.

GIFTS FOR PRISONERS

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I am writing this letter in my capacity of Senior Librarian at the Wallkill Correctional Facility. Because of budgetary difficulties within the Department of Correction, we find ourselves in dire straits concerning the purchasing of useful books for the inmate population.

Wallkill is a medium security prison and many inmates here are involved in college level studies. Our Library is seriously understocked with the books that would be most useful to these men. Therefore, we are forced to depend in a large part on outside contributions.

We will be looking hopefully towards hearing from you.

Please address any donations to:

Dear Sir:

I am an inmate in the Georgia Penal System without funds. And I am trying to establish a religious library in the dormitory I live in so that we all here may study the higher truth together.

Sir, I have read some of the Oahspe, and I would very much like for you to donate a copy to us out of the compassion and goodness of your heart. Sir, if we only had the money, we would be more than glad to pay for the book. Sir, the defected books will serve just as well; we're only searching for the truth.

Your help in this matter will be greatly and highly appreciated.

A CONDENSED VERSION OF OAHSPE

A MYSTERIOUS, ASTOUNDING, MARVELOUS BOOK! SENSATIONAL, AMAZING STORIES OF MIRACLES, PSYCHIC PHENOMENA, SPACE SHIPS AND OF LIFE AFTER DEATH. FACTUAL AND SCIENTIFIC! THIS WONDER BOOK PSYCHICALLY WRITTEN BY DR. JOHN B. NEWBROUGH AND FIRST PUBLISHED IN 1882.

LAURA HORST

The immensity of that profound book, OAHSPE, which contains 1008 pages, discourages many from delving into its sensational contents. It contains a great mass of amazing information on the history of Earth for 79,000 years, ethical, moral and spiritual teachings of the world's great religions, and at the same time is a textbook of science as known to the ancients and now becoming known to modern man. This condensed book has been prepared for readers who do not have the time or patience required to read and analyze so profound a work. Yet today's young adults are seeking for truth and reality, and more detailed information about their destiny. This book answers hundreds of questions, tells a most interesting story about the origin of mankind on Earth, and his development through the numerous past cycles of time. More importantly, it gives a preview of life's eternal progression after mortal death.

OAHSPE staggers the imagination!

What IS the real history of the human race on this planet (and on all others)? What is Man's beast? What are the secrets of submerged continents, of the Great Pyramid, of the Sphinx? What it the history of the Earth's major religions? Do they exist on other planets?

Do you think flying saucers are new? Then read OAHSPE! A whole panorama of aerial and space vessels, described as though from today's newspapers.

Do you wonder at Einstein's theories? Then read OAHSPE! He could have gotten his information there! Uncounted thousands of tons of meterorites fall to Earth each day, yet space is nearly empty of them. OAHSPE knew it in 1882! Space is dark, say our daring astronauts. So did OAHSPE in 1882, and tells us why! Archaeologists have made amazing discoveries of ancient races and dead cities and civilizations since 1882. They might have discovered them sooner had they read OAHSPE.

Just where is Heaven? What do you do there? Is there anything for YOU to do when you get there— what kind of occupation? Is there really a Hell? Who manages the Earth, the Solar System, the Universe—and how? How do the different religions fit into God's one Universe? OAHSPE tells all this, and a thousand more answers to man's most difficult questions.

A history of the higher and lower heavens and of the earth for the past 24,000 years; also a brief history of the preceeding 55,000 years. An explanation of all the world's religions; the cosmogony of the universe; the creation of the planets, of man; new commandments applicable to the present day; the unseen worlds. Written in 1881, OAHSPE's science is today being confirmed by space satellites, new archaeological discoveries and many other sources.

A STORY OF THE CONTROVERSIAL "SHAVER MYSTERY"

EXCITED

by the first incredible, "I Remember Lemuria," as originally published in the March, 1945, issue of Amazing Stories, and as the mystery continued to unfold, Jim Wentworth felt he must write a comprehensive report of this entire strange and gripping story that the Pennsylvania welder, Richard Shaver, was presenting as true.

Thus the book,

GIANTS IN THE EARTH

came to be written. It is the story of secret caverns of the earth, still inhabited by degenerate beings; of ancient civilizations on earth; of space ships, then and now; of how Richard Shaver came across this knowledge through listening to the playback of ancient "thought records."

A POWERFUL TOOL

ESOTERIC HYPNOSIS

by KENNETH WILLOUGHBY

Recently I saw a national TV program on the various aspects of hypnosis and acupuncture. It suddenly dawned on me that I had been using a form of hypnosis for advanced esoteric purposes. This can result in a higher form of spiritual evolution than other trial and error methods. Also once a beginning person comprehends the dynamic principles of it, they can duplicate most of the phenomena in their personsal lives.—K.W.

Hypnosis as problem solution first dawned on me over 20 years ago when I thought it might aid me in easing some of the symptoms of my childhood disease. That disease was encephalitus which can result from a variety of different causes. It is basically a destruction of the insulation layers of the nervous system at various locations in the body. This loss of insulation causes a short-circuiting effect in the transmission of nerve messages from the brain. Emotional pressure in social situations seems to cause an increase in this short-circuiting effect.

I originally studied hypnosis and psychology in the hopes that I could keep this emotional pressure to a minimum and thereby keeping the short-circuiting effect minimized. Hypnosis could not remove the original physical damage to my nervous system. What it did do was help me find adaptive situations in life to circumvent panic-paralysis of a handicap situation. Until I saw the TV hypnosis program it did not dawn on me what level of hypnosis or that there were some extremely esoteric versions of hypnosis that I had stumbled on.

Am "I" Not Part of the Great "I Am" of the Scriptures?

In my studies, I learned that the ELEUSINIAN MYSTERY SCHOOL used still another application of this same hypnosis in ancient Greece. They used this to help their advanced members gain still deeper spiritual wisdom by using it as a tool to go more inward to the source of life. This form of hypnosis seems to lead to insight, understanding, and control of ones EGO while achieving control of the source of motivation at the same time. If the EGO is defined as everything you mean when you use the term "I", we see that we begin to approach the CREATOR as explained in chapter 3 of Exodus of the Holy Bible. In that chapter the CREATOR says that his name is the I AM. If this is the same "I" which makes up the EGO, we have found a new approach to spiritual growth. In this new approach we understand that "I" to see how it relates to the I AM of the CREATOR. Since the message of Jesus Christ portrays how a person may establish this contact in the physical world, it should also present clues to understanding this "I".

In studying the physical world, there is a formula which sums up certain energy aspects of nature. Since the CREATOR is the source of all energy by definition, this formula should apply to understanding something of his nature. From physics that formula is $E=mc^2$ where E = energy, m = mass, and c = the speed of light squared. If we are right in our assumptions, there is a spiritual calculus where this same formula describes a persons spiritual relationship. In this calculus, E equals spiritual growth. M equals the entity growing or the EGO ("I"). C equals life which must be squared. This squaring process seems to be some type of effective group relationship which unifies in harmony. Thus the formula, $E=mc^2$, describes the awesome energy release potential contained in the H-bomb. With this spiritual calculus, we can describe a parallel process to release spiritual energy in the same or greater quantities as in the H-bomb.

Our Spiritual "H-Bomb"

Parallel to nuclear research and development, there should be some similar situations which had to be met before a similar energy-release could happen. In the nuclear process there is a concentration of fission/fusion material to reach the critical mass stage. In the spiritual process this is a parallel situation in which the EGO must go through a similar concentration and refining process to reach a critical mass stage. After the critical stage is reached, there is an explosive release of energy as in the H-bomb. The amount of this energy goes beyond what was contained in the normal activity of the component parts.

Since the direction that this energy is released in is neutral, we must take care in how and where this energy is released. It is a similar situation with the use and abuse of fire but on a much greater scale forcing the users into the exercise of moral responsibility beyond simple ethics. This is where the squaring process comes in. There must be group and personal discipline/responsibility to the point of unity in harmony. When such harmony is achieveable, the energy potential becomes possible.

This goes far to help understand the source of power behind Hitler, Stalin, Jim Jones, and other situations. As in an ant hill or a bee hive, the single ant or bee is pretty harmless. If you put a million ants or bees together moving toward a goal, this can represent a formidable danger to anything or obstacle in its path.

We Need Sophisticated Ego Control

Going back to esoteric hypnosis as I first mentioned, there is similar explosive power potential awaiting proper inner exploration. This is why ignorant, careless exploration of inner realms can reek so much social damage. Since the general push of all life seems to be pushing us into more of these situations, we, as persons and groups, will in all probability meet this energy potential problem. We may temporarily hide from this responsibility by becoming hermits or escaping in drugged stupors. The problem will still be there when we get through trying to run from it. All this seems to demand sophisticated EGO-control to continue developing civilization into more advanced stages.

Programming Ability Must Be Developed

Esoteric hypnosis seems to be a powerful tool in intrumenting this EGO-control. It enables the person to feel and experience their EGO-structure without disturbing its normal operation in any way. This seems to help gain an intellectual understanding of inner things which are usually unconscious in the average person. Meditation as used by oriental proponents only begins to reach this operation point. Such a meditator is usually too "swamped" by the quantities of phenomena and its emotional storms to use it to control one's environment effectively. In advanced esoteric hypnosis, the person learns a programming ability which orders the EGO-structure into repeatable operation. This programming ability is similar to that which is used in controlling computers. This enables a person to do more operations in an automatic manner while devoting full ability to new more challenging problems. As soon as this starts that person begins to discover personal ESP abilities which have to be controlled as well. This discovery can also occur under advanced meditation. The personal problem is one of control and use of these new found things which normal meditation being a passive thing ignores.

In advanced stages of esoteric hypnosis, the person uses his ESP abilities to evaluate his destiny trends and relationships. This uses clairvoyance and intuition of very advanced nature. This type of clairvoyance has a jig-saw puzzle building quality which can indicate trends even before all the pieces are in the puzzle. The intuition in this case is hard to describe logically because it seems to use the information gained from the above clairvoyance to arrive at relationships and conclusions not justified by pure logic. In this advanced stage of esoteric hypnosis, inertia is equated to frustration and pain. This type of inertia also has the ability to push that person into life happenings where he/she is largely a slave to whatever the environment situation produces.

Don't Get Lost— Work With Someone

After this person has progressed through the clairvoyant and intuition stages of esoteric hypnosis, they begin to alter their destiny from its previous direction. By so altering destiny at will, they discover unique new ways to learn advanced wisdom. From this point on, they can make their destiny whatever they wish. They have only to expend the effort needed to do the required inner engineering. This is what the ELEUSINIAN MYSTERIES were a training ground to teach. The phenomena was a smoke screen and incentive to still deeper wisdom. To broach that smoke screen the person had to gain inner familiarity and control. If not, that persons own fears would keep him from any further progress and also keep that deeper wisdom secret from him in the process.

In wondering about the role of esoteric hypnosis in all this, I find it hard to reconcile what we call hypnosis as presented on the modern entertainment stage with it. This stage hypnosis presents a person in a puppet situation being bombarded by commands from the hypnotist which he cannot refuse to obey. In esoteric hypnosis, a person has much more integrated control of his total being that it is easy to get "lost". This is why we usually work esoteric hypnosis in pairs or groups. The person in his normal waking state acts as a monitor and guide for the hypnotized ones. His function is to monitor and record, not to push the hypnotized into experiences.

After doing the above analysis, I came to the conclusion that there is much more which could be done with hypnosis. The education process is one area where hypnosis could be a powerful tool to bypass unruly behavior of some students. Personal motivational behavior is still another area which might benefit from the use of hypnosis as a tool. Religious experience is still another area which could use hypnosis as a tool. There are probably a lot of unexplored areas where hypnosis could be used as an exploratory tool. Perhaps you readers can think of many more.

THE Beautiful WORLD OF SPIRIT

Contributed By VERN OVERLEE

WHAT'S A HUNCH?

Question: I have had many "hunches" or premonitions in my life. Most of them have come true. Has this a spiritual foundation? Can you explain why and how this occurs?

Answer: Hunches are the whispers of spirit in your spiritual ear. Respond. Your friends in spirit wish only to help and sneak in assistance. The more you respond and recognize it as spiritual help, the more you will receive.

Question: Two people with equal education and essentially the same background and religious beliefs—one is not given to hunches—the other has many—why?

Answer: No two people are the same. No two people have the same helpers in spirit. No two people are as accessible to spirit, nor respond the same.

ONLY ONE HEAVEN?

Question: Is there only one "heaven" or are there many for the spirit to transcend before reaching the honor of seeing God?

Answer: When one leaves the body, one is drawn to the level of good or God, which he expresses through his desires, throughts and deeds. As one lives more for others, one is drawn to others of that level. Those who live only for themselves, dwell in the absence of others and are drawn to those on earth who respond to their likes, living other lives, still powerless to control. Never knowing or feeling the presence of God.

Question: To World of Spirit. I would like to know if my wife, recently departed (Louise DeForest), has passed to the Spirit world and made successful adjustment. My children, Larry and Gary, and I are very concerned as we have not received contact as yet.—Fred DeForest, husband.

Answer: We have the lady with us now. She has joined her loved ones in spirit. They kept her for some time quite busy and have helped her to adjust to her new life. She now visits with you and your sons. She sends her love and is so sorry she is so missed for when you grieve she grieves. She is happy with her loved ones and happy when you forget and say your prayer for her for as you do she dwells within your heart.—H. Drummond.

Question: It is a wonderful service that you and your spirit guides are performing and I would like to ask two questions, if I may.

First, a few years ago I developed the ability to do automatic writing, but I do not know if it is my subconscious mind which does the writing or a spirit friend (or foe?). It seems to me that most people who do automatic writing do not know what is being written through their hands until after it is written and then they read it. In contrast, I seem to know what I am writing as I am writing. Yet if I stop or drop the pencil, I get no impressions. In other words, as soon as I apply the pencil to the paper the message comes to my mind as the words take form on the paper. Also I can feel the "power" in my hand, yet I still retain a certain control over the pencil.

I have never received much in the way of worthwhile information by doing this automatic writing, but on the other hand, as far as I know, nothing evil has happened to me as a result of it either.

As I look back over my life I feel certain that there have been (and still are) invisible helpers who have guided me and prepared the way in many instances.

I just wondered if your spirit guides could tell whether or not it is dangerous for me to do this automatic writing and also what the source of it is and if it is or will be of any value to me.

Any light that your spirit friends can shed on these problems will be greatly appreciated. My thanks to you and your friends in the "Beautiful World of Spirit".—G.S.

Answer: You are indeed used by your guides in your automatic writing which is in all reality spirit expressing through you—given the opportunity only when you sit for writing. Thus you are properly and safely controlled. You should by all means say an opening prayer before beginning and a closing prayer on completion. Ask only worthwhile questions and questions they are allowed. They are ready always to answer questions which could be helpful in making you or others better people.

Your friends in Spirit could and would provide for you that which you seek and need. Allow them to help you. Through them you have capabilities you could only dream of—utilize them and they will utilize you and bring through you that which could be helpful to many and to the source of all happiness.—H. Drummond.

Question: "The Beautiful World of Spirit" by Vern Overlee, is all new to me, that is this particular one. Who is Mr. Drummond? Is he Vern Overlee? It is very interesting and I am much in need of help and answers from my spirit forces or gatekeepers. If Vern Overlee can help I would so much appreciate, but this is new to me.

Are there great offending forces around me and my husband and our family? I am so miserably sad, unhappy, lonely, even though I have many things of study, reading, work, and people. I feel bound, imprisoned within myself. What can I do to offset these gloomy thoughts and feelings? We lost a 31 year old son, February 19th, 1978, (Steven Dwight [September 29, 1946, his birthday]) in Kelso, Washington. He died in jail there alone (more or less) from overdose and alcohol, and was so sad, sick and confused, also ashamed and afraid. Can you help me to help him even now? Do you see him and how he is?

It's so very sad and hurts so. I feel he's being cared for by wonderful spiritual people over there, and is happy and understands now so much more and differently. Am I wrong, and this wishful thinking? All I can do here for him there—would also comfort me and perhaps his father. Please help us all.

I read a lot about the Spirit and "over there", and helps me so much, also our other personality parts helping us, and we them. Very interesting. I must be a big problem to them being so sad and lonely. Why am I this way? I wouldn't be if I could talk to my husband, communicate, but seems no way to get through to his real self. Thank you all kindly. God bless us all. (February 13, 1924, birth) —Laura Rumning, June 20, 1978.

Answer: When you ask who is Mr. Drummond, I lived in the body in the last century. I taught in the school and was ordained speaking out on Science and religion for all to hear and know that all are one together now and forever. With your son his confusion is still with him. He has not accepted the help offered to him. With your help perhaps he shall. You can say to him out loud or silently "Dear Son we love you still. Know you are loved and that there are those who wish to help you. Follow them. Do what they suggest. You will be more happy and this shall bring me happiness." Say this every day several times. Soon you will begin to feel your life change as happiness comes to you. You will know your son is happy and reaching out toward the Father, the Father of all, of H. Drummond, who wrote this message and many others through Vern Overlee who I have chosen to work through and write through from the world of spirit and as your son accepts we will see that he is guided on the right and proper path.—H. Drummond.

All across the country, there is a growing need for OAHSPE, especially among young people who are looking for a faith to live by. There's a growing need for OAHSPE, but many can't or won't go for it "cold turkey" without having previously heard of it through reading some book like this. For these people Walter Wiers has written his book.

SAM SAYS...

A Golden Oldie (Before Woman's Lib)

A wife being interviewed on television program was asked the name of her favorite author. "Why, it's my husband," she replied. "Your husband!" questioned the interviewer, "What does he write?" The woman smiled, then answered, "Checks."

A man walked up to the ticket agent and asked for a ticket to the moon. "Sorry, Sir, all flights are cancelled." "Bad weather?" asked the customer. "No," the agent replied. "The moon is full right now."

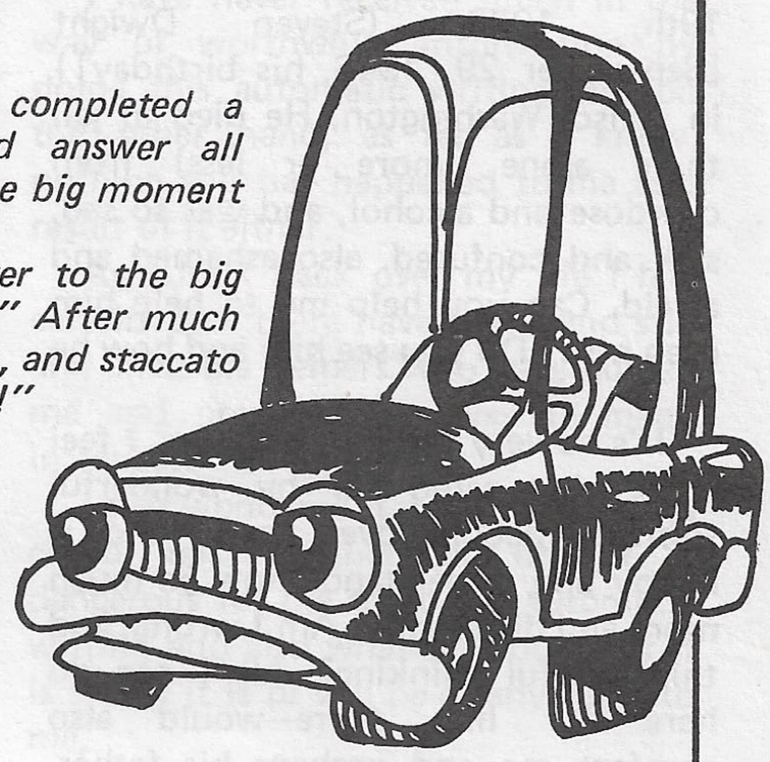
Children seldom misquote you—they repeat what you shouldn't have said word for word.

Hundreds of scientists recently completed a computer-master brain, which could answer all questions, compute all things. Then the big moment came. It was going to be put to the test.

Everyone waited to get the answer to the big question: "How did the world start?" After much whirring, red lights, flashing of signals, and staccato clicking, the answer came, "See Genesis!"



Anyone who can afford to pay the interest these days doesn't need a loan.

Fran and Sam did let Little Sam keep the dog which followed him home from school last spring. Little Sam really worked at taking care of him. Quite a few baths, lots of good food, and a few months of time changed "Dog", as Sammy called him, from a dirty, skinny puppy into a very big dog.

The boy decided he would just have to know how much Dog weighed, so he took the bathroom scales out into the yard and called Tommy over to help. After much time spent studying how to get Dog to stand on the scales, the two boys finally hit upon a solution. Tommy stood ready to read the dial while Little Sam stepped up on the back of the scales, and manfully putting both arms around Dog's tummy, lifted up and up. There was only one problem. Dog was so-o-o tall he was still standing squarely on the ground with all four legs!

WHERE THE READER HAS HIS SAY...

"ALTERNATIVE 3"

Dear Mrs. Palmer,

Concerning "Alternative 3", right after reading your "Search" magazine for Spring '79, which just arrived, I was able to purchase "Alternative 3" locally, printed by Avon, The Hearst Corp., 959 Eighth Avenue, N.Y., N.Y. 10019.

Trouble with this book is, you have to check out the facts presented as truth, and see if they add up. Who is astronaut Bob Grodin? Sounds like Aldrin?

Anyway, I thought you'd like to know it's available in the U.S.A. now.

Respectfully

A GAS PILL FOR YOUR CAR

In regard to the Fuel Shortage: With our abilities and advanced technology, why not a pill dropped into a (gas) tank filled with water to make a synthetic gas to run cars, motors, etc.? Sure would be a great convenience. Why hasn't it been done? Surely could be made by natural elements around us.

Seems with energy control, the peoples of the U.S. will be better restricted to the 22 River-basin systems (boundaries) referred to in Forum, November 1975, and final con control of the nation by non-citizens. It's frightening to me that we could have foreign born men represent us in dealing with other countries.

Sure didn't agree with giving away the Panama Canal and paying Panama to take it. One day our ships will not be allowed to go through that canal. I have young people tell me we didn't own it anyhow. We sure invested heavily in building and setting it up. Even made Panama a country. Paid other countries for the privilege of building the canal.

Enjoy reading Search. What has happened to Lee Nero? Enjoyed his reasonings.

Sincerly,

KOR (a measure of capacity), PETER (the unbeliever)

If I may address you, Mr. Kor, I would like to somewhat respond to Ray Palmer's publication some time ago about your article, "The Real Flying Saucer Mystery." First I would like to relate what Rosie Holmes told a woman who scoffed at Rosie's curiosity and concern with UFOs. The other woman told Rosie she thought she was "cooky," but Rosie hastily replied; "Oh, YOU'RE the COOKY one!" In other words, Peter Kor, with all your reason and logic, and efforts to "spoil our fun" as you call it, you must realize that we also are reasoning people—and we REASON that when UFO sighters have been known to retain the after-image of a UFO light "as bright as magnesium flare" on their eyes for a matter of minutes—it should be considered more than a mere fantasy of the imagination of any kind of psychic fallout, so to speak.

The burned circles in the grass mean nothing to you? The chemical changes in the circle of earth where a UFO has landed means nothing to you? UFOs flying low over a whole line of cars, causing them all to cease functioning, has no meaning of a physical nature? To say nothing of the physical scars left on physical earth beings—the so-called contactees.

It is NOT a mere wave of psychic hysteria to alarm the race as a whole, either. Remember, that these flying objects have been seen (and entered in Captains logs at sea) emerging from the ocean and continuing in flight through the air—long before this present era. These were individual sightings and no part of "race panic."

Your attitude, Mr. Kor, reminds me of a man who, let's say, lived alone on an island—had no neighbors and no ships ever dropped anchor at any time in his island bay. However, one day another man does appear, walks not 100 feet from the lone islander, and keeps on going, unhailed and unbefriended. "Oh, well," you say to yourself, "it is just a figment of my imagination!" You don't reach—you don't grope to solve the mystery of who the personage was, where he came from or where he was going.

Well, we "believers," as you call us, we care. We are curious. "Curiosity killed a cat." "Satisfaction brought him back!" You know the old saying. When we find our satisfactory answers, we'll inform you—there won't be any need for YOU to study US who studied THEM! Have patience, same as we have. And remember, the Government is going to speak out soon.

But there is definitely a need for people like you—and we love you—you have the hardest hill of all to climb. For further enlightenment on these sentiments, please read the story of HOG in the great book OAHSPE.

Personally, I have what I like to call a "legitimate" interest in UFOs for I have seen them four separate times; once with a group of people, once alone, once with one other person, and one time with two other people. The first sighting—in Panama just before midnight one night in 1936—the scientist and I were completely stumped as to what we were seeing because, although astronomers (professional and amateur) we had no previous base of knowledge with which to illuminate ourselves at that time concerning the sky object at which we were gazing. About 40 years later I read from Oahspe and, brother, I KNOW what we were looking at that night had to be a huge world-to-world ship not even in our atmosphere; not only demonstrating, as we watched, a steady forward flight path, but sudden "anchorage," and, afterward, a take-off in a spiral path before again assuming a straight steady course.

As to what these smaller closer objects are, I "know" not; but, Mr. Kor, it is said that over 15 million Americans, including leaders in science, astronomy, the space program and government, have officially reported UFO sightings—I think you'd have a difficult time trying to chase us all down and find out what our WORLDVIEWS are, as you propose. And you know what? I think you'd have a hard time getting funded, even with your profound ability for "intricate and precise" reasoning.

If man had ceased wanting to grab hold of the "exciting new ideas" that came by, I bet he would never have learned to fly. Have you ridden a plane yet, friend? How it must have "titillated" the inventor's "consciousness" when he seriously and believingly "grabbed hold of that new exciting idea when it came by."

Perhaps it will be of some consolation to you, Mr. Kor, to understand that I don't really CARE what the UFOs are all around us—whatever my Heavenly Father has instigated or allowed to visit his world is all right with me, but I am interested in finding out about his total creation, whatever they are! Also, you meet such sincere, friendly, investigative, searching minds on this great adventure. And you get to travel some—by plane, by car, by letter—and isn't that fun?

THAT RINGING IN YOUR EAR

Gentlemen:

I have been conscious of different Government and private activities concerning the medical aspects of hearing and (psychiatric) associations. It is related to a scientific discovery made in 1947 related to direct facial and the 8th nerve stimulation through a low frequency radio wave transmission. It is a direct stimulation of the cochlear electricity at the bioresinance frequency 51 KH.

The radio frequency is A.M. At the present time there is a hearing aid being manufactured using this direct sensorneural neurological stimulation concept. The American Medical Systems in New York has some patented models open for (leasing) to interested companies. Most important though is the Military, CIA and NRO enterprise using the same type of low frequency radio transmitters to broadcast ideas and information to the general public.

The large radio and T.V. news media are also involved in our mind manipulations. The radio broadcast is received at a subliminal level. Many people today complain of ringing in the ear. The radio broadcast will cause a person to apparently hear a ringing sensation depending on the individual's electro-chemical biology. The information going in at the subconscious level has a post-hypnotic suggestion effect on a person, reacting to the suggestion as though it were their own forethought. Most of the hideous murders committed world wide today are performed by people under the influence of the radio thought control. In one instance an instrument can be a beneficial hearing device or a tool for mass manipulation.

I am proposing the development of many instruments, those being a small tunable generator powering a coil going from 55 KH down to 3 or 4 HZ, the signal affecting the nervous system to create beneficial side effects. The next instrument would be a small radio receiver able to pick up 30 to 60 KH. The instruments could have widespread sales appeal, not to mention the lives that may be saved.

ATTENTION: Anyone interested in producing any quantity of such instruments will receive from me information on how visual subliminal coding is used to manipulate the stock market.

Thank you.

WHO RIDETH UPON THE HEAVENS

Dear Editor:

"THERE IS NONE LIKE UNTO THE GOD OF JESHURUN, WHO RIDETH UPON THE HEAVENS AND IN HIS EXCELLENCY UPON THE SKY."

In the Hebrew Bible, Old Testament, Deuteronomy account, this "power of the air" is depicted as "flying above".

Is this description of an immortal, supernatural creature, in reality, only another example of an identification error?

Was the "overlord" an explorational craft, newly arrived in the earth skies from Somewhere Else?

NORTH POLE HOLE

Dear Editor:

Questions—I've just recently become aware of the Hollow Earth Theory and have read a little about it. Your articles during the past year or so have been the only current source of info I've come across. Is any current research being done today? Gardner's book is very interesting and he presents a lot of evidence, but being as that it was written in 1920, how does his evidence stand up today? Has anyone since Admiral Byrd attempted to fly north and see if you'd end up in Siberia or outer the apteture? Your satellite photos are intriging but if the central sun is indeed a reality why wouldn't it have shone through? Even dense cloud cover rarely would blot out all light. Where can I look for more info on this fascinating subject? Your help will be greatly appreciated.

Sam Hopkins

● As SEARCH readers know, we have been promising another, more up-to-date article concerning the fascinating subjects, "the hollow earth" or "the hole at the pole". Bits and pieces of information are coming in. On April 29, 1979, the Japanese explorer, Naomi Vemura became the first man to finally reach the North Pole alone. He reported no vast hole in that area. That should settle the matter once and for all. But does it really? There remains many unanswered questions about that still mysterious area. —marjorie

THAT SAME OLD QUESTION

Dear Marge:

I know my subscription to Search must be past due but I don't remember what, when or how much.

Why not show on address labels when due. Other mags do. Fate does. Readers would appreciate it.

Edna S. Haines
Rt. 3 Box 67B
Bandera, TX 78003

● If you readers have asked us once, you have asked us thousands of times—why don't we show expiration date on your subscriptions on the address labels? The answer: our addressing equipment just doesn't work that way. We are sorry it doesn't. If we only had a spare thirty thousand dollars or so to invest in a new system, we would do so. You bet! Of course, we might miss the old machine just a little. We can blame it for so many things that go wrong—like why was the last SEARCH so late? Well, SEARCH was ready to go, but the addressing machine needed a new part. So we waited, and waited for repairs that took weeks to reach us. And you readers waited and waited for your Spring SEARCH. We are truly sorry. —marjorie

THE ORIGINAL "GREEN MAN"!

THE GREEN MAN AND HIS RETURN
by Harold Sherman

The first "Green Man" novel caused such a sensation in its day, that readers wrote Editor Ray Palmer, demanding a sequel. Sherman responded with another novel under the title, "The Green Man Returns," which was published in December 1947. In it, he had the Super Being, Numar, preceded by a Great Light which illumined the entire heavens, as he returned to Planet Earth with a fleet of his fellow creatures, landing at the capitol of every country, at a time when the earth people were in danger of destroying themselves by atomic warfare.

Both novels, reprinted in total, are filled with one precognitive incident after another, many of which have already been transformed from Science Fiction to Fact by actual happenings.

All that remains is for an enactment of the Grand Finale as depicted in Sherman's thrilling denoument—the appearance all over this world of spaceships on a gigantic mission designed to save the earth population from self-destruction.

Here is your opportunity to relive the Past, through these remarkable GREEN MAN novels, and to prepare yourself for the possible Future which may be bringing events that will be destined to affect your life and the lives of all your fellow humans for all time to come!

(Paper, 5½ x 8½, 192 pages)
What if you were one of five men and four women marooned for life on a strange lost "Garden of Eden" by an airplane crash? Would five "Adams" and four "Eves" make this modern Eden a Paradise? Could they begin a beautiful new existence, or would they make the same mistakes all over again? Can man really control his animal instincts? Is sex really evil, and is "sin" inevitable?

PHILOSOPHY OF MAGIC, THE—Eusebe Salverte—$4.75+.90 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-41-5
(Paper, 5½ x 8¼, 304 pages, large type)
The occult sciences of ancient peoples. Hundreds of ancient "lost" sciences are covered in this book; from miracles, prodigies, divine intervention, fables accepted as facts, thaumaturgists, genii, oracles, ledgerdemain, mystery schools, the Magi, automata, the art of flying, androids or speaking heads, apparitions, perpetual lamps to initiations, religious rites and immunity against serpents.

REVELATION OF ST. JOHN, THE—A.J. Inger—$2.61+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-40-7
(Paper, 5½ x 8¼, 208 pages)
A psychic translation by the famed medium, written in 1908, but incredible in its prophetic accuracy of the national situation today, especially startling concerning the politics of Watergate. Even more startling, the predictions of our immediate future!

ROMANCE OF TWO WORLDS, A—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-03-2
(Paper, 6½ x 9½, 252 pages)
Marie Corelli was perhaps the greatest psychic writer of them all. In this novel she treats the world of the spirit, and its relationship to we who are in the world of the living.

SECRET POWER, THE—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-07-5
(Paper, 5¼ x 8, 221 pages)
A great book of "secret knowledge". The most amazing book of prophecy of the past century! The atom bomb predicted half a century ago. (Here is an actual quote.) "Radio-activity is an explosion of great violence, the energy exerted is millions of times more powerful than the highest explosive substance yet made in our laboratories; one bomb loaded with such energy would be equal to millions of bombs of the same size and energy as used in the trenches. One's mind stands aghast at the thought of what could be possible if such power were used for destructive purposes; a single aeroplane could carry sufficient to annihilate a whole army, or lay the biggest city in ruins with the death of all its inhabitants."

SECRET WORLD,THE—Ray Palmer & Richard S. Shaver—$8.50+1.15 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-39-3
(Clothbound, washable cover, 8¾ x 11¼, 144 pages, 69 full color plates, 112 black and white illustrations)
What is the great secret of this planet? Is there really a super plan to our existence? What part do we play in it? What do we know of the secret already! Who are we? What is reality? Do we control our own destiny? Can we create our future? Where is the spirit world? Is Earth really hollow? What is Earth's true history? Did man once live in the sea? Did ancient races come from the moon, Mars, Venus, from outer space? Are some stones really electronically recorded crystal records of an ancient super race? Did the moon ever strike the Earth? The strangest and most fascinating book you will ever read!

SENSE OF SLAVERY, A—Phil Hruskocy—$5.00 postpaid ISBN 0-910122-51-2
(Paper, 5½ x 8½, 160 pages)
What is the power of the future that enslaves the gentle, the innocent, the aged and the unborn minds of men? Will we be faced with a world government people seem powerless to resist? This book is about a future shaped by our present.

SMOKY GOD, THE—Willis George Emerson—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-20-2
(Paper, 5¼ x 8¼, 176 pages, illustrated—11 full-color paintings and 2 black and white)
Olaf Jansen, a fisherman from Sweden, and his son, sailed by accident through the north polar opening and into the hollow interior of the Earth, and lived two years among its people. Olaf Jansen claims this is his true story as told to Willis George Emerson. He tells of a race of super giants, fifteen feet tall, far advanced scientifically, who treated them with utmost kindness. He lived in peace and harmony and traveled all over their country. He returned through the south polar opening. Fascinating reading, with pictures, charts, maps.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO HEAVEN?—M.R. Keith—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-22-9
(Paper, 5½ x 8½, 262 pages)
There is no single topic concerning which there is more misconception than the Hereafter. There is a lot of evidence concerning the after-death life of man, and what may be found there. The second book by this author on the subject of Heaven.

SORROWS OF SATAN,THE—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.90 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-06-7
(Paper, 6½ x 9½, 264 pages)
Perhaps the most unusual in its "mystic" content of all Marie Corelli's philosophical novels.

SOUL OF LILITH, THE—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.90 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-05-9
(Paper, 6½ x 9½, 324 pages)
In this book the author shows how close is the link between life before death and life after death.

TEMPORAL POWER—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-26-1
(Paper, 8½ x 11, 258 pages)
A tremendous tale of a King and his two passions—for the woman he loved and for power. Both came to a tragic end, but both reached into a mystic realm that brought a strange denouement.

THIRTY YEARS AMONG THE DEAD—Dr. Carl A. Wickland—$1.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-08-3
(Paper, 95 pages, illustrated)
This is a condensed version of Dr. Wickland's classic book on abnormal psychology. It is a record of his work with obsession carried on with Mrs. Wickland, who was an accomplished medium. Together they cured many obsessed persons, persuading discarnate entities to give up their hold on their victims, and thus restored their patients to normal happy lives.

UFO PROPHECY—Arthur Shuttlewood—$7.95 + 1.00 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-58-X
(Paper, 5½ x 8½, 266 pages, photographs)
The author, once a skeptic, is today a confirmed believer in UFOs. His earnest research into the identity, aims and purposes of thinking intelligences that frequently come into our atmosphere from other worlds and dimensions of existence, makes compelling reading.

VEIL LIFTED, THE—J. Traill Taylor—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-42-3
(Paper, 5½ x 8¼, 160 pages, 12 illustrations, large type)
The best book ever written on spirit photography. The book contains twelve famous spirit photographs plus a paper by J. Traill Taylor describing experiments in psychic photography, plus other material by Rev. H.R. Haweis and James Robertson.

VENDETTA—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.90 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-27-X
(Paper, 8½ x 11, 192 pages)
A tale of a vendetta toward a vengeance so terrible that even the dead recoil from its horror. Yet, a tale of justice and retribution as it must come to all those who challenge the right.

WONDERS OF THE INVISIBLE WORLD, THE—Cotton Mather—$4.75+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-46-6
(Paper, 5½ x 8¼, 304 pages, large type)
The trials of the witches. Cotton Mather's own account of his famous persecution of the witches of Salem, written in 1693. The self-incrimination of the most sadistic member of the clergy who ever lived; fascinating and incredibly blood-chilling. The accusations, the trials, the executions.

WORMWOOD—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.90 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-38-5
(Paper, 8½ x 11, 176 pages)
"And the name of the star is called WORMWOOD; and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died in the waters, because they were made bitter." Revelation VIII, 12. Here is the author's most tragic and compelling novel of man's weaknesses and his moral destiny.

ZISKA—Marie Corelli—$3.50+.70 postage & handling ISBN 0-910122-28-8
(Paper, 8½ x 11, 88 pages)
A story of reincarnation. The problem of a wicked soul. For the sins he committeed, the gods must judge him. But befitting a warrior, Amenhotep, the King, gives him honor—until he faces the woman he wronged!

Man's Hunt for Sentient Life

The reason why many astronomers assume that most stars are encircled by one or more dependent planets is based on the Nubular Hypothesis. This was advanced in 1796 by the French mathematician and astronomer, Pierre Simon de LaPlace and, in one brief sentence, goes like this:

As the birth of stars occur in large clouds of interstellar gas and dust (a "nebula") that whirlingly condense under gravitational influence, a small amount of the gas and dust escapes the forming star's attraction to eventually become orbiting planets.

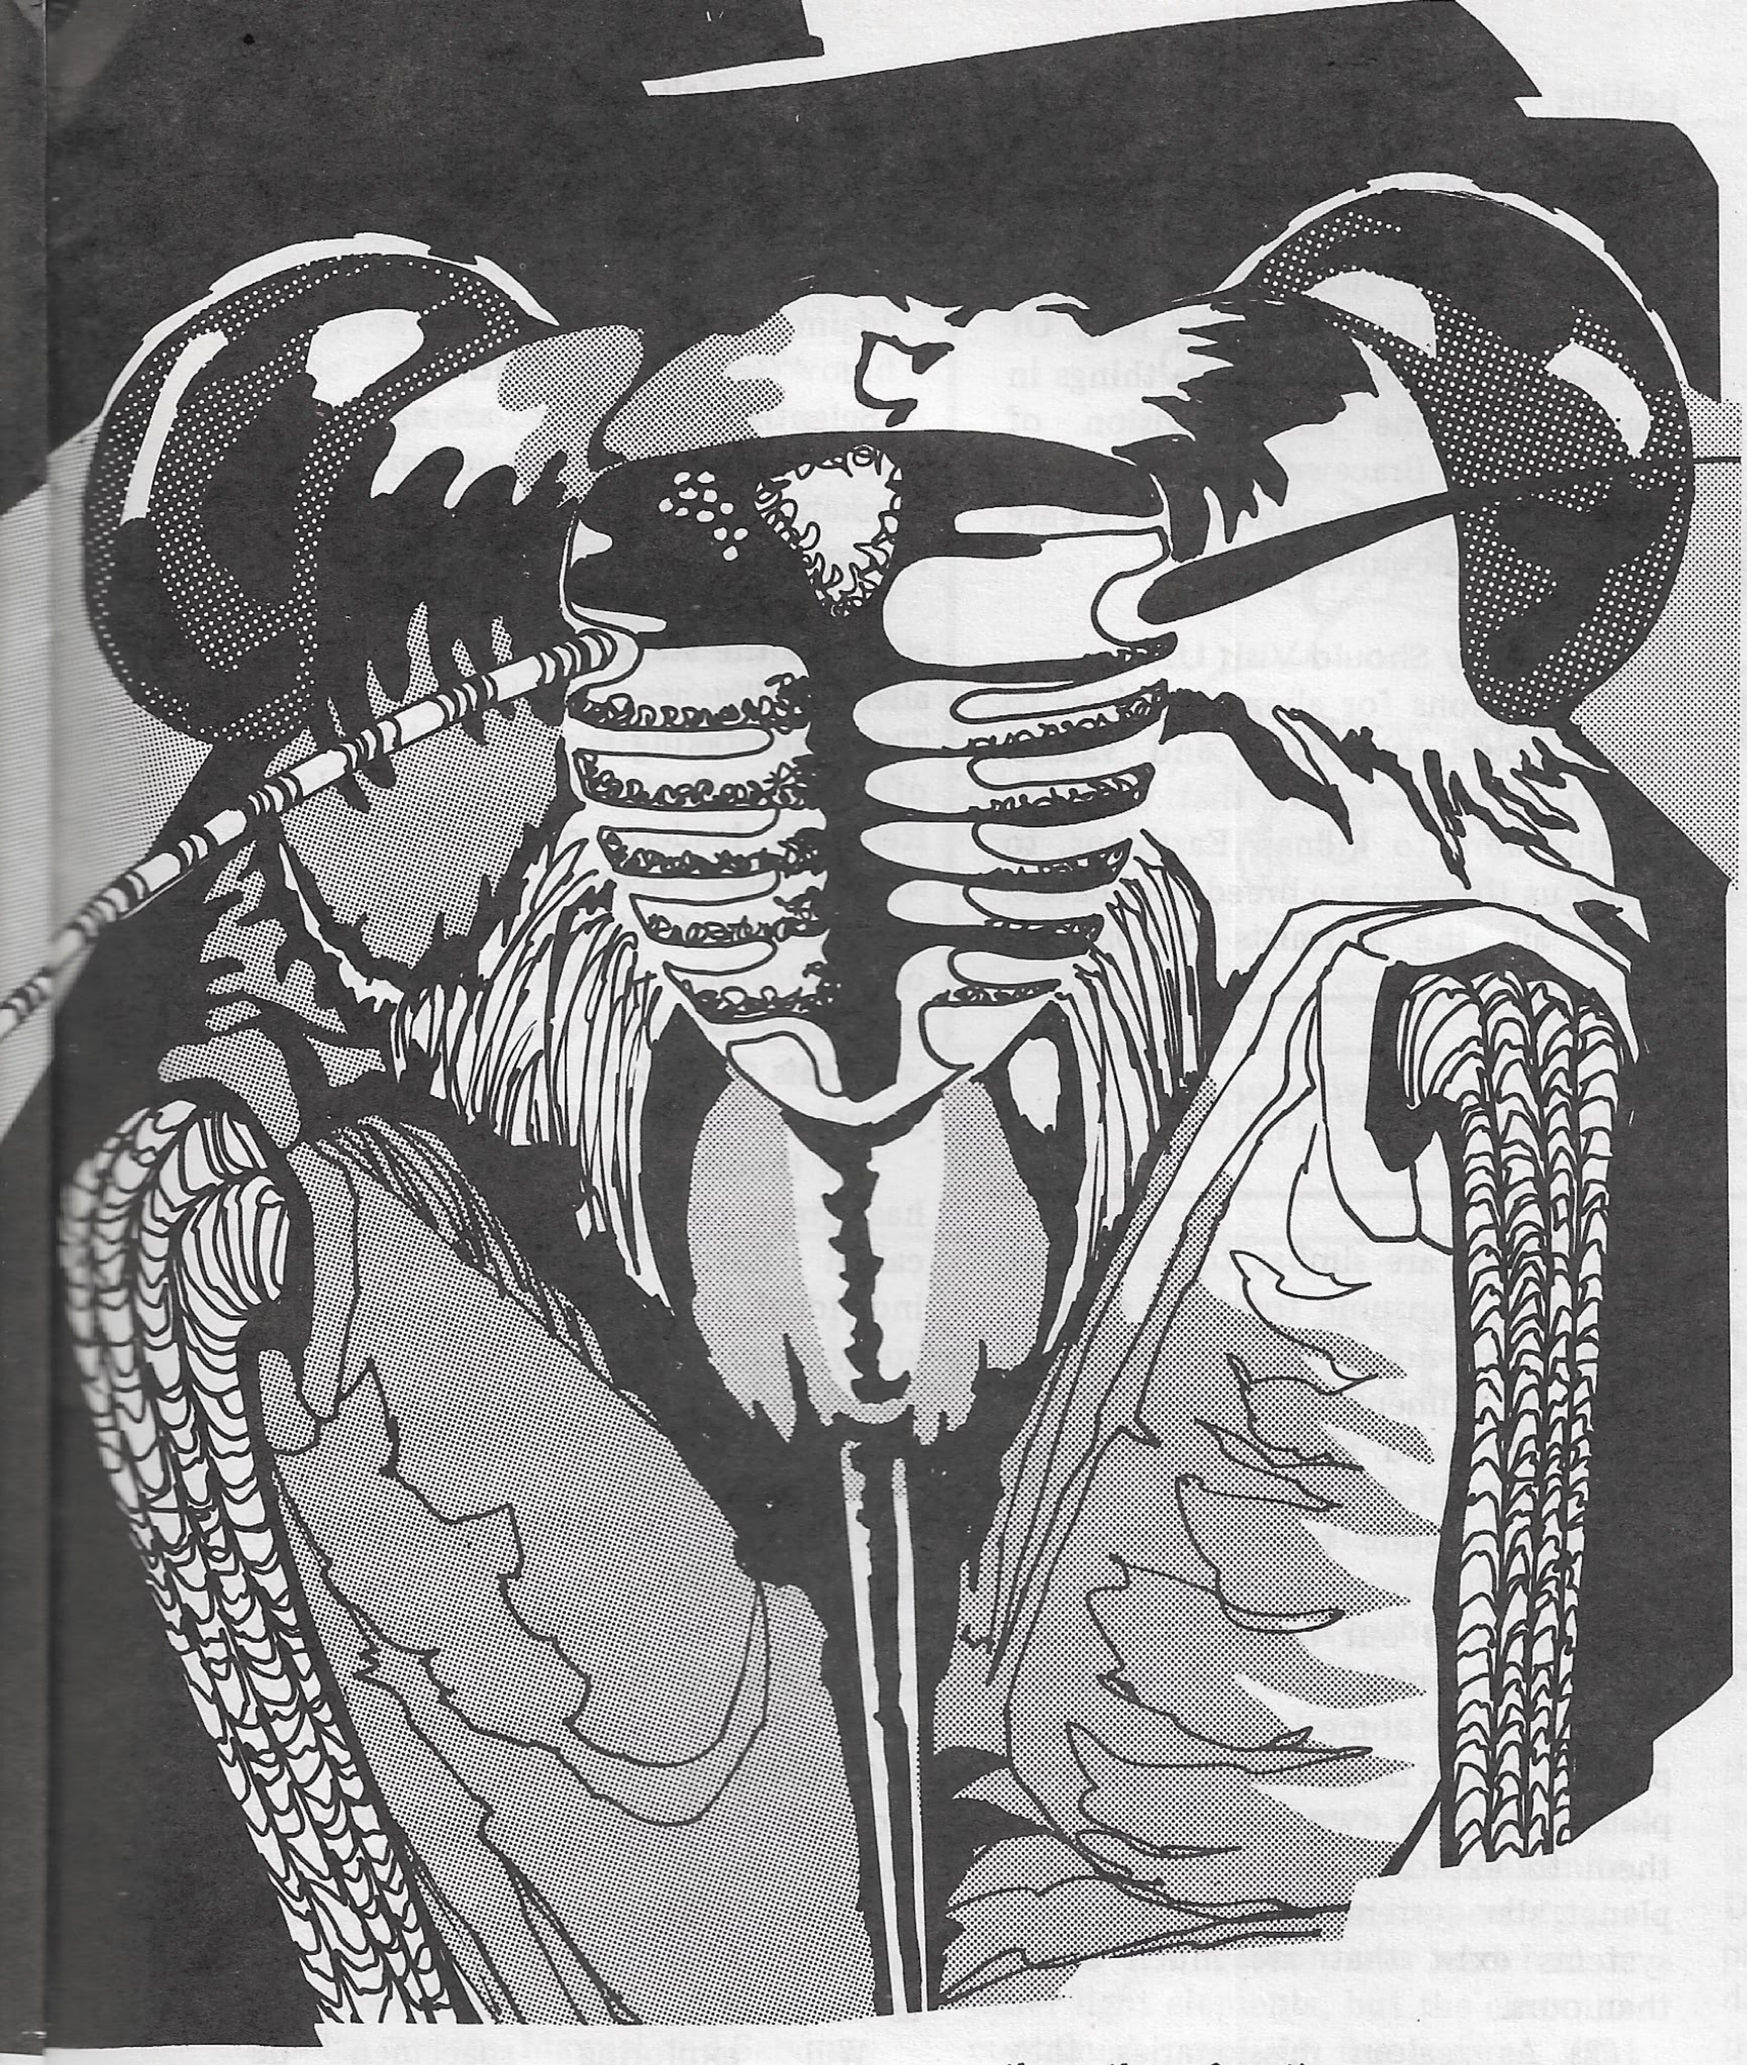
Why is the statement made that "most" stars have offspring planets? Why not "all" stars? Well, one impressive answer is found in Ronald N. Bracewell's book INTELLIGENT LIFE IN OUTER SPACE where, on page 5, are the words:

"According to a discovery of Otto Strauve, stars fall into two basic, sharply divided categories: those that are turning slowly (like our sun) and those turning rapidly. We now assume that the rapidly turning stars failed to be braked by outlying rings of matter which could be the precursors of planets and therefore probably do not have planets, whereas the slowly turning stars very likely owe their lack of angular momentum to the fact that they possess planetary systems. Of the stars observed, most of them, in fact 90 percent, are turning slowly. The changing fortunes of the theories of planetary origin have thus produced the optimistic expectation that planets are a commonplace by-product of star formation."

In no way is our sun unique in the cosmos. As an average star in size, luminosity, color, composition and age, it is duplicated, not only throughout our galaxy, but also in other galaxies. Seemingly, the same laws that apply to our immense area of space also apply to the farthest reaches of creation.

If Solar Systems Are the Rule, Rather Than the Exception. . .

It may well be that there exists in the endless universe a plethora of Earth-like planets. And who can deny that most may be supporting humanoid life on all intellectual levels?



Our level, as well as below and above. In many cases, maybe infinitely above.

So, making the assumption that man is not alone in the universe, we will assume that other outer space civilizations exist, along with aliens that are both "humanoid" and "biological". And, though they are human-like in appearance, we still cannot take it for granted that they possess sensory receptors similar to ours. The differences could indeed be brain-shaking.

Ears On Their Stomachs?

Take our mouths. From this one orifice comes three different tasks. We breathe, we ingest food, we talk. But other unearthly creatures may have distinctly separate organs for each of those three functions.

Our primary sensory organs are located in our heads. Who is to say, however, that this MUST apply to ALL aliens? Perhaps some will be found to have their ears on their stomachs—like our grasshoppers. Perhaps, also, their sense of taste and smell are on leg organs—like our flies. If we were to witness the sudden and intricate dancing of a confronted alien, perhaps that is the alien's way of communicating—like our honey bee.

That their sensory range could overlap ours is to be expected. That is, to a limited extent, then go further, extending into realms beyond human perception, but not necessarily beyond the range of our scientific instruments.

Usually, when we think of alien life forms, we visualize them as "biological" no matter how fantastic their shape. Our first alien contact, however, could just as easily turn out with the aliens being TOTALLY MECHANICAL!

The possibility exists that scientific instrumentation may have extended our sensory range into the normal sensory range of aliens, while aliens have instrumentally extended their sensory range into our normal human sensory range.

It goes without saying that aliens will face specific events differently from us. As mortals, (like us), how will they regard death? How will they interpret it? Say their normal life-spans surpass ours by 200 Earth years. Or 500 years. Or 1,000. Or more. Certainly their lengthy lives alone will have given them an outlook unimaginably different from ours.

Similarly, a humanoid alien does not necessarily have to be the approximate size of an Earthian. The gravity—and mass—of his world would unquestionably influence the size of its inhabitants.

Heavy gravity planets would conceivably evolve denizens that were squat, muscular and perhaps ground-huggers—like our alligators. A world of light gravity would likely produce tall, thin-legged and slender aliens—possibly on the order of our ostriches.

From page 86 of another book by Frederick I. Ordway III, LIFE IN OTHER SOLAR SYSTEMS: "The structure of extrasolar beings could be vastly different, or could be similar, to that which houses the vital organs, nerves, blood vessels of humans. For maximum efficiency, we may expect their central nervous system to be rather close to the main sensory organs and brain and to be as protected as possible—a high position, such as a head, seems logical, to provide the being with good vision and an excellent location from which to communicate with fellow beings. Moreover, they must be mobile and hence will have limbs on which they can maneuver about—perhaps two legs or perhaps four, like a horse. Certainly, they will have appendages, permitting them to manipulate things. We call ours hands and have two; other beings may have more, probably an even number. For symmetry and balance, an odd number is unlikely.

"We can do little more than sketch such generalities about intelligent creatures we have never seen. Just what they are really like, what organs they possess to permit them to carry out their social and scientific functions, will depend to an important extent on the long evolutionary cycle that gave rise to the dominant life form on their particular planet."

It is interesting to speculate on Earthian reaction upon meeting alien life for the first time. How will he feel, standing before an extra-terrestrial whose inhuman intellect is within a scaly, tentacled, insect-like frame some twelve feet tall? The mentality of such strange creature could never be understood by a human. Partially understood, perhaps, but never TOTALLY understood.

Back to INTELLIGENT LIFE FROM OUTER SPACE by Ronald N. Bracewell, page 85, who delved into this matter.

"A nonhuman alien who is able to navigate through celestial space will be able to exchange lists of astrophysical data with us to mutual benefit and will share an interest in such chemistry and physics as we possess that may be new to him. Since many of our current problems—space, energy, pollution—depend upon as yet undiscovered physics and chemistry for part of their solution, our interest is more than merely academic. The whole subject matter of pure mathematics will surely fall within our overlapping spheres of interest. But we will not know and may be unable to conceive of the values that he attaches to these items. Conversely, we may be unable to convey to him what human emotions such as anger and love mean to us. Perhaps he will be able to follow our explanation in an intellectual way but be unable to feel or identify with expreiences that for us are deep-seated."

Bracewell then goes on to give a good parallel regarding the initial meeting between a human and a sentient being.

Consider the relationship between two creatures right here on Earth, both mammals, a man and his dog. Close as we are, we still remain worlds apart in spite of the many things we have in common. Things like chasing one another, feeding or being fed, petting or being petted, showing affection.

Still, despite this closeness, it would never occur to us to discuss, for example, such subjects as science, poetry or politics with our dog. Of course we do not have these things in common. Some such division of interest, says Bracewell, will apply to each unearthly community that we are destined to encounter.

If They Should Visit Us. . .

The reasons for alien visitations to Earth could be many and varied. Alarmists may declare that they are coming here to kidnap Earthians, to breed us the way we breed beef cattle. After all, the alarmists reason, the alien visitors are similar to us in that they, also, consume food for energy. What utter nonsense, for surely it would be immensely cheaper for the highly advanced aliens to synthesize meat chemically.

"They wish to return us to their world—as amusing pets."

Other reasons tumble forth like felled trees. Here are several:

(1) If it is our minerals they are after to replenish their own depleted minerals, why come to our far-distant planet? Are there no uninhabited planets in their own solar system for them to exploit? If their's is a one-planet star system, surely other solar systems exist that are much closer than ours.

(2) As zealous missionaries, they have come here to evangelize and convert us.

(3) Maybe, as a short-lived, race, they have long been engaged in the universal search for life-prolonging drugs, hoping we have them.

(4) They wish to return us to their world—as amusing pets.

(5) Perhaps, as fanatical "sportsmen" they are here to hunt us down and kill us as though we are wild game.

(6) They want us for slaves. But this is most unlikely because, as an advanced technological race, they must have solved the labor problem in some mechanical way.

(7) Grim as it is, they are going to convert our sun into a pulsating, navigation beacon. Which, needless to say, would automatically mean the extinction of all terrestrial life.

(8) KNOWLEDGE. That is their solitary and ever-increasing preoccupation.

If We Should Meet "God's Other Children"

Scientists, of course, are agog over space exploration. But other deep-thinkers should also share their feelings.

Philosophers should begin a serious study of the staggering implications of alien intelligences on human thought. This undertaking is not done for fear of being considered a "weirdo". Religious leaders, perhaps more so, should also accept the challenge.

In our no-turning-back penetration of the void, certain questions are inevitably bound to arise. Especially will this be so if intelligent life is found.

We theorize that God, the Creator, has great concern for a tiny speck called Earth, along with every individual human upon it. Does this apply, also, for each planet—possibly numbering into the countless TRILLIONS—that harbors intelligent non-humans?

If a Christian man lands on a far-flung planet that supports a race of rational beings whose whole civilization differs totally from his own, will this awareness be compatible with his own Christian teaching that God became man in Christ to redeem mankind?

Will present norms of conduct, such as the Golden Rule, be true for them as well?

Will exploring spacemen be accompanied by "missionaries" whom zealous evangelists feel an unbreakable compulsion to send along?

If evolution has given them new senses, does not the possibility then exist of unrecognizable sins?

How can the inhabitants of extra-solar Earths be judged by terrestrial standards when what we consider are sins could to such creatures be virtues?

If an alien (no matter what his shape or size) has the intellect to think, judge, reason, etc., would he not automatically know what is morally wrong, like stealing or taking another's life?

We come now to C.S. Lewis, late professor of English at Cambridge. As a noteworthy religious writer in the postwar era, he authored a Christian Herald article over fifteen years ago in which he stated that if the discovery was ever made that the universe teems with alien civilizations, it would prove no real threat to his Christian position. He argued that as other beings might not be "fallen", and therefore would have no need of a Saviour, we might rather learn from them!

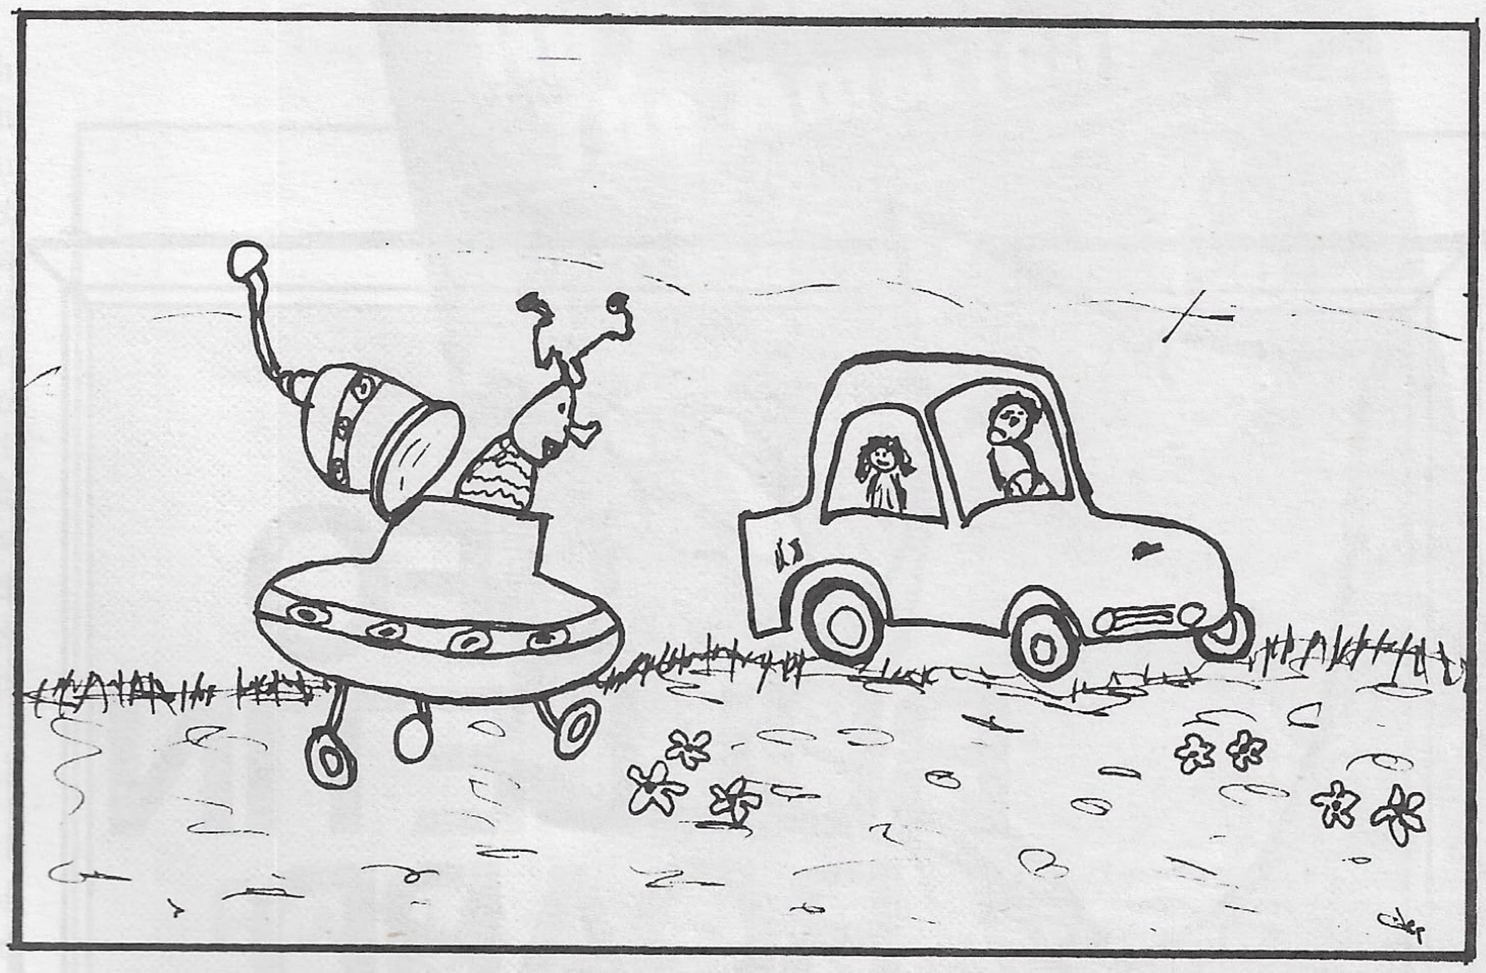
Lewis stressed what he considered was the real danger. Man's arrogance, he wrote soberly, might lead him to mistake innocence, or spiritual maturity, for ignorance, with the result that man would attempt to exploit these alien races in the name of evangelism.

"I have wondered before now," speculated Lewis, "whether the vast astronomical distances may not be God's quarantine precautions. They prevent the spiritual infection of our fallen species from spreading."



Do you folks happen to have a monkey wrench?

HOW THE SOLAR SYSTEM WAS FORMED

A new finding further confirms a recently proposed theory on the formation of the earth, the sun and the surrounding planets.

The discovery, published in the Feb. 22, 1979 issue of "Nature," backs up a theory, proposed by Dr. Oliver Manuel, University of Missouri-Rolla professor, and Dr. D.D. Sabu, professor at Grambling University, that contradicts the beliefs previously held by scientists on the formation of our solar system. Manuel and Sabu say that our earth, sun and planets were formed from the explosion of a big star in which the chemical elements were in an unmixed state—in other words, there were different chemical elements at different depths of the star. Scientists had previously believed that the solar system was produced from a cloud of gas and dust in which the elements were in a mixed state.

The latest confirmation of the theory is the discovery that chemical elements taken from a meteorite were in an unmixed state. Even the atoms that made up the individual elements were not mixed.

This finding shows that carbon, one of the minerals in the meteorite, contained an excess of the atoms of heavy elements as would be expected in the outer part of a star. In the meteorite's chromite, there was a deficiency of those same atoms of the same heavy elements. (Chromite is composed of elements generated in the interior of a star, but carbon could not have been generated there, as it is destroyed in the star's interior by the fusion reactions which produce the elements of chromite.) These two minerals, carbon and chromite, showed other evidence supporting the theory. The carbon was enriched in other light elements, but the chromite contained none of these same light elements—elements which could not survive the extreme temperatures that occur in the interior of a star.

The meteorite used in this work fell near the Mexican village of Pueblito de Allende in 1969 and was supplied for analysis by the University of Houston.

The UMR research team has been actively testing the unmixed element theory since 1976. Their analyses on minerals from the Allende meteorite is the third confirmation of this theory.

The first test showed that atoms of elements in iron meteorites were unlike those observed in Allende-type stone meteorites. This discovery was published in the August 1977 issue of "Earth and Planetary Science Letters."

Another test showed that elements in rocks from the earth's mantle consist of atoms in the same unmixed proportions as those found in iron meteorites. That finding was published in 1978 as a chapter in the proceedings of an international conference that Dr. Manuel attended at Hakone, Japan.

"Taken together, the results of these three tests seem to confirm beyond any reasonable doubt the theory we first began testing in 1976," Dr. Manuel says. "Our earth, sun and planets formed directly from the debris of an exploded star. We hope that future planned missions to comets and the outer planets will include a final experimental test of the 'unmixed element theory'—a test of the theory's prediction that heavy elements in Jupiter and Saturn consist of atoms in the same proportions as those found in Allende's carbon."

In an article in the January 14, 1977 issue of "Science," Manuel and Sabu point out that the "unmixed element theory" also solves a long-standing scientific problem—the so-called solar neutrino puzzle. In the article, the scientists show that the small number of neutrinos released by the sun is not a puzzle, but a natural consequence of the sun's formation on the core of an exploded star.

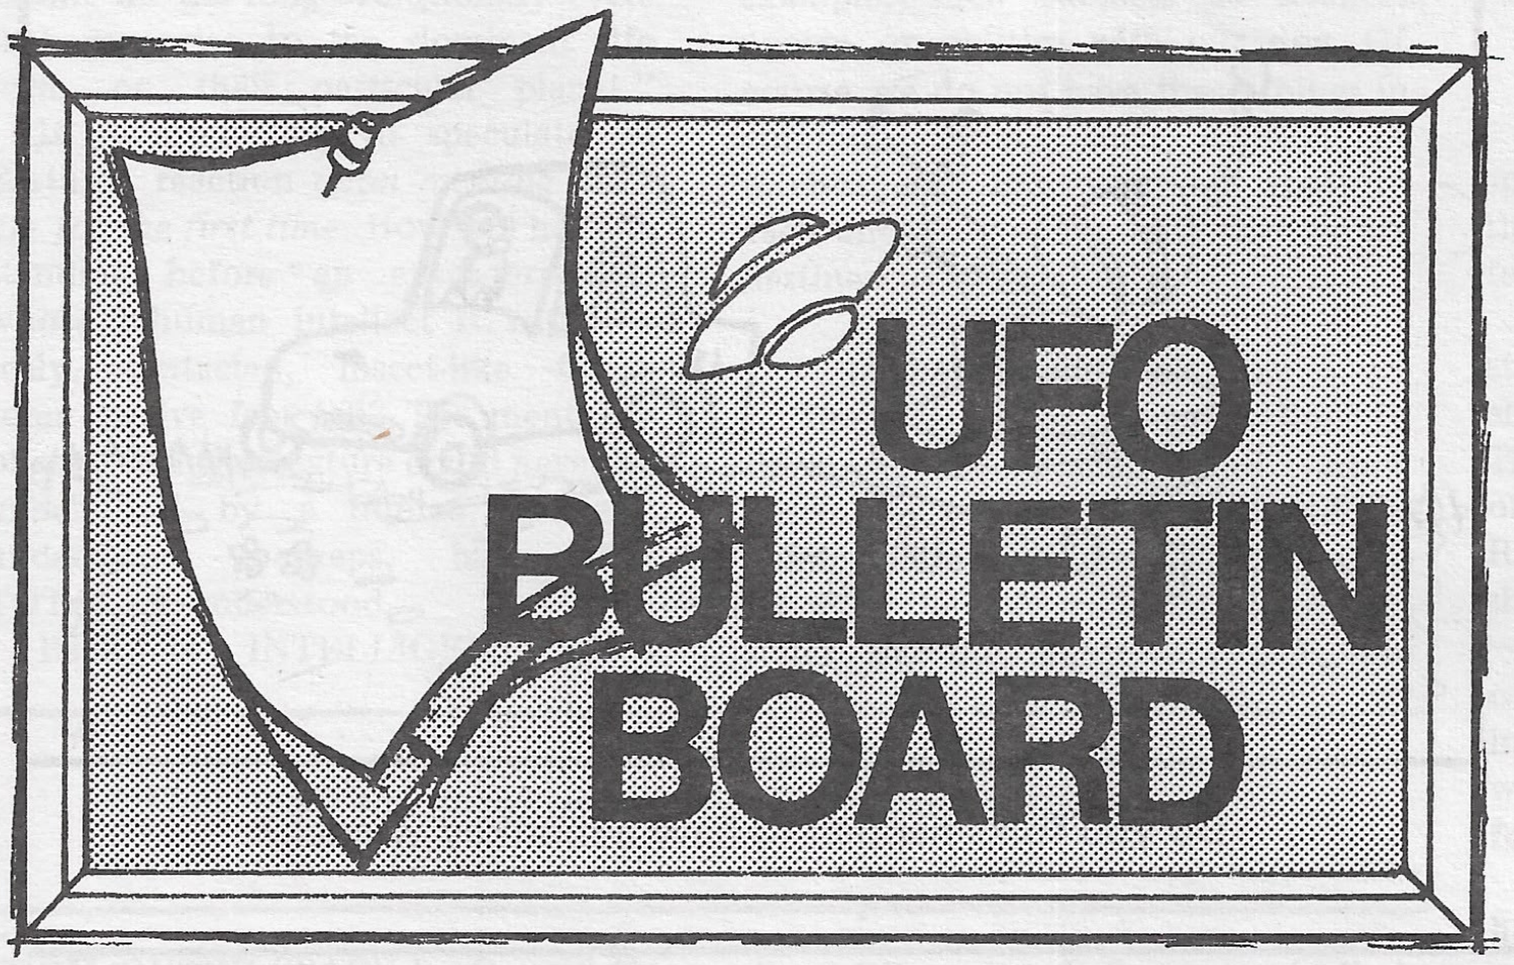
NEWS RELEASE



OHIO UFO INVESTIGATORS LEAGUE, INC.

The Ohio UFO Investigators League, Inc., founded on October 7, 1973, is a non-profit corporation established under the laws of the State of Ohio and a federally recognized scientific and educational tax-exempt research organization, is dedicated to the eventual solution of the total phenomenon of Unidentified Flying Objects.

The LEAGUE does not promote or advocate religious, philosophical or political causes, nor do we concern ourselves with baseless (and endless) theories or wild rumors. Our basic function, as an investigative, FACT-FINDING body, is to encourage public interest and participation at a local level; and to provide UFO information and evidence for scientific studies now in progress on an international level.

Teaches An Investigative Course

OUFOIL is only one of several seriously minded organizations, who teaches an investigative course on the proper procedures of doing an investigation. The course covers a four day program. After the course has been completed, a three and one half hour examination is given. Only those members who pass this test, can qualify as a field investigator for OUFOIL. The results from the exam tells us what areas of investigating that an individual needs help with and we try to help one improve in that area.

OUFOIL feels that the investigative report is the most important part of an investigation, because its a permanent record of what happened. That's why it's so important that the field investigator knows what he's doing. OUFOIL doesn't believe in taking dues from the general public and handing them a card making them an investigator. Not everyone has the capabilities to be an investigator. We're proud in teaching our course because of two main reasons: 1) we're doing something that the larger UFO organizations aren't doing which we feel is so important. 2) our investigative reports are more accurate, complete (we do many follow ups) and unbiased.

OUFOIL is also very proud of being a community involved organization. We have worked very closely with our local police as well as the State Highway Patrol departments. We're involved in the Community Radio Watch program which our roving CB units monitor to help crime prevention. OUFOIL also prides itself on good press relations. Our files are open to the press and the public. This, of course, excludes the confidential reports and the membership roster.

OUFOIL firmly believes that concentrated and continuous scientific study by dedicated researchers in various related fields will provide the ultimate answer to the UFO enigma. Since a sincere interest in resolving the UFO phenomenon is a prime requirement for membership, many diversified categories of positions are available. They are Consultant; Section Director; Field Investigator; Research Specialist; Amateur Radio Operator; Astronomy; Field Investigator Trainee (under 18 years of age); Translator; UFO News Clipping Service and Advertising Director.

The Ohio Sky Watcher

The Ohio Sky Watcher, the official publication of the Ohio UFO Investigators League, Inc., is our most significant means of sharing details of UFO sighting reports and vital information related to the phenomenon with our members. The Ohio Sky Watcher has established itself as one of the leading UFO magazines in the field of Ufology today. FATE magazine rated our publication by far the best they have seen as a private publication by a small organization.

Over the years, OUFOIL has investigated many interesting cases. By far the best, which OUFOIL never got credit for, was the Kentucky Abduction Case involving three women. It was OUFOIL's investigators who first contacted the women, not APRO. They got involved several weeks later and in order to even talk to them, told the women that they were with OUFOIL. Tactics like this have been and are still being used by many in Ufology. Things like this should never happen, there should be mutual cooperation among all. OUFOIL believes that no one organization or researcher has the sole rights to any case. Each and every case should belong to the general public. Here again is a point that has hurt Ufology over the years. If several organizations or researchers are involved in the investigation of the same case, they should pull together in a joint effort to get as complete and accurate investigation as possible. After all, the old saying still holds true even in Ufology, two heads are better

The Para-Homonoid Research Division is another important main stream within OUFOIL. Ron Schaffner, perhaps the best investigator that OUFOIL has on its staff, heads this division. His investigative reports are by the far the best in his field, especially in Ohio where Professionalism is lacking. Not many investigators, including the well known, does as complete a report as Mr. Schaffner. He has investigated several Bigfoot cases in Ohio, thus proving that Bigfoot isn't limited to just the Pacific Northwest.

Hosted 1978 MUFON Symposium In Dayton, Ohio

1978 was a special year of importance for OUFOIL. We hosted the 9th Annual MUFON Symposium in Dayton, Ohio. We're proud to say that it was the most successful Symposium that MUFON has ever held. Also it was OUFOIL's fifth anniversary of existence. We have come a long way since the flap of 1973, when just three people did all the work. To date we have some 30 trained field investigators and will be ready to train more when Spring comes.

Belonging to a large UFO organization is fine, but it does have its drawbacks. OUFOIL urges everyone interested in Ufology to join a local UFO organization or one nearest them. The smaller organizations can offer people a lot more for their dues. They get to attend regular meetings, go on field trips, be involved in projects, etc. They can't get this from the large organizations. Look for an organization closer to you and see what you're missing.

At this time, I would like to caution your readers concerning any new UFO groups. Especially the ones that have started within the last year. Beware of the con man. Don't be fooled by their fancy wording and gimmicks. Any organization that offers you the moon and has plans of spreading across the nation, should be checked out. There are organizations that have just started and they're interested in only your money. Those who have been involved in Ufology for a long time can see the intent of these groups. Remember, the interest in the UFO phenomenon is at an all time high, thus there are those who will and are taking advantage of the situation. So please be careful, seek advice from those who may know of that organization that you wish to join. Above all, get several opinions, not just one.

If The Ohio UFO Investigators League, Inc., can be of service to anyone, please write us and we'll do our best to help you. OUFOIL has been around since 1973 and is well respected among Ufologists. We're well updated on what's going on in our field of research, OUFOIL deals in facts, not garbage. Our cases bear this out.

UFO SPACE NEWSCLIPPING JOURNAL
Proposed Project

For the last few months I've been preparing to publish a UFO newsclipping journal and have been collecting information for the project. I will soon subscribe to a newsclipping service which will provide newspaper articles on UFO's, extraterrestrial life, and some related unusual phenomena every month for a fee. The newsclippings will come from almost all daily and weekly newspapers in the United States. They will also come from the great majority of all the English language newspapers in over 70 countries. English language nations include Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and Ireland. Many foreign language countries also publish English language periodicals. For example, India has over 30 dailies while Japan has over a dozen and Taiwan has a few. Some countries have only one while many European countries have none at all. Still English newspapers totaling several thousands throughout the Intentions are to greatly expand the foreign language services in the future.

Various sections will be set off through the use of colored tinted pages and the pages will be bound with a thermal binding machine. Articles from foreign correspondents will be accepted as will be advertisements and a letters to the editor column.

A little background on myself: I am a graduate of Texas A&M University with a B.S. degree in physics employed by a Dallas-based petroleum company as a geophysicist. I've been a UFO enthusiast for over 15 years and have amassed a library of over 250 UFO books plus countless magazines and newsclips. I've been contacting many UFO groups around the world for exchanges of ads and information to better the journal, and make it the best periodical in its field yet published.

UFO-LINCON '79
THE FIRST LONDON INTERNATIONAL UFO RESEARCH CONGRESS

DATES: SUNDAY and MONDAY, 26-27 AUGUST 1979
(August Bank Holiday weekend)
VENUE: MOUNT ROYAL HOTEL, MARBLE ARCH, LONDON W1
(adjacent to Oxford St.)

GUEST SPEAKERS: Dr. J. ALLEN HYNEK, Director of the Center for UFO Studies, former Professor of Astronomy at Northwestern University, Illinois, and Director of the Lindheimer Observatory. For 20 years a civilian consultant to the U.S. Air Force.

A second American and well-known European ufologists have also been invited. U.K. speakers are expected to include J. Bernard Delair BSc, editor of Awareness and coordinator of Contact International's Data Research centre; and Norman Oliver FRAS, editor of Bufora Journal, a BUFORA director, and producer of 'Skyquest' lecture tapes.

Since its formation in 1962, BUFORA has sponsored conferences about once every 18 months. Successful two-day national research and investigation conferences were staged at Stoke-on-Trent in 1975, at Birmingham in 1976, and at Nottingham in 1978. The latter was particularly successful and it is a natural progression for BUFORA to move into the international conference arena. As in the past, the overall budget is aimed at covering costs rather than making a profit, and this will be the first truly international event of its kind to be held in the UK. Also it will be unique both by virtue of its size and its international research objectives. The cultist fringe will not be welcome. BUFORA Limited: Hon Sec., 6 Cairn Avenue, London W5 5HX.

ARE WE DUPES OR DOPES?

If you bought an item in June 1967 for $10,000, then sold it in November 1978 for $15,000, you are required to pay taxes on your "profit" of $5,000. Actually, you had no profit. Instead you sustained a loss of about $42,500 in real value.

If you earned $10,000 in 1967, then earned $15,000 in 1977, you were required to use a tax base of $15,000 in 1977. When compared to 1967, your earning of $15,000 in 1977 had a real value of $8,258. You sustained a loss of about $1,742 in purchasing power. However, you were required to pay taxes on the basis that you earned more in 1977 than in 1967.

If you had $10,000 in a savings account in 1967 and made no further deposits, the original $10,000 would have decreased in real value to about $5,000 in 1977. During the intervening ten years, the interest rate on your savings was usually below the rate of inflation. THE INTEREST RATE WAS CONTROLLED BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT. Yet, despite the steady erosion of your savings, the tax collectors decreed that you had a gain and taxed you accordingly.

The Federal Government thrives on inflation. INFLATION INCREASES TAX REVENUES under the system of tax collection now in use. Meanwhile, fiat money can be printed in an ever growing torrent.

Some State and Local governments have adopted the taxing pattern of the Federal Government thus compounding the confiscation of the earnings and wealth of our citizens.

It would require many pages just to cover the basic outlines of the complex system used to impose injustices and inequities upon us. Every item purchased in the marketplace carries a heavy load of taxes.

False U.S. dollar evaluations are used to mislead us. Currently, the propaganda is that many of our economic ills are being caused by the OPEC nations raising the cost of oil. Actually, in real value dollars, the price of oil has risen only slightly above the price set by agreement made shortly after World War II.

We were told that speculation by foreigners was the cause for the rise in the price of gold. Fortunately, not many Americans believed this. In 1978, when gold was priced at about $182 an ounce, it was, in real value dollars near the price set by the Federal Government in 1933.

We were bombarded with cries of alarm and denunciations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation for alleged abuses of power while investigating subversive activities. This organization now is so hobbled that much of its usefulness has been destroyed. If terrorism should become rampant, martial law backed by raw military power would be our only recourse. Yet, some addle headed lawmakers believe they acted to protect our civil rights.

There are frequent reports about the costly court trials of criminals guilty of horrendous crimes; and of the amazing maze of legal technicalities used by expensive lawyers to protect the constitutional rights of these criminals at taxpayers' expense.

Meanwhile, law abiding citizens are being subjected to numerous violations of their constitutional rights by the Internal Revenue Service of the U.S. government. This arm of government, backed by its own interpretation of our Constitution and of our laws, adheres to the motto that American citizens are guilty until they can prove themselves innocent. By using its police state powers, it can fine or jail citizens without jury trial; it can sieze our homes and chattels; tap our phones; and invade the most private sectors of our lives. Only rarely are these violations reported by the monopolistic mass news media. Why?

Were their attacks upon the CIA and the FBI distractionary tactics to draw our attention away from the real enemies of our freedoms? Were they cowed by the regulatory powers of the Federal government? Are we being subjected to "thought control" by both governmental and private interests? Are many of the so-called civil rights battles part of a great propaganda spectacle being staged to convince us that we are witnessing a broadening of our freedoms?

Self-appointed mentors will classify as paranoid anyone asking these or similar questions.

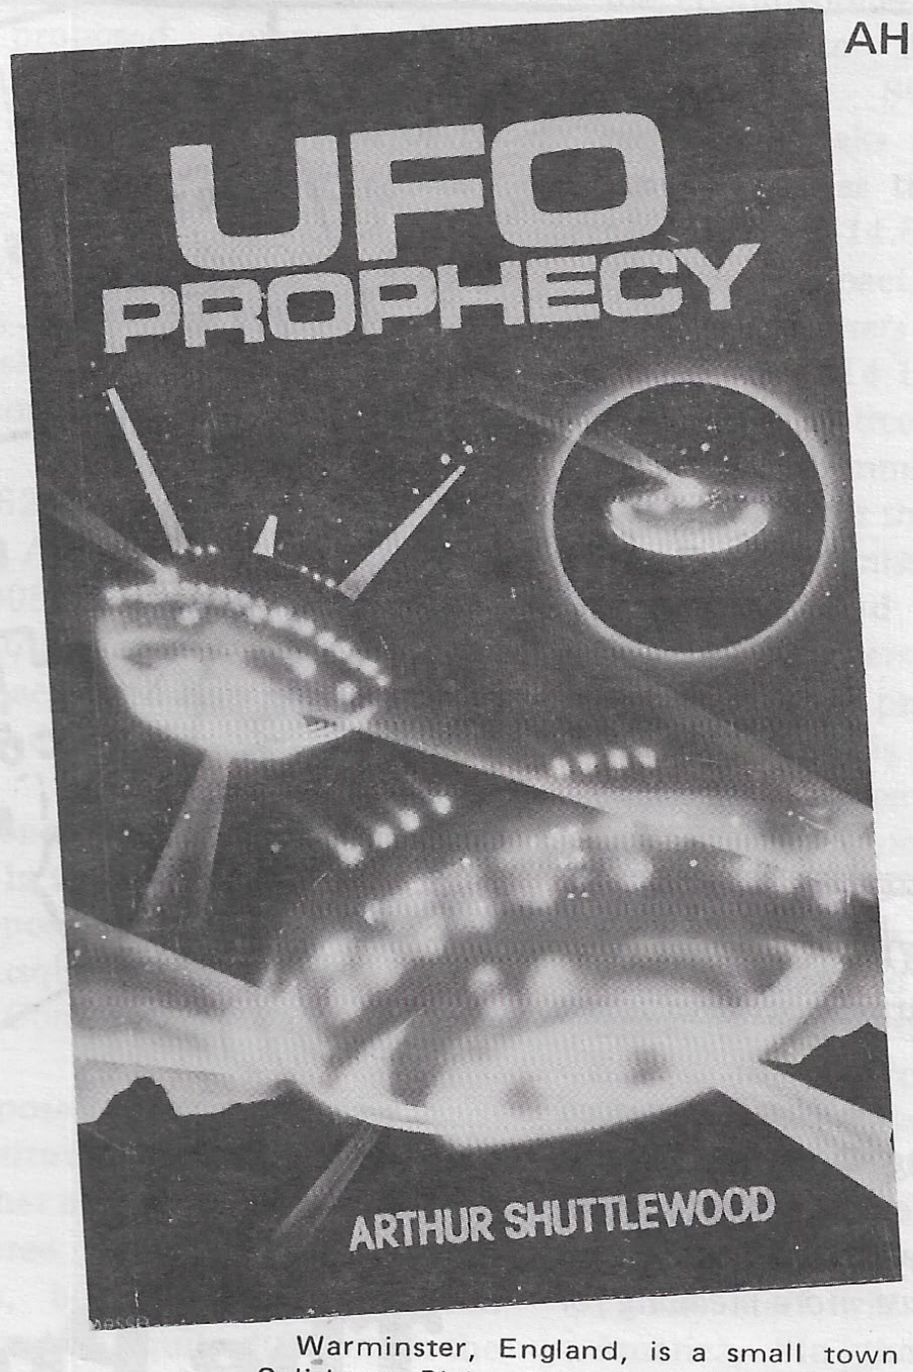
UFO PROPHECY CONTAINS

A STARTLING MESSAGE FOR THE YEARS AHEAD



Warminster, England, is a small town located on Salisbury Plain, just east of Stonehenge. Its 5,000 residents are sane and sober. . .but they still see UFOs. In fact, just about everyone who lives in this normally tranquil community has seen and experienced "things" in the sky which they are hard-pressed to understand.

Arthur Shuttlewood started out as a skeptic. As editor of the local daily, the Warminster Journal, it was his self-appointed task to try and explain what was going on in the heavens above this usually reserved town. Surely, people must be hallucinating. Such things just couldn't be happening.

They were!

Today Shuttlewood is a confirmed believer. He has had over 500 sightings of his very own and many close encounters with the occupants of these strange craft.

His earnest research into the identity, aims and purposes of thinking intelligences that frequently come into our atmosphere from other worlds and dimensions of existence, makes compelling reading.

Just recently we have received many letters along the same lines as the one that follows. Apparently, in the year 1979, the 1975 Forum article is beginning to have more meaning for more people.—ed.

Dear Mrs. Palmer,

Some 3 or so years ago your husband published an account of how the U.S.A. was to be divided up under Soviet control! There was a U.S.A. map divided according to rivers, the plan being to put people in the various sections and water was to be allowed according to how each person behaved. Punishment would be no water.

Do you think it would be a good idea to publish that now again, as there are more (though not enough) people who have heard of this. I feel that it is shocking enough to stir people more than before, and I would like to see it published again.

The Proposed Potomac River Basin Compact

HOW AMERICA IS BEING CAPTURED

Rather than fight 50 strong State governments, America has been broken into 22 river-basin systems (see map) that will fragment the States and reassemble them under river-basin commissions whose members will have Americanized names but who will be citizens from another country.

Reservoirs are being placed far up the tributaries surrounded by SCS supporting dams, all taking excessive amounts of land for "parks" and "recreation areas." Flood-plains up to the 500-year level and "river zones," P-Art. 9 will take land along the tributaries. Every river is being nationalized into parks, requiring lots of land eventually. The Master Land Plan, now before Congress, proposes acquisition of deltas, estuaries, wetlands and islands.

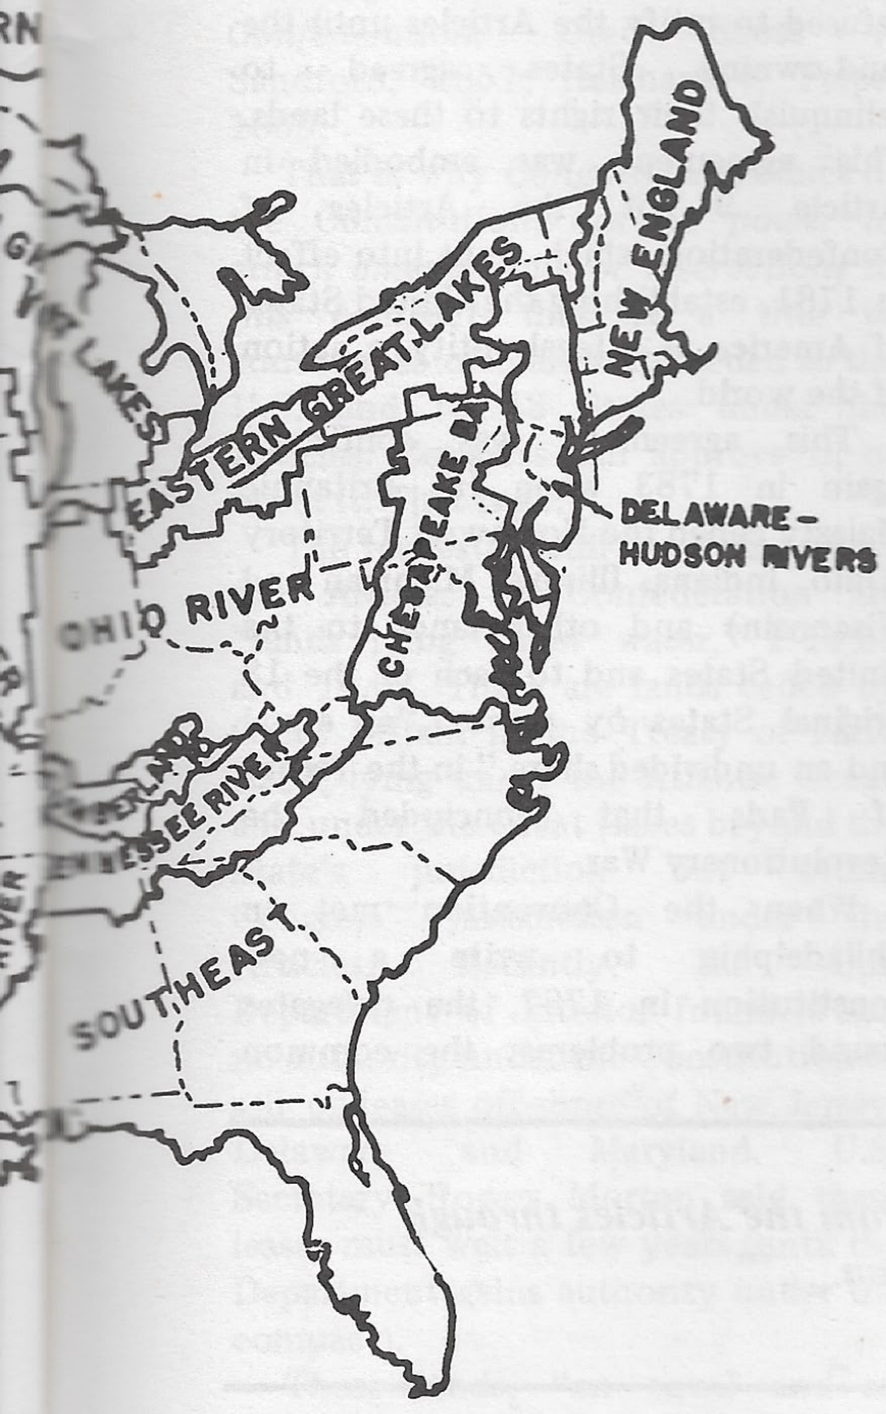
Thus, each river-system goes under foreign control. Susquehanna sources say these will be electrified. This will prevent people from reaching water and force them to obtain "water-use permits" by which the foreign commissioners can control every person, industry, city, sewer, power and water plant, fisheries, and all river, harbor and high seas traffic out of U.S. ports—and world trade.

I. ANOTHER KIND OF GOVERNMENT OF AMERICA

The proposed Potomac River Basin Compact applies to every person in the United States, including YOU.

Groups of persons in the four Potomac River Basin States of Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania have studied this concept since its appearance in 1967 and have compared it with the Delaware and Susquehanna Compacts and with the present Potomac Compact that was signed into law in September, 1970.

WATER RESOURCE REGIONS
These 22 river-basins will replace the States as governments.



This proposed Potomac compact was solved during November-February, 1973.

The Study Groups included several Washington correspondents from the U.S. Senate-House and White House Press Galleries, of which one began coverage in March 1931, who did part of the research; a U.S. Senate legislative assistant who did the political science; professionals in a wide variety of fields who did the evaluation within each context; a professional land-planner who was present at the White House secret meetings; and attorneys in different parts of the country who verified the legal aspects.

Every detail of this paper comes from the four compacts, from congressional hearings, from U.S. Court cases, from "The Interstate Compact Since 1925" and "The Law and Use of Interstate Compacts" written by Frederick L. Zimmerman and Mitchell Wendell, who support the proposed compact, and from State and Federal employees at only the very highest levels.

The proposed compact, itself, contains the proof. It is the first hard proof of the internal capture of the United States by another country. Check it yourself. See the 1968 65-page gold copy or the 1970 45-page gray copy. If you are in the four-basin States, ask your State Legislator to obtain copies or call the Potomac River Advisory Committee, 202-737-6250, or write to 1025 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005. If it took these groups, working together, five years to solve this compact, then how can legislators be expected to understand it in half an hour?

(Reference to the three compacts discussed in this report are coded thus: the proposed Potomac compact, P-1.02; Susquehanna Compact, S-1.02; Delaware Compact, D-1.02).

Proposed compact is a new constitution of America that establishes a different government.

All three compacts have similar provisions, but the same provision means something quite different in the proposed Potomac compact. That is because "the United States," P-1.02 (k), not the "federal government," but the United States, a legal entity, a nation of the world with all of its power and possessions, is a party only to this particular river-basin compact. That changes everything.

The proposed Potomac compact is an interstate compact as is the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation, and the United States Constitution.

Besides "the United States" being a party, "population" is found only in this compact. The primary purpose, "to help meet the essential requirements of the present and future populations of the basin," P-1.04(a), is comparable to the "general welfare" clause of the Constitution. All American lands and property are transferred only to this Potomac Commission.

The power of a legal entity, people, land and property—these factors make the proposed compact a new constitution that establishes another kind of government over America.

Citizens from another country to govern America.

None of the three compacts require the commissioners to take an oath of allegiance to the United States Constitution. Staff members are required to take an oath of office in "such form as the commission shall prescribe," D-14.6; S-15.6; different in Potomac compact.

Commissioners may appoint their successors. D-14.1(b)4, notice 14.5(a); S-15.1(b)4, notice 15.5(a). P-2.07, line 10—"The Commissioners may. . .fix and provide for the. . .appointment. . . of the Commission's officers and employees, and shall appoint the principal officers of the Commission. . ." The principal officers are themselves. This means the public cannot reach them in any way because they will be self-perpetuating.

No citizenship is required. None of the compacts require the commissioners to be citizens of the State, of the basin or of the United States. In the Potomac, P-2.03, the Governor appoints an alternate "from his jurisdiction"; that does not mean citizenship as the alternate could arrive just 5 minutes before.

The staff will not be citizens of America. "In the appointment and promotion of officers and employees, no. . .residence test or qualification shall be permitted, or given consideration." S-15.5(b); D-14.5(b). Pot. Com. make rules.

This lack of citizenship requirements was pointed out 32 times by one person to the compact's supporters and they refused to close this door to outsiders either in the 1968 or 1970 compacts; that means the commissioners and their staff of all three compacts will be—(32 times?)—WILL BE citizens from another country to govern America.

A Governor may think this compact gives him the power to appoint himself a commissioner in perpetuity; not so, not when this door is kept open so adamantly to foreign appointments. Should the Governor be detained by any method from attending a meeting, the alternate "shall act in his place and stead and be deemed a commissioner," P-2.03, who could then appoint his successor. The Governor has power to remove the alternate but he has no power to remove the successor! Think about that.

America will be a colony of another country.

The effect of the numerous river-basin compacts will be to fragment the States and to re-assemble them along drainage lines under these river-basin governments. There will be no "states" to be "united." This proposed compact provides for the re-naming of America. Since the commissioners will be citizens from another country, America will become the colony of another country. (Explained later).

How this compact-constitution by-passes the U.S. Constitution.

The proposed Potomac Compact is a title to conveyance of real estate, including some real estate ceded to the United States and to each of the 13 original States under the Articles of Confederation. On the real estate under the Articles, the compact draws power from the Articles through a "loop-hole" in the Constitution, and by-passes the Constitution, its amending process, its "supremacy clause," and its clause exempting Congress from contracts, except treaties. Congress is blocked in the compact from legislating in the field of the compact, which is America, and the compact rides free and clear over the Constitution as the new Constitution of America.

"The compact draws power from the Articles through a 'loop-hole' in the Constitution. . .'"

Here is the background. In 1774, Great Britain owned Quebec Province and Parliament adopted the Quebec Act that extended the boundaries of that province to the Mississippi River. This Act cut across the claims of Virginia, Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts to that land. The colonies, in a dither, called the First Continental Congress in September.

In the discussion leading to the Declaration of Independence, the "have-not colonies declared that "any unoccupied, undefined territory wrested from a common enemy by the blood and treasure of the 13 united colonies ought to be considered a common property subject to be parceled out by Congress into free, convenient and independent governments."

This discussion became an agreement and was confirmed in the Articles of Confederation when Maryland and other States adamantly refused to ratify the Articles until the land-owning States agreed to relinquish their rights to these lands. This agreement was embodied in Article 9 of the Articles of Confederation which went into effect in 1781, establishing the United States of America as a legal entity, a nation of the world.

This agreement was confirmed again in 1783 when His Britannic Majesty ceded the Northwest Territory (Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin) and other lands to the United States and to each of the 13 original States by names, "an equal and an undivided share," in the Treaty of Paris that concluded the Revolutionary War.

When the Convention met in Philadelphia to write a new constitution in 1787, the delegates found two problems: the common ownership of the lands in the Northwest Territory and the perpetuity set up in Article 9 over these lands.

They solved the land problem by having the Continental Congress, meeting at the same time in New York, establish the Northwest Commission. They solved the "perpetuity" problem by writing all of Article 9 verbatim into the new Constitution to retain some semblance of authority over the Territory. The Committee on Style reduced Article 9 to the language of Article IV, Sec. 3.2 in the Constitution.

"Art. IV, Sec. 3.2: The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State."

This section is the "loop-hole." It has been a clear avenue to the power of the Articles. Court decisions for 80 years have protected and clarified that avenue by ruling that Congress has no authority under the Constitution to change anything done under the authority of the Articles of Confederation. Dred Scott v. Sandford, 1857; Reichart v. Felps, 1868.

That is why Congress, a product of the Constitution, has no power to attach amendments or reservations to this compact that is a title to conveyance of real estate ceded to the U.S. and to 13 States under the Articles. Congress can approve it, or reject it. That is all.

The real estate still remaining under the Articles of Confederation are "lands lying under water," P-14.06 and 14.07. These are lands ceded by Great Britain in the Treaty of Paris, 1783, lying under the Atlantic Ocean and under the Great Lakes beyond the State's jurisdiction but within Congress' jurisdiction under the Articles. Recently, the U.S. Department of Interior found it had no authority under the Constitution to sell oil-leases off-shore of New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland. U.S. Secretary Rogers Morton said these leases must wait a few years (until the Department gains authority under the compact).

These lands, "an equal and an undivided share," belong jointly to the United States and to each of the 13 original States under the Articles. Who can approve this conveyance of title to the proposed Potomac Commission?

U.S. Senate, alone, may have right to approve compact.

Although enabling legislation for the proposed compact may be introduced in both Houses of Congress, it appears the U.S. Senate, as the lineal descendant of the single-bodied Continental Congress under the Articles and as the body under the Constitution in which the 13 original States are guaranteed equal representation, may have the legal power to act as "trustee" to approve this title of conveyance of real estate to the Potomac Commission.

It is also possible that a committee of Senators, one from each of the 13 original States, could adopt this compact legally while the Senate is not in session. The compact's supporters also point out that a concurrent resolution which the President does not sign, could be used to give consent to this compact.

Congress is blocked from destroying the compact

Once adopted, how can Congress be prevented from destroying the compact? The Senate, under the Constitution is NOT bound by contracts, but the Senate acting under the Articles would be bound by contracts. The proposed compact is a real estate contract. If the Senate cannot vote against this contract after it is adopted, then, since both Houses must act to adopt a law, Congress is blocked from destroying the compact or any of its parts or abolishing the commission.

The compact, itself, stops Congress from operating in the compact's field, which is America, by assuring Congress of continuance of its power "except as specifically limited by this compact and except to the extent that (it) conflicts" with the Commission's power. P-15.16.

The proposed compact-constitution then will ride supreme over the U.S. Constitution.

Compact-Constitution is superior to U.S. Constitution.

The compact's supporters cite 8 court decisions that enforce the supremacy of compacts between States over State constitutions, laws and common law wherever they "conflict" or are "inconsistent."

However, the proposed compact containing the essential elements of a constitution would replace the U.S. Constitution wherever the Commissioners desired, but the same logic applied to State constitutions would also make the compact superior to the U.S. Constitution.

Commission supreme over U.S. President, Armed Forces, Treasury, etc.

Because "the United States" is a party, "any office" as stipulated in the Potomac compact includes the Office of the President and the proposed Potomac Commission will be superior to the U.S. Presidency. Reinforced in the compact. Read P-3.05(e) to "regulate any and all. . .activities and services, determined by the Commission to be necessary, convenient or useful."

Congress and State Legislature give up power.

Congress cannot attack the compact at a later date. (P-1.05(b). The "signatories recognize the power and right of Congress at any time by any statute expressly enacted for that purpose to revise the terms of its consent, withdraw the United States as a party, or revise the terms under which the United States may remain a party. . ." Congress cannot hide an attack on the compact in another piece of legislation as this compact hides in attacking the U.S. Constitution. If Congress does, it will be illegal under this section.

Congress and the State Legislatures agree to adopt any legislation the Commission proposes; they agree not to reject it. P-15.17.

Congress and the legislature are forbidden to authorize projects or to appropriate funds, P-12.01(b), unless first approved by the Commission.

UFO NEWSCLIPPING SERVICE

Want to keep up with the real "close encounters?" One excellent way of doing so is with the UFO Newsclipping Service, bringing you UFO reports from the United States and around the world. Since 1969, our Service has obtained newsclippings from an international press clipping bureau, then reproduced them by photo-offset printing for our subscribers. Many fascinating UFO reports (photographs, landing and occupant cases, etc.) are only published in smaller daily and weekly newspapers. Our Service provides these for you, along with wire-service items from Associated Press, United Press International, Reuters and other agencies.

Each monthly issue of the UFO Newsclipping Service is a 20-page report containing the latest UFO accounts from the U.S., England, Canada, Australia, South America and other countires. English tranlations of foreign language reports are also provided.

Let us keep you informed on world-wide UFO activity. For subscription information and sample pages from our Service issues, write today to:

"Total Press Coverage Monthly"

Congress can't withdraw the United States despite assurances because "the United States" disappears. P-1.05(b). Congress and the States cannot amend the compact because no State or the United States will be in existence, despite P-15.18.

Any law that Congress does adopt, the Commission can destroy by issuing a regulation that "conflicts." P-15.16.

Congress cannot revise "the terms and conditions of its consent" because it has no authority under the Constitution to change any aspect of a contract on lands belonging under the Articles.

All Constitutions and laws will continue in place at first.

All Constitutions and State and federal laws will continue in place at first until the Commission gains control of America. P-15.16 assures continued power and authority "except as specifically limited by this compact and except to the extent the exercise of a power by a signatory conflicts with the exercise by the commission of a power vested in it."

This proposed compact establishes a government by a self-perpetuating elite few that ignores the people. The U.S. Constitution is based on the individual and on his rights under law. The two conflict. First to be eliminated will be the Bill of Rights, said the compact's supporters. Then social security laws and pensions, labor laws, all social welfare that fails to control people in industry.

P-15.19, second sentence. No provision of law shall be invalidated (destroyed) "unless such provision is inconsistent with any purposes of this compact."

All Offices will continue at first.

The foreign Potomac Commissioners and their staffs will hide from the people at first behind the present offices including the Presidency, and the other State and Federal offices until they gain control of America. These offices will be blamed by the people for the terrible things these offices will have to do to the people!

The proposed compact authorizes the Commissioners to use existing State and Federal government offices to meet the public and to carry out the Commission's plans and orders, P-3.07; 3.07(b); 5.01(b); 5.02; 5.04; 8.01(b); 8.02; 8.03, last sentence; 8.05; 9.06; 9.07; 12.03; 12.04; 15.02(g); and others.

to enforce the Commission's decisions, 5.04(b); 14.09(e); 15.10(b); 15.13; 15.19 last sentence, and others.

or, to do it themselves until they can find an office that will, if agencies, including the President, refuse to carry out orders, 3.01(c).

Potomac Commission will have Territorial Jurisdiction over America.

Washington, D.C., the seat of the national government, is "within the basin." "Function" is a legal term for "office."

P-2.08. "Territorial Jurisdiction of the Commission. The Commission shall have, exercise, and discharge its functions, powers and duties within the limits of the basin except that it may, in its discretion, act outside the basin whenever such action may be necessary or convenient to effectuate its power or duties within the basin."

Translation: The Commission shall have its offices, exercise its powers and discharge its duties within the basin at Washington except that it may act outside the basin (in the rest of America) to make effective the regulations adopted, or the duties assigned, at Washington within the basin.

(Washington, District of Columbia, a ward of Congress, is the seat of the national government, and it owns 9.1 square miles of the Potomac River. By hiding this new government in the Potomac River Basin Compact, the supporters can take advantage of the District's special political relationships to gain legal control of all America.)

All American lands and property given to the Potomac Commission.

The proposed compact is a title to conveyance of real estate—all American lands and property to the Commission "upon the Commission's request." Under P-14.06, because "the United States" is a party, the federal government conveys all property and real estate—one-third of the United States—all public lands, military bases, national parks, forests, etc.

Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia and Virginia convey all property and lands in State forests, parks, rivers, reservoirs, game lands anywhere in the State. Maryland gave up the Potomac River.

Land lying under water. Besides land under rivers, lakes, etc., this includes the lands given to the United States and to the 13 original States.

Under P-14.07, all other States and Territories as "political sub-divisions" of the United States give up all property and State lands, especially Alaska. All counties, townships and cities, as "political sub-divisions" of the States, give up all property and lands.

The 50 States Replaced

The States are still too strong a governmental unit and it would be too time-consuming and would alarm the people too much to attack them one by one. Instead many river-basin compacts will fragment the States along drainage lines and will re-assemble them under river-basin commissions. (See Water Resource map, pages 48, 49.)

U.S. Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall, now consultant to Governor Shapp of Pennsylvania whose legislature will begin considering this compact almost immediately in 1973, said in 1967: "the States will be broken up into river-basin governments" and that 22 river-basin commissions had been appointed. (Count them).

The commissions can become full governments under the proposed compact because the commissioners may transfer any of their strong powers to another river-basin commission or governmental agency "by agreement," which is a contract when written. P-3.06. Since the commissioners will be citizens of another country, they will insist that the commissioners and their staffs be persons from their block of countries. Thus, will another country assume control of every river-basin across America.

The States will not ratify the proposed Potomac compact-constitution, because virtually every State, especially the 13 original States, have revised their Constitution since 1958 to permit changing the boundary lines or to give local option to local governments, such as counties and townships to choose a new government, who, if they refuse to accept the new river-basin government, won't get water.

Legality of institutions formed under U.S. Constitution endangered.

These are the sources of American power. The Declaration of Independence is the source from which the States draw their power.

The Articles of Confederation, from which the U.S. Senate draws its power, established the United States as a legal entity, a nation of the world.

The U.S. Constitution, to which "we the people of the United States" are a party, established the Bill of Rights, giving equality under law to each citizen, the Presidency,

the U.S. Supreme Court,

the House of Representatives, and

"Another country will assume control of every river-basin across America."

the States, other than the original 13 States.

Because the proposed compact-constitution draws its power from the Articles, and because the Potomac Commissioners from another country are given the power to destroy any constitutional or statutory provision by issuing a regulation that "conflicts," it is only the pleasure of the commissioners that will keep these structures in place for a while.

The power of the U.S. Supreme Court contained in Article 9 may be transferred to the commission in adopting this compact just as supreme court power was given to the Northwest Commission in 1787. Despite the handsome section 15.11, the commissioners will be the court of last resort on their own regulations.

Mayor of Washington D.C. will be Supreme Commissioner of Potomac and America.

Regardless of who may be elected Chairman, the Commissioner-Mayor of Washington, D.C. will be the supreme commissioner because he alone will have veto power over all America. He will represent America and the District of Columbia and Washington, D.C.—and he will be the only commissioner remaining on the Commission to represent the Potomac River Basin. There is no mechanism in the compact for this removal.

This is accomplished in a series of steps by the effect of their designation in the definitions in the compact.

The Mayor becomes a member with full status on the proposed commission. Why must he be made a "governor" when the President's appointee does not have this title? "P-1.02(b)—Commissioner shall mean a member of the Commission. P-102(f)—Governor shall include the commissioner of the District of Columbia."

The Mayor will represent America.

Because the Constitution that established the Presidency will be superseded and because the President remains in office at the whim of the Commission,

he will have no power,

and his appointee will have no power,

and cannot be the Commissioner representing the United States.

The U.S. Senate, acting under the Articles of Confederation as "trustee," is the ONLY body with the power to appoint a representative of "the United States," and their only appointment is the Commissionery-Mayor of Washington, D.C.

The President cannot remove the Commissioner-Mayor from the Commission. Once the compact is adopted, the Mayor becomes the Commissioner automatically. The President has no power under the Constitution to change this appointment made by the Senate under the Articles of Confederation.

The Mayor will have "veto" power over all America. As each State is fragmented into river-basins, the rest of each State automatically becomes part of other river-basins. The Mayor will represent a signatory "state," the District of Columbia, lying within the basin, and he will also carry the power of a signatory, "the United States," which is also a State, lying outside the basin.

"P-2.08 continued: Any exercise by the Commission of its powers outside the basin which affects persons or property outside the basin but within a signatory state (the United States) shall be only with the consent of the commissioner of such state."

The Governors will not remain long on the commission. The refusal 32 times to require citizenship confirms the fact the Governors disappear as they are forced, or their alternates are forced to name successors who will be citizens from another country. The Mayor is the only one whose "state" will not be split into segments and who is likely to remain on the commission.

Under this arrangement, the real power is going to be concentrated in the executive-director, just as it is concentrated now in the Deputy-Commissioner of the District of Columbia. This is a communist technique.

America renamed—and a colony of another country.

"Sec. 1.02(e) Federal Government . . .shall not include the District of Columbia. Sec. 1.02(j) State shall include the District of Columbia." The District has always been considered a part of the federal government but these sections separate it and raises it to statehood. The District has desired statehood for many years but it is unlikely the District is being raised to that kind of statehood when the States are disappearing and there will be no "States" to be "united." The District is being raised to a different kind of statehood, comparable to the United States which is also a "state." This can mean that America, meaning the entire country, is being re-named "The District of Columbia."

Since the commissioners will be citizens from another country with Americanized names, this will mean the country known as "The District of Columbia" will be a colony of that other country.

Consider these ironies.

The compact's supporters copied the pattern used by the Constitutional Convention in 1787 to by-pass the Articles of Confederation.

The Articles were based on the States.

The United States Constitution was based on "we the people of the United States" to by-pass the Articles and its amending process with special election of delegates by the citizens to State Conventions to ratify the Constitution, thus by-passing the jealousy of State Legislatures.

The new Potomac constitution is based on "real estate" to by-pass the United States Constitution and its amending process, with no ratification needed because State Constitutions have already been re-written.

This pattern is carried farther and indicates the supporter's contempt for the American public and their own self-assurance of their superior strength.

When the country obviously was in trouble under the Articles, Virginia took the lead, joined by Maryland, in calling a conference of the States to consider amending the Articles which led to a formal Constitutional Convention that produced the United States Constitution. George Washington was the first President.

This proposed compact was ready to go into one of the basin-State legislatures a full year beforehand but the proponents deliberately waited, and with intentional irony, for the Virginia Legislature to meet, that met at that time every two years; then through the Maryland Legislature, both of whom adopted it in 1970. Walter Washington, the Commissioner-Mayor of Washington, D.C. will be the chief commissioner.

II. HOW INDIVIDUALS AND INDUSTRY WILL FARE.

P-1.02(h). "Person shall mean an individual, partnership, corporation, joint stock company, firm, society, association or other unincorporated organization, receiver, trustee, etc." S-1.2, 12. None in Delaware.

People are a "water resource." It isn't spelled out in any compact because the brutal strength of these compacts would be revealed. Read "people" wherever water resources are mentioned and note the effect. The U.S. Department of Interior uses this criteria.

Bill of Rights eliminated.

The proposed compact contains no protection for the citizen; in fact it specifies search and seizure, secret police, elimination of trial by jury, and the commission will have the right to dispose of any person for no reason and by any method—all useful in handling a wrathful populace on taking control of a country.

No right of trial by jury for crimes.

P-15.13(a). "Any person violating any provision of this compact or regulation of the commission. . .shall be guilty of a petty offense." A petty offense is similar to a hunting violation handled by a game warden without a transcript or jury, BUT 15.13(a) also says "Any violation shall be deemed an offense against the signatory state." That kind of violation is a "crime."

The Constitution provides that "the trial of all crimes. . .shall be by jury." In this proposed new constitution, law enforcement offices "and other persons possessing the power to arrest" (secret police under the foreign commissioners) can fine or jail the violator himself. This section eliminates trial by jury.

Search and Seizure. The Commissioners may "conduct such investigations and inspections as it may deem appropriate to carry out functions," P-3.06(m). Warrants are omitted by not mentioning them.

Secret Police.

Authority to gather information on water resources (people) in political science means "secret police," P-3.05(b). Used with 3.05(m), it means a home or business can be entered legally at any hour, wife and daughters raped, valued possessions taken, especially guns and autos, and the owner won't have the right to protest.

Violations of any compact provision or commission regulation is fined up to $500, P-15.13(a); S-15.17, $1,000; D-14.17, $1,000. Each day is considered a "separate and additional violation." These violations relate more to people and regulations; not so much to pollution. It is designed to drain the population of its cash and negotiable wealth in a hurry.

Commission has the right to kill.

This is different from the Bill of Rights. Normally, the king, council or troika of any government has the abosolute right to dispose of any peson by any means that occurs to them. They have the absolute right of life or death over each person. A constitution can modify that right if it contains a leverage by which the people can enforce their constitution, which the Russian people do not have.

No provisions of any sort protecting the individual or the population as a whole are in the compact and it contains no method by which the people can reach or control the proposed commission. This is how the commission gains the power to enforce euthanasia, an induced death, and abortion laws; they will have the right to kill us and the citizen will not have the right to protest.

The citizen becomes a "thing," a piece of property, in the communist tradition.

All private property will be taken by the foreign commission.

All—repeat all—private property will be "acquired" (condemned) by eminent domain by the Potomac Commissioners who do not need to give a reason. No limitation on condemnation can be found in the proposed compact. All present State and Federal laws on condemnation will not apply as compact's power is superior and a commission regulation destroys any conflicting law.

For the first time in American history, personal property, such as autos, tractors, airplanes, boats, cows, inventories, TV's, radios, GUNS, clothing, furniture, stocks and bonds, etc. P-1.02(d) and 3.05(k); S-1.1,5; D-1.2(e).

Real property, such as farms, homes, land, mines, forests, apartment houses, office and industrial buildings; Art. 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9.

All business, manufacturers and services, regulated into commission ownership. P-3.05, e, j, k, l, m, o, relates to people, not to pollution.

All "public use" industries, such as electric, gas, oil, telephone, newspapers, radio, TV corporations, transportation systems, anything used by people, and what isn't? P-14.09(a).

Commissioners may print money to pay for condemned property.

Only the proposed Potomac compact authorizes the commission to print its own money under the definition for legal tender. P-13.15, but each of the three compacts authorizes each of the three commissions "to issue its bonds in exchange for an existing facility" which "shall mean any real or personal property, within or without the basin, and improvements thereof or thereon, etc." P-13.13; S-13.13; D-12.13, and P-1.02(d).

In plain words, the compact authorizes the Potomac commission to print money and then authorizes all three commissions and any others the commission "contracts," to pay for these condemned properties with these "bonds" at face value which the owner will have to cash on a flooded market for whatever he can get.

Commissioners, alone, may own property.

This is in the tradition of the Communist Party in Russia. While the young members of the Party are given honors and privileges, to insure loyalty to the system, only the top fourth of the Party membership may own private property and may do business with the government, THEMSELVES! This deeply kept secret is the reason one hears the Soviets are turning toward capitalism, and why Gromyko is referred to as a "fabulously wealthy" man.

The proposed compact authorizes ownership in a back-handed fashion. While the commissioners are busy taking all property away from us, the commissioners and their staffs from another country, may own property and may do business with the commission. P-15.05(a)1 stipulates that no commissioner may do any kind of business with the commission "unless pursuant to an award or contract let (by themselves to themselves) after competitive bidding," or provided the terms are approved unanimously by these foreign commissioners to themselves, or if the sale does not exceed the maximum set by the foreign commissioners for themselves.

Commissioners cannot be sued.

While persons violating any provision of the compact or regulation of the commission will be civilly liable, the Commission, itself, cannot be liable for negligence or warranty of its officers, agents and employees if it

American citizens bound to this unbreakable contract—permitting citizens from another country to decide their lives.

"Sec. 1.02(k). Signatures shall mean the States, District of Columbia, and the United States. . ."

Ninety-eight per cent (98%) of the population will be economic slaves. . .

"We the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, etc." made a contract with each other and formed the United States Constitution that established our present government. While the States are parties to this compact-constitution, it is really a contract between the citizens of the United States and the new compact-constitution. When the United States signs, it is the citizens who are binding themselves to this new compact-constitution and authorizing both their government and themselves to turn over all power, lands and property, including themselves as property "upon request" to the proposed commission.

The Potomac compact will be an unbreakable contract of conveyance of America from a retiring government, the United States of America, to a new government, The District of Columbia—operated by citizens from another country.

Are YOU a traitor?

When any legislator votes for this compact, he is agreeing that each one of his constituents should give up every right of citizenship to become a "thing," a piece of property to be managed and disposed of, at the whim of a "self-perpetuating elite few," the Potomac commissioners from another country who have never had the experience of "personal freedom" and who are used to terror as a way of life.

That legislator will be a traitor to his constituents and to the people of the United States and to its Constitution.

Potomac Compact Government is most similar to Russia's.

America has to be captured because the success of its citizens under this government is a major embarrassment to every communist country. They want to capture America legally so they can say to the world, "the American people voted for our kind of government"—a great psychological coup that would cower every free country.

This compact is part of an argument that began thousands of years ago. It is "a government operated by a 'self-perpetuating elite few' which is best for the people. No, the people are happier when they paticipate in their government and are educated to enjoy life and to make wise decisions."

Historically, socialist Plato spoke for the "elite few" countered by Aristotle; Alexander Hamilton proposed plans implementing the "elite few" concept that has descended through the Republican Party to this day, countered by Thomas Jefferson who spoke for the citizen and education. Today, the largest newspapers and television corporations permit no opposition to the "elite few" concept.

How Americans will live under the compact.

Communism, designed by Marx and Lenin to overthrow an industrial economy which it has never done, was changed by Stalin who designed "comprehensive land-planning" in 1921 to take control of property without paying for it and "regional governments" in 1950 to usurp and overcome the power of local governments, just as the river-basin commission will destroy the States, and by Khruschev, who established the Communist Party as a "self-perpetuating elite few" shadow government within Russia. They insured continuing loyalty by allowing only 2% of the population to become members who are given honors and privileges in the lower ranks but top fourth, who is the very government, may own property and do business with the government, themselves—just like the compact.

The other 98 percent are economic slaves.

The government (themselves) forbids travel by requiring permits; prices autos, parts and repairs high to prevent ownership and flight, but local transportation is kept cheap or free. The government controls the people by a lack of news, either foreign or in their own districts, which isolates them from the world and from each other.

No houses are built for individual families, only apartments which are assigned, not selected, and an unmarried person, regardless of his age must live with his parents. Choice of consumer goods is made scarce by high prices or plentiful by low prices, but these goods can be obtained only at government (themselves) stores.

Women are kept in the work-force by abortion, legal in every communist country. Those men, women and children who CAN'T work because of physical or mental deformities or old-age are put to death by euthanasia. Political objectors go to prison, Siberian slave-labor camps or to mental institutions.

A trip through Russia in September 1971 revealed this Russian generation does not understand the meaning of "personal freedom," never having had it. A person is a "thing," a property of the government to be managed and disposed of as the government desires, said one who had just escaped.

What Americans give up under the compact.

Just as the Christian faith is based on the individual and his rights and responsibilities, so is the United States Constitution based on the individual and his equal rights under law.

The Constitution established a liberal government concerned with the welfare of the majority while the minorities have the right to make their needs known, that is in steady revolution with the continuous inflow of youth and ideas and that is flexible enough to meet the needs of the people but kept under control by a system of checks and balances. The Constitution was limited as the State and the people retain to themselves all powers not expressly given to the federal government.

The citizen still has freedom of choice of where to live, to work and whether for himself or another, to travel and how often, to go to school (in spite of busing), and where and when to vacation. He is free to reach any heights his ability, ambition and training warrant. Free education is essential. This huge American brain-pool and trained know-how are two of America's most valuable resources.

Freedom permits the citizen to explore, invent, create, and develop how he has done it. This is expansion, still going strong, that requires more and more workers, engineers, lawyers, etc. This decision-making by many executives prevents complete failure by any one industry or farm-area.

The whole freedom of choice is built on "hope," all the way through American life. Expansion is built on hope that the product will sell. The entire economy with its "buy now, pay later" philosophy, done principally in America, is based on hope. Any psychological injury to "hope" depresses the market and the economy.

The American system, with its Bill of Rights, choice of candidates, secret ballot, lack of secret police, affords the greatest personal security and freedom—never appreciated until lost. An individual is a "person" and must be adult to move in this society.

These absolutely opposite theories of government are the key to the proposed Potomac compact. Everything conflicts: every protective law and right will go.

Socialism-Communism in the United States.

The first colonists were socialists by necessity; communism was practiced occasionally by small communities throughout American history; liberalism started in New England colleges in the 1600's in protest to the strictness of the Pilgrim's religion. Later, professors turned to communism and they are turning out each graduating class adjusted to agree to the next step toward internal capture of the United States—though most graduates don't realize it. The propaganda is simple and appeals to every good-hearted person. It is "to make the world a better place" and to have "peace": except that their method of achieving it is totalitarian.

Communism has always flourished among sons of well-to-do parents studying under some disgruntled professors. The grandfather of one author came out of Yale in the 1870's proclaiming the liberal lines heard today: one father came out of the University of Pennsylvania in the 1900's an ardent Populist. In this group of sons are Marx, Lenin, Stalin, Mao, Chou En-lai and Castro.

Social thought is based on two works: Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations," published in 1776, that contained the germ of virtually every economic system, and "An Essay on Population," by T.R. Malthus, a young minister, in 1798. Ever since, theories and movements of all sorts grew in France, Germany, England and Spain simultaneously, but the movements were strongest in France, Russia and America.

Research reveals that the rudiments of a Master Land Plan to capture America internally apparently was mapped about 1885 shortly after staffs were furnished congressional committees. The first success was legislation in 1890, authorizing condemnation of lands other than for roads; the Weeks Law of 1911 that took forest lands for part of the EASTERN BARRIER; taking control of the U.S. Senators away from States and the income tax that usurped some of the State's power in 1913, with additional successes through the 1920's.

In 1933, the head-on assault of America began with Franklin D. Roosevelt and his horde of college professors. These men were two breeds, the collectivist-socialists and the international-communists, who considered themselves superior to the Democratic Party. They were determined the government should own and manage the country and that America should give away trade advantages, industries, money, economic "know-how" to other countries. Anything to make America weaker. Very few programs since 1933 are based on the best interest of America. While every program had some merit, or could be made to appear to have merit, its hidden purpose was to promote the internal capture of the United States.

Agriculture was put under crop controls with payments on a percentage basis so large-acreage farmers bought up small farmers; now agri-business is favored, which will make condemnation of all farmlands into national ownership easier. Communications, transportation, securities and power all received controls. The working-man was left to the Unions to round up. Now, the Unions face annihilation because they will interfere with the Potomac commissioners in control of the population (in compact). Statistics were revised back in 1920 and 1900 to justify these strange federal programs.

The communist-socialists (all the same) follow certain rules. "To install new ideas or a new government, history and precedent must be broken." That is why communists always kill off 20% of the population upon capturing a country, usually government and community leaders, farmers, and especially the socialists who know all their tricks and would fight them.

In 1933, every chief and assistant chief, all the way down to section and sub-section heads of the entire American government was fired. Roosevelt cleaned the government of knowledge of problems and of techniques being used to solve them. The leftists came down from Capitol Hill, Harvard Law School and college professors for the first time moved into senior positions; many avoided Civil Service investigations by entering through a Senator's intercession or on "loan" from a non-Civil Service agency, and later, as "consultants." They are the "shadow government" that pushed their buddies into higher and higher positions, that block information going up to, or orders coming down from the President that would annul any part of the Plan of Capture. There hasn't been a house-cleaning since 1933.

Another communist rule was practiced. "Hurry, hurry, keep the pressure on" the legislators. That false pressure, enforced then by the many legislative proposals pouring into Congress to ease the depression, enforced today by multitudes of proposals from economic, social, land and resource planners, has never been allowed to ease psychologically. Forty years later America is maintained in the same psychological depression. This occurs only because the government is trying to OWN America. Legislators are allowed no time to think through the effects of a bill on the people or the economy. While depression times were bad (one author was covering Congress then), the country was sound and would have recovered.

Numbers were added to the communists' groups by emigrants from Russia in 1905 when any government seemed better than the Czar's and most of whom ceased to be communists under the American experience; by the influx of Jewish emigrants from Hitler's persecution in 1938, many of whom went into federal offices, were tossed out during McCarthy's probes in 1952, who are now professors in American universities and who appear before congressional committees in support of giving lands and resources to the United Nations. Refugees from the 1956 Hungarian episode had communists among them, who went to American universities, came out land-planners and executive-directors and are spotted around the country in crucial land-planning and executive posts.

In the early 1950's a major psychological coup occurred that makes one wonder whether it was staged on purpose by the communists to make people shut up. The McCarthy trials probed people rather than programs and was forced to grow into a witch-hunt. The chief counsel was Senator Robert Kennedy. This witch-hunt made "communism" a very dirty word.

Meanwhile, white anglo-saxon, protestants (WASPS) were ridiculed, most likely because studies showed they, with 700 years of protest behind them, would fight these new river-basin governments. The "military-industrial complex" was attacked for the same reason in 1958.

Every component group within American society was made aware of the injustice done to each of them and isolated into positions. They are the negroes, minority groups, the churches who are being reorganized, combined and weakened for elimination, and women. They enticed into support other groups who were traveling their road, the socialists, those who see the U.S. as the "Zion" for their people but who should be the chief defenders of the American system of government as it offers their greatest safety, Quakers, international bankers, scientists and cartels, corporation executives who believe that America should be run as a corporation, extremely wealthy families through their foundations—all are promoting this internal capture—but all are not communists.

III. THE MASTER PLAN OF THE UNITED STATES.

In 1956-57, a small number of government planners—economists, social, land and resource, and legal—were called to the West Executive Office of the White House, sworn to secrecy, and ordered to carry out the plans by a college professor in federal employ. No elected person was present. The plans have been, and are being, carried out, regardless of the Party in office.

The professor said the plan is to "meet the needs of the Year 2,000" and outlined a new government based on pollution because pollution is "so obnoxious the people will accept a strong dictatorial government."

The population, he said, would be concentrated on the Coastal Plains between the mountains and seashores on both the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, the Great Lakes, and in certain regions of Texas, Louisiana and Florida. Light consumer-type industry and service businesses such as laundries, etc., would be allowed but farms would be banned.

The mountains would be reserved for "recreation" and would be taken into government ownership for "conservation of these lands while we can still get them." Farms and people would be banished, he said.

All natural resources would be government-owned, he said. Forests, mines, land, water, oil and gas found especially in these mountains and in the shores and offshores of the Oceans and Gulf would be sought.

Why should a "recreation plan" include mines and farms? Notice Map 14, submitted by Pennsylvania in 1965, that adopted Project 70 to match the federal grant of money. It has mines and reduces the State's billion-dollar agri-business to a few counties in the path of population pressures. Four areas are in the BARRIER; about 20 counties are in the CONCENTRATION CAMP. Subsequent maps refine the 1965 map but do not change it.

In 1967, Secretary Udall told a Congressional committee that all States had submitted maps "which would change the face of America." In 1968, the Fund Act was amended to provide funds for land-acquisition from the sale of gas and oil leases on the Outer Continental Shelf. U.S. Secretary of Interior Rogers Morton said in 1971 that $6 Billion have accrued from these sales.

PENNSYLVANIA STATE PLANNING BOARD

In 1959, the Senate authorized the Select Committee on National Water Resources under Senator R.S. Kerr, Okla. Their report led to the National Water Resources Planning Act of 1965, to establishing of the Water Resources Council in 1965 and to the National Water Commission in 1968. It proposed construction of reservoirs, acquisition of flood-plains, control of air, water and solid pollution which will eliminate farms and manufacturers, continuation of cloud-seeding, appointment of County Planners, re-alignment of river-basins with electric-power grid systems with a single nation-wide MASTER Switch, and contrary to the U.S. Constitution, gave authority to the Secretary of Interior to appoint river-basin commissions to which the Potomac Commission can transfer power that will fragment the States and will install this new national government—which implements the White House Plan.

In 1964, Congress authorized the Federal Public Land Law Review Commission to review more than 3,000 land and resource laws. By the commission's handling of persons who now own these lands and mines at public hearings, it became obvious that the Commission was developing policy guidelines in advance to govern these resources when all private property would be publicly owned—thus implementing the White House Plan. The Commission made its recommendations in 1970 in their report "One-Third of the Nation's Land" and proposed a Master Land Plan. Although the White House Master Land Plan was already implemented, Interior wanted the sanction of Congress and sent a Master Land Plan bill to the Hill that failed to pass in 1972; Interior held conferences on the Plan bill throughout America in February preparatory to adoption in the new 93rd Congress. The bill ignores industry and people but would take wetlands, deltas, estuaries and islands—thus implementing the White House Plan.

Government. In 1958, a Potomac River Basin Compact based on pollution appeared that became law in 1970 and gave strong powers over every Country in the Basin to the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River. It acted as a stalking-horse for the second Potomac River Compact, also based on pollution, that appeared in 1967. A revised version, also based on pollution, that hides this new government of America, appeared in 1968; was adopted by Virginia and Maryland in 1970—thus implementing the White House Plan.

Industry would be nationalized by a variety of techniques, he said. Both crops and industries would be given to the county that could produce them most efficiently, he said. American industry already had been encouraged to spread out abroad but foreign firms would be encouraged to own American property and to enter the American market.

The mid-West would be devoted to 50,000-100,000 acre government-owned cooperatives farmed by a very few persons and devoted entirely to wheat and meat, he said.

The federal government, he said, would be reorganized into a few service corporations. And he said much more.

Implementation of White House Plan.

Beginning in 1958, Congress set up three commissions that recommended new bureaus and councils and adoption of more than 100 laws by 1970 on pollution, environmental control, planning, water and land-acquisition for many purposes, whose HIDDEN EFFECT is to complete concentration of the population into 3 or 4 geogrpahical locations, wipe out farms to control the people by permits for water and imported food in these CAMPS and to complete seashore and mountain BARRIERS around the CAMPS.

The White House Plan proceeded, step by tiny step, a bit in one law, a bit in a later law. Action on the BARRIER programs is waiting on adoption of this compact for fear of awaking the people before it is legal.

In 1958, Congress authorized the Nation-wide Outdoor Recreation Review Commission under Laurance Rockefeller that submitted its recommendations in 1962. In 1963, so that a future President cannot dismantle it, Congress adopted P.L.88-29 establishing the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation within the U.S. Department of Interior, and requiring preparation of a Nation-wide Outdoor Recreation Plan every 5 years. In 1964, Congress adopted the Land and Water Conservation Act of 1965 that made BOR a traffic cop between Federal and State agencies on land-acquisition and that gave matching grants to States PROVIDING the State Plan met Secretary Udall's approval. This means the MASTER LAND PLAN OF THE UNITED STATES TO CAPTURE THE UNITED STATES INTERNALLY WAS ALREADY MAPPED—and each State had to adjust their Plan to it—thus implementing the White House Plan.

In 1958, reorganization of the federal government into a few service corporations began when the U.S. Post Office Department closed offices and broke up mail routes based on traffic and had all mail sent to a central sorting office in each State. By this means information can be controlled and 38 letters failed to reach their destination. AMTRAK, a Russian-sounding name, has been set up for railroads. Agriculture, Forest Service and the Army Engineers are being transferred to Interior—all implementing the White House Plan.

Industries given to other countries are watches; shoes to Italy, Spain and South America; soy beans to India, despite the increase in production here; vegetable crops to Mexico; tobacco, probably to Egypt and Iran; fisheries to Russia in 1944 when America gave two ocean-going canning and freezing ships and 95 smaller ships for nothing, then opened the doors to foreign fishing in 1945; now is trying to open harbors and bays to foreign fishing by making them "international waters"; now, a joint Senate Interior-Commerce Committee is trying to give our resources-rich Continental Shelf to the United Nations—thus implementing the White House Plan.

Vacant Barriers

When Federal or State agencies take land for any purpose, the people are moved off the land. It is vacant. Such a mountain area, 70 to more than 100 miles wide—impenetrable and patrolled, is in fact a BARRIER—a VACANT BARRIER—that will confine the population, regardless of sugar-coating the condemnation as "reserving the mountains" for recreation.

Both ocean shores and the mountains contain natural resources, forests, coal, minerals, oil and gas off-shore of the Pacific, Gulf, Atlantic and the New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland coasts, which Secretary Morton planned to lease until he found these lands are under the Articles of Confederation.

While Americans were banned from communist countries, under the Fulbright Plan, by a curious coincidence the writers found that geologists and other resource people from communist-bloc countries have been stationed at various colleges in the Appalachians under the Fulbright Plan studying these resources. The Russian Embassy brings them into Washington for conferences from time to time. One must believe this study is preparatory to moving out these resources at once when the commissioners and their staffs from another country take control of America, for the Russians do not respect a satellite's resources.

Location: Seashores—while these barriers may prevent desperate people from escaping by sea, the real purpose is to take the coastal gas and oil deposits away from the States by acquisition of "lands under water," P-14.06, 14.07, and by denial of transit across federal lands. From Maine to Florida, from Mexico to Canada, shore lands are already in State and Federal control, authorized or about to become law.

Mountain barriers are the Cascades and High Sierras on the Pacific Coast and half of the Appalachians on the Atlantic Coast, already in government ownership. (A Rand-McNally bas-relief map, $6.00, at the Washington, D.C., office will explain the concentration camps and barriers at a glance.)

50 million acres needed.

These acres are needed to complete the East Coast BARRIER. These are the mountains of Virginia, including the Shenandoah Valley, virtually all of West Virginia, western Maryland, vast amounts of Pennsylvania, through New York State to the St. Lawrence River. Much of this acreage is in State and Federal ownership now. For comparision purposes, Pennsylvania is 28.4 million acres and West Virginia, 15 million acres.

Millions of acres of mountain and seashore barriers are already in State and Federal control.

Acquisition of this acreage will start immediately after the Potomac compact becomes law. Funds for getting this land are being made available under the Weeks Act of 1911 as amended, Act of August 3, 1956, special acts for special areas, i.e. wilderness and national recreation areas, the hidden Appalachian funds, the $6 billion from gas and oil off-shore leases, and the confiscatory powers within the compact that can print its own money.

"The mountains will be vacant."

People around Chambersburg, Pa., still remember when Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, then Secretary of the Pennsylvania State Department of Forests and Waters, told a public audience in 1961 that the "mountains west would be vacant and that land would be taken to the legal boundaries of town" that would die an economic death as is done in Western States. He served on the Nation-wide Outdoor Recreation Review Commission, the Appalachian Commission, the river-basin commissions and on the Federal Public Land Law Review Commission.

A U.S. Labor Department economist, a graduate of the London School of Economics, who designed the BARRIER, told one writer that any county with a population of 50,000 or less in the 1960 Census was put in the BARRIER. When questioned about moving so many persons out of a county, the retort was "What's 50,000: That's not much to move." Both Altoona, Pa., and the Shenandoah Valley have moved in, moved out, moved into the Barrier Plan. The Shenandoah becomes the Cumberland Valley in Franklin County, Pa., where the valley will be blocked by the proposed Shady-Grove reservoir north of Chambersburg.

A U.S. Department of Interior contingent met with Virginia congressmen and their staff assistants in 1966-68 to explain the Potomac Basin plan and outlined to them the "huge acreages they planned to take in Pennsylvania" but said nothing about the Shenandoah, Penna., congressmen who were not invited.

Edward P. Cliff, Chief of the U.S. Forest Service, said in 1969 that the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation wanted the Service to take 50 million acres along the Applalachians. "You know I can't do that," he said.

Several congressmen, tied to these commissions, also said in 1968-69 that "50 million acres" will be acquired.

Mr. G. Douglas Hofe, Director, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, in charge of the traffic on land-acquisition, told 2 Washington correspondents in 1971, of which a writer was one, that BOR was pressing the Forest Service for "50 million acres" in the Appalachians.

Shortly after this, BOR pressed again; the Forest Service refused; Secretary Morton sent the dispute to the White House; the Chief of the Forest Service retired in the summer of 1972; the new Chief would not be appointed unless he had agreed to acquisition of these lands, either to the White House or privately to the Secretary of Interior, since the Forest Service is scheduled to be transferred to Interior.

Acquistion in Pennsylvania.

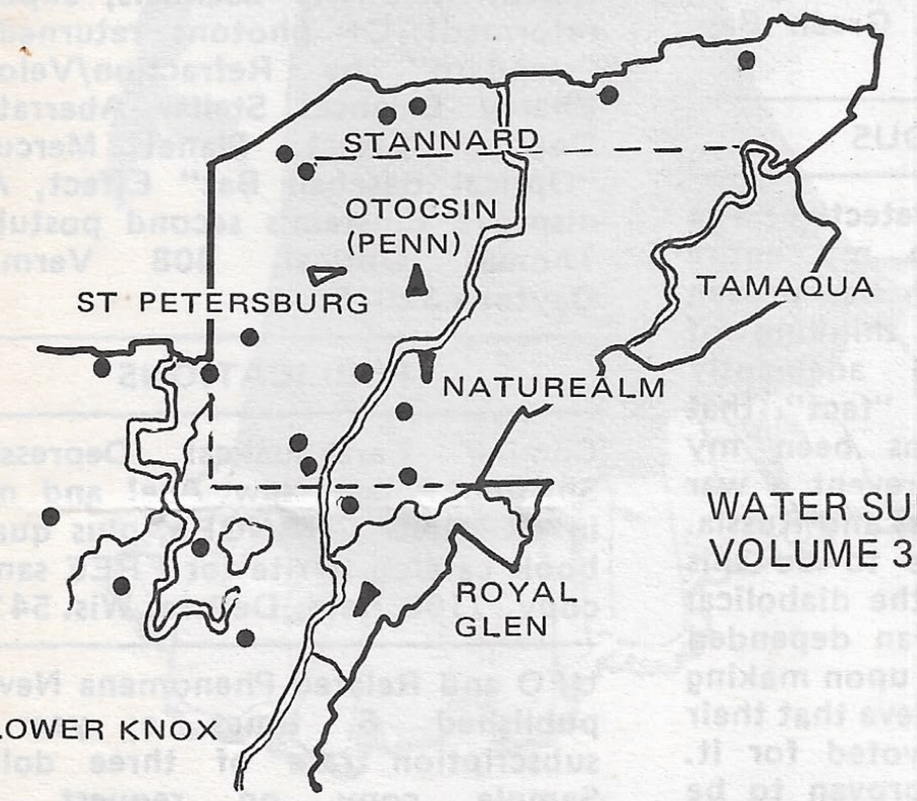
In Pennsylvania, the areas proposed for acquisition on Map 14 include State and Federal Vacationlands, River Valley and Lake Front, Extensive Urban Parks and possible the coal mine regions. Private Vacationlands embrace the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area and Tocks Island Reservoir. "Private lands" are a joke because under the Potomac compact only the commissioners from another country may own property.

Map 14 surrounds the BARRIER counties with Extensive Urban Parks so the people won't realize until too late that the mountains are vacant and are a barrier.

The 1970 Pennsylvania Recreation Plan states that all lands between U.S. 219, 15, 6 and Interstate 80 will be taken for wilderness and primitive areas.

The Appalachian Commission details the Appalachian highlands (notice how they fit Map 14) and proposes three recreation complexes. (What are their resources?) 1. All of Bradford and part of Tioga. 2. Most of Huntingdon, part of Perry, Juniata, Mifflin and Centre. 3. Part of Fayette and Somerset.

The Army Engineers usually take 4 to 5 times the amount of land they first propose. Notice the Army map that contains the Raystown reservoir and "Natuream" that fits the "barrier" on Map 14.



Army map — Notice "naturealm" follows Map 14.

Appalachia down-graded.

Beginning in 1961, all of Appalachia was made aware of its problems and down-graded psychologically. For 40 years federal funds of the right kind have been channeled sparingly into this region despite the Appalachian Commission, which, perhaps unknowingly, was pushed through Congress as part of the apparatus to clear the mountains. Some Congressmen and most Land planners believe that if the people do not earn a certain amount of money, they should be removed from the land. They do not know, perhaps can't know, that a person can live quite well in the country with a small amount of cash. Roads were built that go nowhere and the Appalachian Commission was severely criticized by the U.S. Accounting Office several years ago for this "wasteful practice." Funds, now, are doled out according to population, which seems fair at first thought, but the concentrated counties become more populous and the other regions grow poorer. The loose techniques of the 1970 Census in the Appalachians will appear to justify this land acquisition. Heavy cloud-seeding all along the Appalachians from Georgia to Vermont, see map, began in 1958, causing drought to drive out farms, drive down land prices and to gain public support for Army reservoirs.

Forecast: Small towns will be cleared, larger towns left to die as roads are cut. The few interstate roads that cross either the Rockies or Appalachians will have check-points. The mountain barrier will be electrified and patrolled by airplanes with sensors that can sort human from animal heat under the forest cover. The mountains will be vacant, making a Barrier to confine the populations to the Atlantic and Pacific Coastal Plains.

Concentration Camps.

When people are first encouraged and then forced—to locate in a specific land area between barriers—VACANT BARRIERS, it is a CONCENTRATION CAMP.

Location: The entire Atlantic and Pacific Coastal Plains are two camps. The cities along the Great Lakes to Pittsburgh will be controlled by man-made means. Smaller areas are along the Mississippi, in Texas and Florida.

In 1958, federal programs on urban renewal gutted the inner cities where police for generations had concentrated the known and hardened criminals into certain blocks. Tearing down their dwellings scattered these criminals like dandelion-seed throughout the city beyond the knowledge of the police, where they gave instruction on crime to juveniles. War industries and labor recruiting during World War II started the inflow of people. Later, lax requirements for city citizenship and high welfare payments brought a continuing flow of poor people into the inner cities where block after block was "busted" to gain the high rental prices per slum room from these unfortunate people. The crime, taxes and busted blocks forced the city people to the suburbs that took farms for housing developments.

County Planners: A county will know it is in the CONCENTRATION CAMP if it was required to hire a county planner since 1965 when the Water Resources Planning Act of 1965 was adopted. His job is to pave each county in the CAMP with sewers and people. Now, federal low-cost housing programs propose to plant inner-city people in the suburbs "where the jobs are." The housing is designed for the people being forced out of the BARRIER COUNTIES to the CAMP counties without homes or jobs. The planners may not even know it.

Farms are being destroyed in the CAMP counties by government acquisition of lands for reservoirs, marshes, parks, etc.; by permitting access to the farmer's income tax returns; by inflation as a farmer is the only one who buys retail and sells wholesale; by adverse federal land and crop programs; and by "cloud-seeding." The cloud-seeding map relates most closely to the CONCENTRATION CAMP areas. Ten federal offices and a $2 billion private seeding industry not governed by any federal law or enforceable State law, seed at will. The seeders can't create much rain, only by stealing from adjacent counties; but they can create cloudbursts 150 miles or more distant. They created floods by seeding—Hurricane Agnes in Pennsylvania; Camille in Virginia, in Florida and Rapid City, N.D. to make federal programs, such as flood-plains, seem necessary, to make farmers willing to take low prices for land or to make reservoirs seem needed.

A bill proposed "travel permits" between cities was laughed out of the Pennsylvania State Legislature in the Fall, 1969. The American auto industry is under subtle harrassment from federal environmental bureaus and the compact can condemn autos to prevent flight. The oil industry also is being attacked.

Water: In 1959, the National Water Committee revamped the 18 river basins outlined by the Army Engineers in the early '30's into 22 basins. See map. In 1968, Secretary of Interior Udall said commissions had been appointed for each basin. The water plan, of reservoirs, ostensibly is designed to flush pollution of coastal cities and to cool extremely hot water from nuclear power plants. Both plans are dubious as a Johns Hopkins University study of 16 reservoirs proposed for the Potomac said that 3 times more water would be needed and that Washington, D.C. should clean the pollution where it is made.

The nation's electric system has been pushed into grids that match roughly the Army's system of river-basins with a single nation-wide Master Switch, according to congressional hearings, which means the United States can be thrown into chaos by any foreign hand. Sources on the Susquehanna Commission leaked information that every bit of this river system will be electrified. The false Great Electric Failure (also in hearings) a few years ago and the denial of coal to create a power shortage indicates that additional power is needed to barricade water and BARRIERS.

Call For Louis Peace, Detective. The most exciting event in my entire lifetime, an event which has proven clearly the dull-witted thinking of those who have so adamantly proclaimed the alleged "fact" that "war is inevitable", has been my successful attempt to prevent a war between the United States and Russia. It was possible for me to do this because the success of the diabolical Potomac River Basin Plan depended entirely upon its secrecy, upon making the American people believe that their fellow Americans had voted for it. When the illusion was proven to be false, because I twice came on the Ray Briem show and exposed its fallacy, the jig was up. Ray Palmer's editorial for November, 1978, is a perfect answer to those who believe that violence will cease by itself, and that its ceasing needs no assist from specialists like Dr. Frederic Wertham: "In our November, 1975 issue, we published the astounding Potomac River Basin Compact, which outlines a takeover of the country on a regional basis leaping over (and destroying) the Constitution as a legal form of government. This issue created such a sensation, and resulted in such a demand for extra copies, (some people ordered hundreds!) that we had to reprint."—Ray Palmer (Brenton Van Court).

ENJOY THE MUCH BELOVED MARIE CORELLI BOOKS!

ARDATH

Here is a book that places reincarnation in the most straightforward and fascinating light ever woven into a novel.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

A ROMANCE OF TWO WORLDS

Marie Corelli was perhaps the greatest psychic writer of them all. In this novel she treats the world of the spirit, and its relationship to we who are in the world of the living.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

BARABBAS

The story of Barabbas, who betrayed Christ, and what happened to him. Like all men are destined to, he worked out his own salvation.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

INNOCENT

A tale of love—the love of an innocent girl in whose imagination there was much of fancy; but when she faced "his fact", her love was subjected to a bitter test.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

MASTER CHRISTIAN

This is the famous book in which the author draws together the threads of psychic science expressed in preceding volumes. In it she depicts Christ as a child, visiting the world as it is today and sorrowfully observing the wickedness which men practice in His name. This is a massive book crammed with esoteric lore.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

THE SORROWS OF SATAN

Perhaps the most unusual in its "mystic" content of all Marie Corelli's philosophical novels.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

THE SOUL OF LILITH

In this book the author shows how close is the link between life before death and life after death.

($3.50 plus postage and handling)

TEMPORAL POWER

A tremendous tale of a King and his two passions—for the women he loved and for power. Both came to a tragic end, but both reached into a mystic realm that brought a strange denouement.

VENDETTA

A tale of a vendetta toward a vengeance so terrible that even the dead recoil from its horror. Yet, a tale of justice and retribution as it must come to all those who challenge the right.

WORMWOOD

"And the name of the star is called WORMWOOD: and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died in the waters, because they were made bitter." Revelation VIII, 12. Here is the author's most tragic and compelling novel of man's weaknesses and his moral destiny.

ZISKA

A story of reincarnation. The problem of a wicked soul. For the sins he committed, the gods must judge him. But befitting a warrior, Amenhotep, the King, gives him honor—until he faces the woman he wronged!

A Photo Album of the Flying Tigers- 14 Air Force in China

China is in the news again after years of silence. Here in pictures is the story of an exciting era. The patriotism and adventure exhibited by the American Volunteer group has rarely been matched in our history when they unselfishly helped the Chinese in their desperate plight.

This look backward may give you an understanding of the Chinese today.
